THE CELL

Rated R - Running Time: 1:47 - Released 8/18/00

One hardly knows where to begin in describing The Cell, the freshman feature film effort from both writer Mark Protosevich and director Tarsem Singh. Everyone knows it's freaky and surrealistic, and I love an acid trip as much as the next guy, but I was impressed with it from a technical standpoint as well. Singh's use of color and contrast provides a stunning visual impact which is noticeable from the very beginning, and this is subtly accented by the use of different film stocks for the "real" and "surreal" portions of the movie. The costume and visual effects people are definitely going for the awards here, as well as makeup and art direction, and Paul Laufer's cinematography is richly detailed.

Story wise, The Cell is quite effectively disturbing. Protosevich's script borrows heavily from The Silence Of The Lambs, with Singh adding the dreamlike imagery of Altered States. The plot centers around a new "neurological synaptic transfer system," a process which allows one person to enter the mind of another — kind of like the Vulcan mind meld — through a never-clearly-explained combination of drugs and electronics. And it is the way psychotherapist Catharine Deane (Jennifer Lopez) gets in the head of comatose serial killer and former child abuse victim Carl Stargher (Vincent D'Onofrio).

The process, developed by Dr. Miriam Kent (Marianne Jean-Baptiste) and Henry West (Dylan Baker), is still in the experimental stages when it becomes needed to help solve a serial murder case. Just before the FBI, led by agent Peter Novak (Vince Vaughn), breaks into his home, Stargher goes into a coma. This helps greatly in the process of apprehending him, but there's only one problem: his latest victim (Catherine Sutherland) is still imprisoned somewhere in his secret underground fully automated water-tight glass cell which will, without any input necessary from its comatose designer, automatically begin filling with water and eventually drown her while videotaping the spectacle from several different angles. (I saw one of those at a yard sale once.) This is so that after she's dead, Stargher can dress her up as a doll and act out his perverse fantasies as usual. Peter's idea is to allow Catharine to take a trip into the dark recesses of Stargher's crippled mind and ascertain the whereabouts of the girl so that she may be saved. What no one expects is for her to get lost in there.

There is no use attempting to describe what is found on Catharine's journey; the imagery defies words and the psychology defies explanation. But it is a memorable showcase of cinematic ingenuity, at once beautiful and horrific, with D'Onofrio and Lopez playing several different versions of their characters. Howard Shore's original music is also memorable, utilizing stark chords to emphasize the unreal quality of the settings. There is no doubt that the effects are the star of this picture (the "real-world" segments at times become quite tedious in comparison to the "dream sequences"), but D'Onofrio proves that his performance as the bug-wearing-an-Edgar-suit in Men In Black was no fluke. Lopez and Vaughn are adequate in much less challenging roles.

Some may categorize The Cell as another visual effects showcase with an anemic plot, but I daresay it has enough substance to make a splash, thanks in no small part to its well-timed delivery during the August dregs. Singh and Protosevich have acquitted themselves ably in their joint debut, and D'Onofrio has added an impressive credit to his resumé. ★★★★½

MLP Man Jailed For Six Months After Conviction

A Mtn. Lake Park man who had entered a "not guilty" plea to a second degree assault charge was nonetheless convicted and sentenced to jail as a result of a recent Garrett County District Court proceeding.

Timothy Allen Welch, 35, was handed a six-month jail term by Judge Ralph Burnett, who presided over the domestic-related criminal hearing. Welch was exonerated of an additional charge of violation of an ex parte order.

Welch's May arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he hit his girlfriend in the face during the course of an argument at the Sciote Street residence they shared. An intoxicated Welch had reportedly grown angry and disorderly when he had arrived home to find one of their young children asleep in bed with the woman.

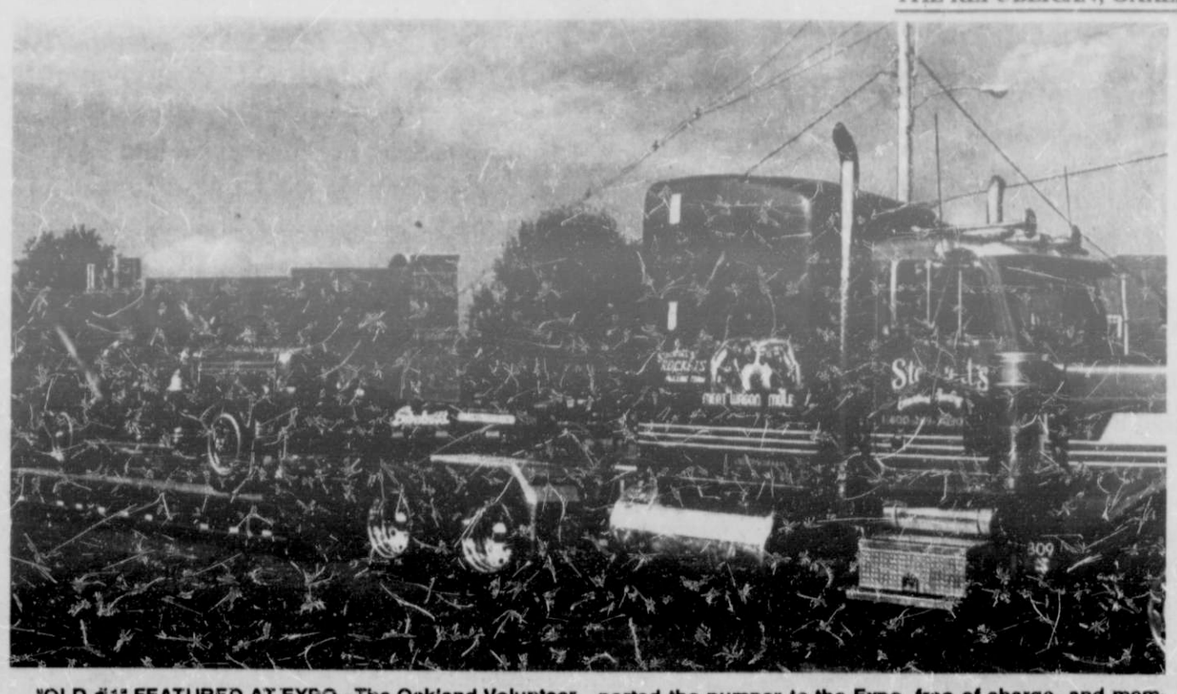
In other district court news, Albert Neil DeWitt, 33, Oakland, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a 90-day jail sentence. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

DeWitt had been arrested by deputies in March in the wake of a fight along Alder Street involving three men. A search revealed that DeWitt was carrying a smoking pipe containing suspected burnt marijuana residue in his pocket and rolling papers in his wallet.

Harold Dean Michaels, 48, Swanton, was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) after he pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. The PBJ ruling included a 30-day suspended sentence and one year of unsupervised probation, while an additional charge of illegal possession of a prescription medication was not prosecuted.

Deputies had arrested Michaels in April after a traffic stop along Maryland Highway. He was found to be drug-intoxicated, which had led to his impaired driving.

Michael James Stripling, 21, MLP, was handed a stet ruling in connection with a charge of contributing to a condition that rendered a child in need of assistance. Additional charges of second degree assault and child abuse were not prosecuted.



"OLD #1" FEATURED AT EXPO - The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department was invited to bring its restored 1930 American LaFrance pumper, known as Old #1, to the recent 2000 Fire Expo in Baltimore, and thanks to a local trucking firm, the antique apparatus did indeed appear in the parade, won two awards, and was placed on display in the convention center. Stockett's Trucking, McHenry, transported the pumper to the Expo, free of charge, and members of the OVFD who accompanied it brought home the first place award for antique vehicles, plus the longest-distance award. Joe Helbig coordinated the trip and served as driver of Old #1. Other OVFD members in attendance were John and Jim Feather, Greg and Tina Skiles, Sid Friend, and Mark Phillips.

Stripling had been arrested by state troopers in December for allegedly standing by and not intervening while a 10-month-old was being beaten. The incident was witnessed by several uninvolved bystanders as it took place in the parking lot of an apartment building located along N Street.

Donald Carl Dumire, 42, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling as a result of his hearing on a second degree assault charge. He had been arrested by deputies in May after a domestic-related altercation at his Hillside Drive residence, during which he had allegedly struck a suspected victim.

Leonard Stanley Ford, 19, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling in connection with a possession of marijuana charge, with the stipulation that he complete 60 hours of community service.

Ford's April arrest came as deputies were checking on a small group of youths who were allegedly smoking marijuana outside an apartment building on Lewis B. Naylor Road. Ford voluntarily produced a bag of marijuana from his pocket and gave it to the investigating deputy on the scene.

Shirley Ann Frazee, 54, Friendsville, was not prosecuted on charges of second degree assault and reckless endangerment. She had been arrested by state troopers in April after her adult son sustained a gunshot wound, reportedly as a result of a domestic altercation at her First Avenue residence.

Roger Dwayne Knox, 39, Accident, faced several charges, each of which were dismissed. He had been accused of second degree rape and sexual offense, and fourth degree sexual offense.

Ray Everett Shillingburg, 42, and Kathleen Mae Norton, 40, both of Oakland, were both deemed not guilty of second degree assault.

DWIs/DUIs

Judge Burnett presided at a number of hearings concerning driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) offenses recently.

Daniel Blair Sweitzer, 23, Oakland, pleaded guilty to two separate DUI charges. He was fined a total of $955, handed an eight-month sentence of which all but 90 days were suspended, and placed on two years' supervised probation.

Erin Michelle Freeman, 22, Deer Park, pleaded guilty to two separate DWI charges, and was fined a total of $700, handed a four-month suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 60 hours of community service.

Terry Jay Shope, 23, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $455, handed a 60-day sentence of which all but six days were suspended, and was placed on one year of supervised probation.

Jan Edward Smith, 56, McHenry, pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $455, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 60 hours of community service.

Josh Michael Everton, 22, Albright, W.Va., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, along with a $400 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of unsupervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Herbert Roy Fazenbaker, 67, Wilmington, Del., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, along with a $355 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of unsupervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Christopher Aaron Manusco, 38, Erwin, Pa., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, along with a $320 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of unsupervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Betty Ann Maule, 43, and John Donald Bray III, 21, both of Oakland, pleaded guilty to DWI, and each was handed a PBJ, along with a $300 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Loren Randall Thomas, 42, Terra Alta, W.Va., and Carrie Jo Sines, 24, MLP, pleaded guilty to DUI, and each was handed a PBJ, along with a $300 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Allen Samuel Hussing Jr., 39, Masontown, W.Va., pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $300, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Lisa Dawn Beckman, 35, Oakland, and Patricia Ann Collins, 29, Swanton, pleaded guilty to DUI and were handed a PBJ, a 30-day suspended sentence, and one year of unsupervised probation.

William Ray Browning, 37, Kitzmiller, was handed a stet ruling on a DWI charge, along with an order to complete 30 hours of community service.

Corey Stutzman Porter, 25, Frostburg (Allegany County), was handed a stet ruling on a DWI charge.

Christopher Alan Ford, 24, MLP, was found in violation of DWI probation, which was revoked with a 14-day jail term reimposed.

"It's so dark in here, Dad", whimpered Colin. "When will I be able to see again?"

"Soon," assured Dad. "You have nothing to fear, for before you know it, you will be back in the sunlight. Just trust me."

Perhaps you are feeling frightened today. Certainly we have all experienced a sense of panic as we wonder if our life will ever be bright and happy again. God's follower, Job, spoke of those who "grope in the dark without light." (Job 12:25)

Yet God can return you to the light. David praised God in Psalm 18:28. "Yea, Thou dost light my lamp; the Lord my God lightens my darkness."

Brighten your life as you worship God this week and seek the light of His love.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

FOR LOVE'S SAKE

August 27, 2000

Background Scripture: Philemon 4-21.
Devotional Reading: James 2:1-13.

Although Paul's Letter to Philemon is just slightly more than a page long and contains "no explicit theological or ethical teaching," my former seminary professor, John Knox, pronounced it "one of the most interesting and illuminating documents in the New Testament, and in some ways one of the most important." What makes it so important is that in this letter Paul not only speaks of Christian love, but he also applies it to a very specific situation. Being aware of this situation is our key to understanding the letter.

Philemon, a resident of Colossae in Phyrgia (part of today's Turkey), under the influence of Paul's preaching had become a Christian and his home now served as a meeting place for a Christian congregation. Obviously, there was a warm relationship between Paul and Philemon. Paul is presently "a prisoner for Christ Jesus," probably, although not certainly in Rome. It would appear that he was sending Tychicus to Colossae with the letter we know as Colossians, accompanied by another of Paul's associates, a former slave named Onesimus who was to personally deliver the letter to Philemon.

Nothing too exciting about that, is there? But wait—Onesimus was formerly Philemon's slave! He had escaped his master and it would seem he may have stolen something from his as well. Later, Onesimus became a Christian and one of Paul's trusted associates, especially during his imprisonment. It is difficult for us today to appreciate the seriousness of this situation. In the Roman empire a runaway slave was usually summarily dealt with and it would be quite legal for Philemon to take Onesimus's life.

Taking A Risk?

So, if Paul had found Onesimus so "useful" (a pun: Onesimus's name means "useful") why would he send the former slave back to his master? Paul could have kept him with him, but he wanted Philemon and Onesimus to be reconciled, not as master

King James started out in stand-up

By Taylor Michaels

Kevin James

Q: I think Kevin James (The King of Queens) is a funny man, but I've never heard much about his private life. Is he married? Also, is Larry Romano from that show related to Ray Romano of Everybody Loves Raymond? –J. Smith, El Paso, Texas.

A: James, who is 35 and single, got his start in stand-up comedy after graduating from the State University of New York College at Cortland.

A 1996 gig at the Just for Laughs International Comedy Festival in Montreal led to a recurring role on best buddy Ray Romano's Everybody Loves Raymond. His own series soon followed.

Oddly, despite the apparent Romano connection, Larry and Ray Romano are not related.

Q: What is Keshia Knight Pulliam of The Cosby Show doing now? –Keren M. in London.

A: As of this writing, Pulliam, 21, is a student at Atlanta's Spelman College, where she is a sociology major.

She hopes to return to some aspect of show business after graduation.

Q: Can you please tell us which Malcolm in the Middle character was played by Justin Pierce, the 25-year-old actor who recently hanged himself? We cannot find his name in the credits. –Roxanne Basnett, Hokes Bluff, Ala.

A: Pierce appeared in a couple of Malcolm episodes as Justin, one of the chums of oldest son Francis (Christopher Kennedy Masterson). He was not a regular on the series.

Q: When I recently mentioned Mary Martin's Peter Pan to an under-30 crowd, no one had a clue what I was talking about. Whatever became of this classic program? –Cindy Bissonnette, Manchester, N.H.

A: Martin did two telecasts of Peter Pan, and the 1955 presentation was rebroadcast by NBC in the early 1990s.

It has been widely available since then on VHS and DVD, although the former may be somewhat harder to find.

Q: I remember a 1980s sitcom that aired on MTV. It had a male character named Vivian and a character with spiked hair and a wild punk look. Was I on drugs? –Edith Ballard, Flint, Mich.

A: You're thinking of The Young Ones, a Britcom about Vyvyan (Adrian Edmondson), a punk medical student given to acts of violence. Mike, Rick and Neil (Christopher Ryan, Rik Mayall, Nigel Planer) were pals with whom he shared a flat in North London.

Q: Is Tim Considine (My Three Sons) related to John Considine, another actor I recently saw on a rerun of a sitcom? –Mary Mohler, White, S.D.

A: Yes, they're brothers.

Largest Freshman Class On Record To Arrive At FSU

Frostburg State University will welcome its largest freshman class ever this fall, a projected 1,055 students, which is 10.2 percent more than last year's freshman class of 957 and 6.3 percent higher than the previous record class of 992 students in 1996.

"Part of the reason is that, increasingly, Frostburg State University is being recognized throughout the state for having a more diverse curriculum than was previously the case," said FSU president Catherine R. Gira, citing programs such as engineering, biotechnology, and therapeutic recreation.

"In addition, we have a consistent and well-established reputation as a premier institution for training teachers. The shortage of teachers is drawing more people into that field," she said.

The larger class is also reflective of the fact that more high school students are graduating across the state.

This new freshman class is 51.4 percent male and 48.6 percent female. Minority students make up 22.8 percent of the class, including 15.3 percent African American. The vast majority, 88.7 percent, come from Maryland, with Virginia providing the most out-of-state students.

With the bigger class, it will be crucial for FSU "to maintain the sense of community and close relationships between faculty and students that has been our heritage, our tradition since being founded," Gira said.

FSU's Residence Life Office is scrambling to find housing for as many of the new freshmen as possible, according to Dana Severance, director of Residence Life. About 50 students are still on a waiting list for on-campus housing, including about two dozen freshmen. Freshmen who finished their paperwork before the Aug. 1 deadline get top priority. Severance said they never had to make that distinction before this semester.

As it is, the residence halls are filled to capacity — 1,785 students — with extra space being found by housing students in lounges, giving roommates to resident assistants, and putting three students in some of the larger double rooms. This is considered temporary housing, Severance pointed out.

Last year, all students housed in lounges were moved to permanent rooms within two weeks, Severance said. "Generally, students who are happy in their temporary situations can stay for the semester," he said.

"We pride ourselves in trying to be student-oriented," he added. "The student comes first."

Severance said one of the reasons housing is at capacity is that the university has done so well in its goal of retaining students on campus after freshman year. Amenities such as free Internet access and e-mail have proved "very attractive," he said.

Gira said that activities on campus on weekends and in the evenings have increased, and remodeled lounge facilities make it more attractive to be on campus.

Special interest residence halls for such areas as community service, international studies, and leadership also are attractive because students can live with people who share common interests, Gira explained.

Severance said options are being explored to make more housing available in the future, but no new space will be available this year.

Projections are based on total paid admissions to date, plus past trends on the number of students who enroll late. Final numbers will be available in mid-September.

Black Locust Beetles Making Mark In State

Travelers along Maryland's roadways, including those in the western portions of the state, may be noticing the browning of leaves on black locust trees, according to the state's Department of Agriculture. This discoloration is evidence of the infestation of the locust leaf miner beetle, an infestation that causes this type of damage each year with minor harm to the locust trees.

"Citizens are calling us out of concern that the trees might be infested with gypsy moth, which has been especially destructive in some areas this year," said Dr. Robert Rabalgia of the MDA's Forest Health Monitoring Program. "The locust leaf miner is a small beetle that causes this type of damage in late summer just about every year, but the locust trees usually recover with only minor damage."

The locust leaf miner adult is an orange beetle, about one-third inch long with a wide black stripe in the middle of its back. Females lay their eggs on black locust tree leaves in late spring, and the larvae tunnel into the leaf to feed, creating an irregular brown blotch. Each larva forms a pupa in the leaf, and when the adult emerges a short time later it continues feeding on the under surface of the leaf.

Locust leaf miner larvae may also be found on bristly locust and golden chain trees. The adult beetle will feed on a wider variety of tree leaves such as dogwood, elm, oak, beech, cherry, wisteria, and hawthorn, as well as black locust.

Gypsy moth caterpillars feed on oaks and other hardwood trees in spring and early summer, often defoliating part or all of a tree when population levels are high. They usually stop feeding by early July, when adult females lay eggs and die. Gypsy moth caterpillars defoliated 22,566 acres of trees in Maryland this spring, the highest amount in five years. Eleven counties were affected, with Allegany, Dorchester, Frederick, and Washington counties being the hardest hit.

Antiques by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Desks from past centuries were designed to solve problems of the past. Where to place the inkwell? Could there be a locked drawer or a hidden compartment for valuable papers? Could papers be filed in some meaningful way? Would there be a way to hide work and still have an attractive piece of furniture?

The desk of the 1830s used a "fall front." It looked like a large drawer, but it opened into a flat writing surface in front of a section of small drawers. The clever design hid drawers, a space to store messy work and a writing surface that protruded so you could use it without bumping your knees. The closed desk could be kept against a wall, where it took up less space. The fall-front desk, which often had small posts as decoration on the front, was popular in the eastern United States and Midwest for about 20 years. Later, larger and more ornate Victorian pieces came into style. The roll-top desk of Victorian times hid the drawers and writing surface behind a roll-up, slatted top. The Victorian Wooten desk closed two side sections of the desk and all the drawers into a locked "cabinet."

Today's desk must hold a computer monitor, printer and hard drive. It could also have a series of small shelves on top and a few drawers and more storage space on the bottom. Holes are necessary for electrical connections. Like most desks, it is designed to take up as little room as possible. But in the 21st century, it is proper to have the machines and even the papers exposed.

LAWN CARE: THE INS AND OUTS OF WEEDS

Q. Help! My lawn is sporting about half-and-half weeds and grass. How do I get rid of the weeds? — Chuck H., Aurora, Ill.

A. Sounds like you have a serious lawn problem. Every lawn is prone to weeds — their seeds are brought in by birds, wind and creeping stems, often before the turf is even put down. But a lawn that sports as many rough, weedy patches as yours shows clear signs of neglect.

Regular maintenance, including mowing, watering and feeding the lawn, will prevent weeds from taking hold. Controlling pests like earthworms, grubs, ants and moles, as well as common lawn diseases, is also essential. A healthy lawn will repel most weeds simply by taking up the space weeds like to occupy: Bare or thin patches caused by disease or dry spells.

At this point, you have two choices: You can try to fix the problem by destroying as many weeds as possible and rebuilding the lawn's health, or you can tear up the turf and start again. Both solutions require a lot of work.

Have a lawn care professional look over your yard. He may be able to knock out most of the weeds and get rid of pests or diseases that have set in. Once that's done, you'll have to repair the damaged lawn by removing overgrown thatch and reseeding bare spots. Fall is the best time to do this. The seeds will lie dormant over the winter and will sprout come springtime. However, this patch-up approach won't guarantee a nice lawn.

If you want a near-perfect, weed-free lawn, starting over may give you the best chance of success. Again, early fall is the best time to do this.

Again, talk to your lawn professional about preparing the soil, what type of grass to use, and how to reseed the yard. Pick up a couple of books on lawn care, too.

Once you've repaired your lawn, make and stick to a regular maintenance schedule. Mow and water the lawn regularly and correctly, pull weeds as soon as they appear and add fertilizers and pest/disease prevention agents as recommended.

Pet Care by Peter Edwards

The ads for herbal supplements are everywhere these days. They're on television, in magazines and, of course, in cyberspace. What bothers me is that some of you have written to ask if you should buy pet supplements via the Internet.

My answer is No! Don't do it. While you may be willing to take a risk on consuming a product that has not undergone rigorous FDA testing, at least you can call for help if something goes wrong. But if you give it to a pet, you may not know what has gone wrong until it's too late.

Remember that many of these supplements are drugs and have a variety of effects on the human body. As sparse as the literature on herbal supplements may be on testing for human use, there's even less available for products directed toward the pet market.

There are herbal preparations that may be effective for your pets' health problems. But let your veterinarian decide which, if any, to use, and in what dosages. She or he will also alert you to signs that the preparation is causing problems and will be available to help if it does. You get no such assurances on the Internet.

FROM MY SADDLE BAGS: Gene wants to know if yogurt is a good calcium source for his 11-year-old pug.

Gene, whenever one of my animals finishes a course of antibiotic treatment, I feed them unsweetened yogurt with live yogurt cultures to restore the bacterial flora in their guts. But other than that, I try to stay away from too much dairy foods for my animals. However, check with your vet for advice that is specific to your dog's needs.

Chestnut Tree Restoration Is Program Topic

A program on restoring the Pennsylvania chestnut trees, with the help of over 500 volunteers, will be presented Monday, Aug. 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the Folk Meeting House in Springs, Pa., by Jack Laws, regional coordinator of the Pennsylvania Chestnut Association.

Early in the 1900s a fungus wiped out the American chestnut trees in the United States. According to Laws, a valiant effort is being made to restore the tree to the woodlands. Extensive work has been done in laboratories of crossing the American and the Chinese chestnut trees to develop a fungus-resistant strain. Now the test is ready to be taken to the field, he said.

The Folk Meeting House is located along Springs Road in Springs and is sponsored by the Springs Historical Society. The program is free and open to the public. For more information, persons may telephone 814-445-6945 or 814-662-4366.

Receives Who's Who Honors In Two Categories

David R. Wampler, a recent graduate of Northern High School, has again been recommended to receive honorary award recognition and to have his biography published in the 1999-2000 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students. He has also been awarded recognition in the 1999-2000 edition of Who's Who in Sports.

Approximately 20,000 schools are represented by their outstanding students, and only ½ of 1% of all high school students are honored for two or more years. Wampler has been commended for his consistent commitment to excellence, making him eligible for scholarships and national recognition through Who's Who.

While at Northern High School, Wampler was a senior representative to Student Council, a reporter for the school newspaper, and belonged to and competed with the VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) organization. He was an offensive player for the 1999 undefeated Northern High Husky football team and the Maryland state champion Husky wrestling team. He was also a member of the track and field team.

He is a member of St. John's Lutheran Church, Cove, and the church youth group. He is a former member of the Cove Kids 4-H Club. He is employed at McClive's Restaurant and during summer months for Keith E. Harman Construction and Cornerstone Construction. He is attending Fairmont State College in Fairmont, W.Va., and is enrolled in the Electronics Engineering Department.

Wampler resides along Cove Road in Accident with his parents, Jim and Jeanette Wampler, and his brother, Saylor Wampler. He is a grandson of Edgar and Cosette Harman, Oakland, and Betty Wampler, Friendsville.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Marine Pvt. Pamela D. Warnick, daughter of Marcia Warnick, McHenry, recently completed basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

Warnick successfully completed 12 weeks of training designed to challenge new Marine recruits both physically and mentally.

Warnick and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a.m., by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Warnick spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments, which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat, and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Warnick and other recruits also received instruction on the Marine Corps' core values — honor, courage and commitment, and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct.

Warnick and fellow recruits ended the training phase with "The Crucible," a 54-hour team-effort, problem-solving evolution which culminated with an emotional ceremony in which the recruits were presented the Marine Corps emblem, and were addressed as "Marines" for the first time since boot camp began.

GCC Offering Intro Course In Massage Therapy

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College will offer "Overview of Bodywork and Massage Therapy," which is a prerequisite for entry into the Core Massage Therapy curriculum. The massage therapy curriculum is the educational component that prepares individuals for licensing in Maryland or West Virginia.

The introductory course will present information on concepts and techniques of massage therapy. Topics will include the history of massage therapy, the importance of touch, indications/contraindications for massage therapy, business/professional guidelines, boundary issues, and massage modalities. Students will learn basic techniques that can be used to provide a seated, upper-body massage therapy session in a personal or business setting. No prior education or experience is required.

The Overview course will meet on four consecutive Saturdays, beginning on September 16 and ending on October 1. For additional information, persons may call Carol Newman at 301-387-3088, or stop in at the Continuing Education and Training Division Office, McHenry campus, Room 300.

Discovery Center Sets "100 Years Of Forestry" Event

The Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center will present "100 Years of Forestry," a daylong event, on Saturday, Sept. 2. The event, which is free to the public, will take place from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

A variety of activities will be taking place throughout the day, including special programs dealing with forestry, such as tree identification, a Scales and Tales demonstration featuring birds of prey native to western Maryland, and programs on the history of forestry and what it means to the region today.

The family-oriented event will include children's craft activities and a sing-along that will encourage an appearance by Smokey Bear, who will be answering questions about life in the forest and the prevention of forest fires.

Francis Zumbrun, a 1930s conservation forest interpreter, will present several forestry programs and teach all ages what role his character played in forestry during the Great Depression. He will also discuss the role of state parks and forests of today.

A program on life in a fire tower will be presented by Rebecca Harvey, who operated a Garrett County fire tower during fall and winter seasons from 1972 to 1993. Guided fire tower hikes will afford participants the opportunity to climb to the top to see a spectacular view of the Deep Creek Lake area.

Trail horse rides will be available on the hour at 11 a.m., and 1, 2, 4, 5, and 6 p.m. at a cost of $18 per person. The rides, which are being offered by Broken Bar Stables, will follow the Brant Mine tour trail through Deep Creek Lake State Park. To make a trail ride reservation (which is required), or for further information on any of the day's activities, interested persons may call the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

GCC Instructor Experienced In Juvenile Justice

MIKE LEWIS

The new Principles and Practices of Juvenile Justice course at Garrett Community College will be instructed by Mike Lewis, principal of Maryland's Department of Juvenile Justice Youth Centers. The Wednesday evening offering is the first required course in the new Juvenile Justice program, which is slated to get under way at GCC this fall.

Lewis brings a wide array of experience working with young people at risk to the college. An active participant in teen rehabilitation programs, Lewis has served as a motivational speaker on drug and alcohol issues for the Allegany County Health Department. He is also a member of the Underage Drinking Task Force.

Lewis was instrumental in the development of the Juvenile Justice program at GCC. Following a meeting with president Dr. Steve Herman where he expressed the need for such a program, he met with other administrators and arranged for personnel from the Department of Juvenile Justice to attend a two-day DACUM (Developing a Curriculum) on campus to determine content of the courses that needed to be offered in this program, the first of its kind in Maryland.

"I truly believe our most ambitious moral responsibility is to create a world safe and secure for our children," Lewis observed. "Therefore, we need to focus on those elements in a child's life that detract from their potential. Thus, we need to create new social capital for our students in which they are reconnected to their true self, their family and their community.

"In no situation is this more critical than in the lives of our incarcerated children. If we are truly committed to improving their quality of life while slowing the revolving doors of our adult prisons, then we must focus intently on our children and identify a new paradigm in which to reconnect them to us. Consequently, Garrett Community College's Juvenile Justice Program will enable us to further this new dialogue while providing the philosophy and training necessary to assume employment with state operated and private juvenile justice facilities."

A teacher and administrator since 1986, Lewis began his education career at Cumberland's Allegany High School. He taught history at Allegany and also served as chairperson of the social studies department and coach of the football, girl's basketball, and cross country teams. He has also served in several capacities as Mt. Savage School, from teacher to vice principal.

Lewis has been teacher and coordinator of the Maryland School Performance Program, as well as co-chairperson of the faculty advisory committee at Allegany County's Center for Career and Technical Education. He has also served as chairperson of the Mt. Savage School Improvement Committee and the Middle States School Evaluation Committee.

In addition to his many educational activities, Lewis has played a leading role in community affairs. He currently serves as coordinator of the Allegany County Homeless Project, executive officer of the George's Creek Silk Mill Restoration Project, site supervisor for A Star! in Western Maryland through the AmeriCorps program at Frostburg State University, member of the Thrasher Carriage Museum planning committee, and principal investigator for the Coal Heritage Trail Cultural Survey in Allegany County. Most recently he has assumed a leading role in the Glynwood Center's Countryside Exchange Program: England and Cold Spring, N.Y.

Lewis holds bachelor of arts degrees in anthropology from Princeton University and education from Frostburg State University, where he also earned an master of arts degree in education, with a major in administration and supervision. He has also completed Administration I and II certificates and leadership training with the Maryland State Department of Education and Fred Pryor Project Management seminars.

Among his numerous honors and awards are the 2000 Oral History Association award for the Lonaconing Silk Mill project, certificates of appreciation from the Maryland Student Service Alliance, being designated as Volunteer of the Year in Allegany County from the Maryland Association of Community Action Agencies, Teacher of the Year certificates, and Drug Awareness Resistance Education certification. He has presented workshops on community service and alternative education, and frequently speaks to various civic and educational organizations.

Interested persons may still register for the Juvenile Justice course and for other courses in the program Mondays through Thursdays until 6:30 p.m., and Fridays until 4 p.m., at GCC's Student Assistance Center. For further information, persons may call 301-387-3044. Fall semester classes begin Wednesday, Sept. 6.

ALLEGANY/GARRETT DAIRY PRINCESS ALICIA DEWITT was extremely busy during the 2000 Garrett County Fair. As the week started, Alicia was a participant in the 4-H Fashion Revue, modeling the outfit she made as a 4-H project, and performing her skit, a puppet show, that she created for the State Dairy Princess Contest,during intermission. As the week continued, Alicia handed out information packets about the dairy industry from her booth in the dairy barn and educated fairgoers, both young and old, about the industry, dairy animals, and dairy farm families, as shown in the photo below where she is introducing the young to the young. During the week, she also showed and sold her 4-H market steer and market hog. Her family, parents Rick and Sandy and brothers Erick and Brandon, as well as Alicia, had entries at the fair from their Truesdale Farm registered Jersey herd, and Alicia cared for, groomed, and showed her family's animals as well as her own. During the dairy show, she shared the honor of presenting awards with Farm Queen Melissa Upole, and presented the dairy awards at the awards ceramony on Saturday night. Alicia leaves Friday for the Maryland State Fair, where she will join the Maryland State Dairy Princess and Maryland State Farm Queen at the Holstein Futurity to hand out awards and drink a milk toast. At the State Fair she will also be serving ice cream and handing out promotional information about the dairy industry, showing that she is indeed a very capable and exemplary representative of Garrett County and dairy farmers across the state.

Farmers To Descend On D.C. To Add Their "Two Cents' Worth"

In an appeal for Congress to make long overdue changes to farm policy, Farmers Union members will be offering their "two cents' worth" in response to the failed Freedom to Farm legislation during a Sept. 10 to 13 legislative fly-in.

During their visit, family farmers and ranchers will meet with Congressional representatives to deliver their "Two Cents' Worth" message along with bags containing commodities produced on America's farms. This will be the last opportunity to make the case for positive reforms to the 1996 Farm Bill prior to the general election.

"Just as time is running out on this Congress, it is also running out for family farmers and ranchers," said National Farmers Union (NFU) president Leland Swenson. "Before our representatives in Washington adjourn the legislative session, this citizens' lobby intends to not only make them aware of the crises impacting family farmers and ranchers, but, also, urge immediate action on some solutions to the rural challenge."

Farmers Union has spent the past month reaching out to policy-makers with their Two Cents' Worth campaign to draw attention to the core agricultural issues faced today in rural America. The rural citizens' lobby fly-in will continue the call for Congress to pass legislation that will raise loan rates for commodities, increase dairy support prices, prohibit packer ownership of livestock, and promote competitive markets.

In addition, participants will tell lawmakers that Freedom to Farm lacks an adequate safety net to support farmers during sharp downturns in prices. Participants will also push for tools to manage large supplies that have driven down prices, such as a farmer-owned renewable fuel and humanitarian grain reserves and a short-term conservation reserve program.

"Soon, members of Congress will return home to face their constituents in the time-honored, democratic tradition at the ballot box," said Swenson. "This year, they can do so with the knowledge that 'rural votes count' and rural residents are looking for leadership to make rural America more prosperous."

Fly-in activities will also include a briefing with agriculture secretary Dan Glickman and his top deputies on Mon., Sept. 11.

NFU is a general farm organization representing nearly 300,000 family farmers and ranchers nationwide. NFU serves its membership by assisting with education, providing stimulus and know-how for farmer-owned cooperatives, and presenting the organization's policies to lawmakers at the local, state and national levels.

U.S. Cattle On Feed Up 11%

Cattle and calves on feed for the slaughter market in the United States, in feedlots with a capacity of 1,000 or more head, totaled 10.18 million head on Aug. 1, according to the National Ag Statistics Service (NASS). The inventory was 11% above Aug. 1, 1999, and 13% above Aug. 1, 1998.

Placements in feedlots during July totaled 1.92 million, 6% above 1999 but 1% below 1998. Net placements were 1.87 million. During July, placements of cattle and calves weighing less than 600 pounds were 424,000, 600-699 pounds were 366,000, 700-799 pounds were 597,000, and 800 pounds and greater were 530,000.

Marketings of fed cattle during July totaled 2.08 million, 2% below 1999 but 1% above 1998. July 2000 had one less slaughter day than July 1999, which limited slaughter and affected the year-to-year relationship for marketings.

Cattle on feed Aug. 1, 2000, in the seven states historically known for feedlots with the capacity of 1,000 or more head, totaled 8.81 million, up 12% from the previous year and 14% above Aug. 1, 1998.

Number Of Farm Workers Down, Wage Rates Up

The National Ag Statistics Service reports that there were 1.37 million hired workers on the nation's farms and ranches during the week of July 9-15, down 7% from a year ago. There were 1.08 million workers hired directly by farm operators. Agricultural service employees on farms and ranches made up the remaining 289,000 workers. Migrant workers accounted for 11.1% of the July hired workforce, compared to 12.4% last year.

Farm operators paid their hired workers an average wage rate of $7.89 per hour during the July 2000 survey week, up 31 cents from a year earlier. Field workers received an average of $7.32 per hour, up 27 cents from last July. Livestock workers earned $7.65 per hour, compared with $7.22 a year earlier. The field and livestock workers combined wage rate was up 31 cents from last year.

The number of hours worked averaged 40.2 hours for hired workers during the survey week, compared with 40.5 hours a year ago.

KING RICHARD - Yes, in a democratic society you can become king by crowd's choice. That's the honor that was bestowed upon Richard McCrobie after fitting and showing a hog in the Alumni Fitting & Showing Contest last Friday night at the Garrett County Fair. Richard, an FFA alumnus, was crowned (and pigtailed?) for his achievement by the crowd. April Enlow, a 4-H alumna, was crowned queen by crowd's choice. Approximately 30 to 40 alumni took part in the contest, and the class placings will appear in a future edition of The Republican.

Death By Dinner

One of the most common questions this time of the year is about potential poisonous plants in pastures and which to look out for. Here is a list of some common pasture plants that can prove fatal to cattle and calves when eaten.

* Hydrangea leaves and buds contain poisonous constituents that cause painful sickness in livestock and humans.
* Iris, if eaten in large quantities, causes gastroenteritis and labored breathing.
* The common Morning Glory's leaves and stems are toxic, and hogs, sheep, goats and cattle are particularly predisposed to poisoning from this creeping vine. Prolonged consumption of this plant results in anorexia, coma and, in severe cases, death.
* Yew leaves are extremely toxic to cattle. As little as one mouthful can be fatal.
* Henbit, commonly encountered as an element of spring flora, causes "staggers" in sheep, horses and cattle.
* Field Nettle causes nervous disorders.
* Pigweed found in cultivated fields, pastures, waste areas and roadsides are a danger more to hogs and young calves than to adult livestock.
* Sorghums, including broom corn, Sudan grass, grain and forage sorghum, saccharin sorghum and Johnson grass can induce cyanide poisoning, and nitrate poisoning and photosensitization have been reported in animals eating some sorghums. Really dangerous after frost.
* Maple leaves, which are not usually harmful, become acutely toxic in the fall.
* Nightshades have poisonous berries and vegetation and can still be toxic even when dried and in hay. They can cause neurologic and digestive problems, and are found in disturbed soil, woods, meadows, pastures and cultivated fields.
* Horsenettle, found in the same areas as nightshade, may cause inflammation of the mouth and esophagus in calves, and nervous symptoms may include apathy, drowsiness, salivation, shortness of breath, progressive weakness or paralysis, prostration and even unconsciousness. Dried berries of the horsenettle, which cling to the plant over winter, are so potent they can kill cattle the following spring.
* Buttercups that proliferate in fields in May and June can cause critical gastrointestinal problems in livestock. In severe cases they can induce convulsions and death. Dried material in hay reportedly is not poisonous.
* Acorn poisoning causes digestive problems, jaundice, permanent kidney damage and eventually death. Calves, goats and sheep are particularly susceptible.

If you suspect plant poisoning, remove the animal from the immediate environment and do not allow further access to its regular feed and water. Examine the premises for consumption of or exposure to a toxic plant. And most important, save appropriate samples of the suspected toxin.

Potential of Mycotoxins in Barley and Wheat

I would like to make you aware that there have been reports of high levels of fusarium fungus occurring on wheat and barley in some regions of the country. Fusarium is one of the mycotoxins that can be toxic to livestock. The fungus thrives in wet weather and particularly on grain that has not adequately dried down. In reality, I don't think we feed the volume of wheat or barley to our animals to be a problem; however, if you have a suspect grain it may be wise to have an analysis on fusarium content. For additional information you may contact me.

In the photo above, Rev. Michael Robinson, pastor of St. Mark's, accepts a check from John Strider, local AAL representative. Looking on at right is Lois Swartzentruber, church council member and chairperson of the 150th anniversary celebration. The check was presented following a recent outdoor worship service of St. Mark's held at Broadford Park. AAL, based in Appleton, Wis., is a fraternal benefit society of 1.7 million members who are joined together for insurance, and educational and volunteer opportunities. AAL supports the work of Lutheran church bodies, educational institutions, and other Lutheran organizations. Mountain Lake Park Observer

by Dan Whittelsey

At the August 8 town council meeting two residents protested ongoing conditions that need correction.

One resident complained that sewage backed up into his basement during recent heavy rains. Apparently the sewerage line was damaged in several places and had never been repaired. This back-up was objectionable, but also a serious health hazard.

Another complaint pointed out the weakness of our building permit. A resident complained that a house was built on a lot which was not big enough. The resident complains that now he is looking at the side of a house that is so close that his view is obstructed.

Mayor Shockey has asked Councilman Fred Learey to draw up a new building permit that would prevent builders from constructing certain types of homes on lots in Mtn. Lake Park.

Please be sure to attend our town council meetings. Many important matters come up that call for your attention.

Also please attend the Party in the Park this Saturday, Aug. 26, at Veterans Park along K Street. It will be from noon to 6 p.m. (See separate story in this newspaper for details.)

Life's Treasures by Sylvia Donley

Moms are life's treasures
She nurtured and held you, loved you, and stayed up late, fed you and dried you.
Thank God for a mom's love.
Appreciate what you have, a mom is God's precious treasure.
He made a mom special, all are unique in a special way.
Memories linger, hidden in the heart like a treasure.
They cannot be taken away, what seems like a lifetime to get.
Mom, you are God's treasure now resting in his arms.
But we hold you deep in our hearts, always being our greatest treasure, our mom.

We love you and miss you.
Your children and grandchildren

Computer Series Is Offered For Business Owners

DONALD EINOLF

The Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College has developed a series of short computer courses for area business owners and managers. This four-course series will begin Tuesday, Sept. 19, with Beginning With the Basics. Other sessions will be Working With Word, Exploring Excel, and In Tune With the Internet, which will be offered throughout the remainder of the semester. The instructor will be Donald Einolf.

Beginning With the Basics is a two-session course intended for the individual with limited computer experience. Topics to be covered include: the various parts of the computer, using the mouse, navigating through Windows, using files and folders, and changing Windows settings. The class will be held from 6:30 to 9 p.m. in Room 261.

Einolf has been an adjunct computer instructor for the Continuing Education & Training Division for over six years, teaching regular course offerings and customized training programs.

For registration information, persons may contact the Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College by phoning 301-387-3101.

Groups Sought To Sponsor Next Year's AG Events

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is seeking applications from local non-profit organizations that may be interested in taking over income-producing activities for the 2001 Autumn Glory Festival. The list of activities available for sponsorship includes food concession rentals, the Friday night "Grand Old Opry" concert and banjo contest, and the Saturday night state fiddle championship contest. These and other activities are "currently profitable and have great potential for increased income," according to chamber president Ken Wishnick.

The chamber will provide interested organizations with the opportunity to train with specific activities during this year's Autumn Glory Festival. Representatives of interested non-profit groups may contact Wishnick for further information at 301-387-4386.

Gortner Church Slates Services

Gortner Union Church will host revival services at 7:30 p.m. this Friday and Saturday, Aug. 25-26, and 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 27. The guest evangelist is Rev. Tom Harman.

The church is located along Mason School Road in Gortner. Persons may call 301-334-7969 for further information.

MLP Crime Watch Picnic To Include Youth Activities

A family-oriented community picnic has been slated for this Saturday afternoon, Aug. 26, by the Mtn. Lake Park Crime Watch organization. The event will include several offerings for youth sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department as it introduces the newly formed Mtn. Lake Park Youth Activities Committee (MLP-YAC).

Bicycle inspections and bike helmet fittings will be offered beginning at noon, and at 2 p.m. "snail trail" and "figure eight" obstacle course bike races will get under way. A "musical bikes" activity is slated for 4 p.m. Prizes will be awarded after the various events.

The MLP-YAC is composed of members of the Mtn. Lake Park community interested in preventing alcohol, tobacco, and other drug use by providing activities for local youth. For further information on the organization or Saturday's picnic, interested persons may call the health department's Gail Dever at 301-334-8122.

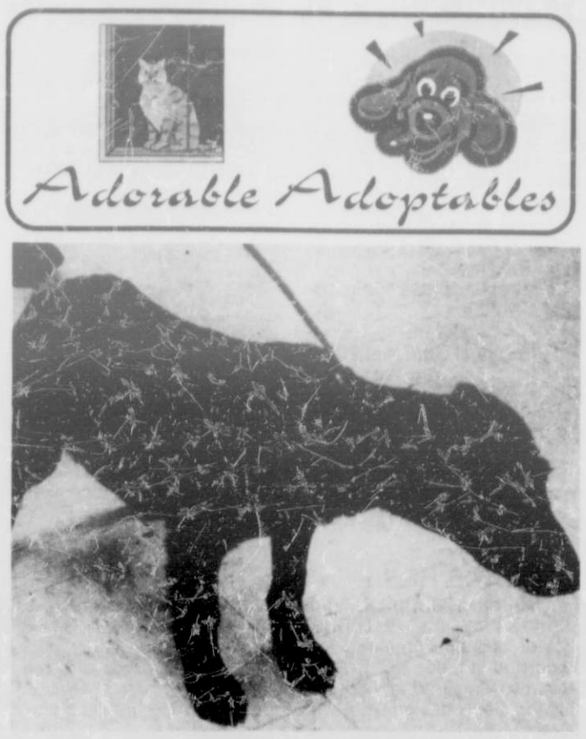
GCC Offering Small Business Seminar Sept. 14

The Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College is offering a one-evening seminar September 14 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Continuing Education & Training building at GCC.

A number of local professionals will be on hand to give short presentations on how their companies or organizations can assist the entrepreneur as he or she starts a small business. Representation from the following professions will be in attendance: banking, accounting, law, the MicroWorks program, Garrett County Economic Development, the Garrett Enterprise Information Center, the Small Business Development Center, and a number of established business owners.

In addition to the presentations, individuals will have the opportunity to speak one-on-one with the professionals and have their specific questions and concerns addressed.

For registration information, persons may contact the Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College by phoning 301-387-3101.



ARE WE GOING TO THE DOGS, or are the dogs coming to us? The Garrett County Animal Shelter can answer "yes" on both counts, as among its guests this week are these three camera-ready canines. The mixed-breed 3-month-old shown above is one of a litter of five young pups looking for homes. Below left, a black and tan Australian shepherd mix gives his own face a lick as he practices up for bussing a future owner, and the little Cairn terrier to its right gazes into the camera lens like a pro. The animal shelter is open during regular business hours on weekdays and Saturday mornings. Interested persons may call 301-334-3553 for further details.

PLAYGROUNDS RETURN TO FULL OCCUPANCY — The little monkeys are out there again, hanging upside-down, as the public schools in Garrett County are back in full session. We hope the upside-down suspensions are all reserved expressly for the playground, as the teachers might get edgy if the youngsters try such feats from the light fixtures inside. Schools opened Monday across the county, with thousands of Garrett County youngsters getting back into the swing of things, and thousands of their parents whispering "yay."

Recycling Rate In GC Exceeds State's Effort

The Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling has announced that the recycling rate for Garrett County is 38% for 1999. The statewide recycling rate for 1999 is 36%. The Maryland Recycling Act requires that Garrett County divert at least 15% of its waste to recycling programs. All counties in Maryland report their recycling tonnages annually to the Maryland Department of the Environment for review and approval.

"We at the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling would like to thank all of the citizens and businesses of Garrett County who recycled materials during 1999, and encourage them to continue their recycling efforts," said Gary Love, director. "We also encourage individuals who are not currently recycling to begin. It would be a great accomplishment to surpass the 1999 recycling rate in the future."

With this goal in mind, the office staff has made changes to the recycling

EYEING HIS NEXT MOVE, 7-year-old Lex Ozias, son of Darrell Ozias and Robin Wilson of Kitzmiller, prepares to edge into the wake during the recent "Bust Largness" Wakeboard Contest on Deep Creek Lake. Contestants came from as far away as Rochester, N.Y., for the annual event, which is sponsored by High Mountain Sports with the cooperation of several other local businesses. "The competition has gotten more intense and a lot more skilled since our first contest," remarked Brian Glotfelty, co-owner of High Mountain Sports. That intensity is captured in the face of the young Ozias, who is ignoring the fact that the wake he is about to catapult off (out of photo range) is taller than he is. Ozias's concentration paid off, as he took first place in the event's 10 and Under division. See sports pages for an additional photo from the contest.

SHA To Seek Federal Approval For "Hybrid" Oakland Bypass Proposal

Maryland State Highway officials said this week that their agency will seek Federal Highway Administration approval to proceed with construction of the hybrid alternate of the Oakland bypass.

Officials from the State Highway Administration, Maryland Department of Transportation, including Transportation Secretary John Porcari, will be on hand for a Friday, Sept. 22, morning meeting with the Garrett County board of commissioners and interested citizens to discuss the bypass project and several other transportation projects proposed for the county.

"We gave consideration to input we received from the public, resource agency personnel from agencies such as the Army Corps of Engineers and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, local elected officials, among other entities," commented Paul Maloney, SHA's Oakland Bypass Project manager. "The SHA has determined that the hybrid alternative makes the most sense based on factors such as safety and impacts to the natural and socio-economic environments."

Maloney noted that, although the number of citizens opposed to bypass construction of any sort appeared to outnumber (by a small margin) project supporters at a Dec. 7 Southern High School public hearing that he and a number of state and local officials were on hand for, subsequent mail-in comments proved the opposite. "We received a total of 91 responses," he commented, "with 56 percent of respondents expressing support for bypass construction, and 44 percent opposed to construction. Of those who

Baltimore Men Face Charges Of CDS Possession

Two Baltimore men were arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on charges of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession after a traffic stop early Saturday morning.

Avraham Yishaya Pinson, 20, and Eliezer Binyomin Lefkowitz, 19, were traveling south along Garrett Highway in the Deep Creek Lake area at approximately 2:30 a.m. when DFC Robbie Zimmerman observed their vehicle weaving along the roadway. The deputy stopped the 2000 Chevrolet sedan near the Trading Post store, and a subsequent vehicle search uncovered a suspected marijuana cigarette in the glove compartment, a bag of suspected marijuana in the back seat, a backpack containing a glass smoking pipe bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue, and a quantity of rolling papers.

After appearing before a district court commissioner both men were released on their own recognizance.

In other sheriff's news, an Oakland man was released on a $2,500 bond after a Saturday traffic stop along Gorman Road led to his arrest. William Wayne Sweitzer, 30, was stopped at approximately 4 a.m. near Chisolm Road and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving on a revoked license.

A Mtn. Lake Park man was charged with driving on a revoked license Saturday morning and posted a $500 bond to secure his release. Carl Warren Gosnell Sr., 68, was arrested in the wake of a traffic stop along Hutton Road at approximately 1:30 a.m.

DWIs/DUIs

Several individuals were arrested on DWI or DUI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) this week; they were: Alden Randolph Perando, 57, and Randy Wayne Cosner, 36, both of Oakland; George Robert Layman, 49, Grantsville; Lawrence Wayne Ford, 41, Mtn. Lake Park; Kathleen Kerr Davis, 40, Swanton; John Edward Dawes, 53, Addison, Pa.; and David Joseph Marucci, 48, Pittsburgh.

Deep Creek POA Elects Officers, New Directors

At its Aug. 26 meeting, the membership of the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association (POA) elected four new directors, re-elected four directors, and received a report from the board of directors concerning the filling of a vacancy on the board. Roger W. Titus, president of the POA, announced the election results.

Newly elected to the board were Scott Johnson, David Thomas, Ed Peters, and Sanford Gold.

Johnson is an account executive with Honeywell and is a full-time resident of Garrett County. Thomas, a full-time resident of Garrett County, is vice president of Mettiki Coal Company. Peters is a full-time resident of Garrett County and is a retired facilities manager for Potomac Edison Company (now Allegheny Power Company), and Gold is executive vice president of CB Richard Ellis in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Re-elected to the board for three-year terms were Mark Rothman, a Bethesda attorney; Ed King, a past president of the association and a local realtor; Jack Seelig, a Fairfax County, Va., business executive; and Titus, the incumbent POA president, who is a Rockville attorney.

Titus also announced that at its meeting of August 12, the board of directors elected Judge Fred A. Thayer to fill a vacancy on the board. Thayer will serve until 2002.

At a meeting of the board of directors following the membership session, Titus was elected to an additional one-year term as president, Thomas Myers was elected treasurer, and Carole Perez was elected as secretary of the association.

Ted Rissell was re-elected as vice president of administration and publications, Jonathan Kessler was re-elected as vice president of business community relations, Katheryn Gemberling was re-elected as vice president of government relations, and Barbara Elster was re-elected as vice president of membership relations.

Garrett To Be Subject On MPT Nightly News

On the request of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Garrett County will be highlighted on Maryland Public Television's Newsnight Maryland program on Friday, Sept. 1, at 7 p.m. Ken Wishnick, president of the chamber, said he had inquired at MPT as to why only Ocean City received coverage for its season "wrap-up," as Garrett County is also a resort area. MPT's response was to feature the mountaintop in a 15-minute segment on the news.

Wishnick said the MPT crew will be filming live coverage from McClive's at Deep Creek, with the idea being to catch scenes of the lake as well as Marsh Mountain. The coverage is to highlight the four-season qualities of Garrett County, he said, stressing that the mountaintop activities continue all year around.

"We'll talk about our summer and the success we have experienced this year," Wishnick said, "but we'll also highlight the fact that we are simply transitioning to our next busy season."

County To Take Part In Gypsy Moth Survey

A survey to determine the infestation of the gypsy moth in Garrett County will begin this fall, according to Jim Simms, county extension agent. He reported to the county commissioners this week that the survey will take place in the months of November and December.

The gypsy moth is destructive to hardwoods, chiefly oaks. Simms said the count is to be taken this fall in order to determine whether or not any spraying should be done next year.

The moth population was widespread in Allegany County this summer, according to reports, and the pattern could move west. However, the moth is also afflicted with a naturally occurring virus that apparently kills the caterpillar before it turns into the moth. Commissioner Ernest Gregg asked Simms if the virus was making a difference in the population, and Simms said that it was.

The survey will be funded in part by the state, with the county adding about $2,000 for the effort.

The Republican office will be closed Monday, September 4, in observance of Labor Day. News and advertising deadlines are unchanged.

Two "Employment Shuttles" To Help Transport Local Workers

Representatives from Garrett Transit Service, a department of the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., in a partnership with the Mass Transit Administration (MTA), have announced an initiative to remove transportation as a barrier to employment in Garrett County.

"Job Access Express," two employment shuttles, will offer the residents of the more populated areas of southern Garrett County transportation to jobs in the northern areas of the county. Access Express will begin making scheduled stops on Sept. 5 to provide transportation from Oakland to Accident and Friendsville, and from Oakland, Deer Park, and Swanton to Grantsville.

Because it is a pi project, shuttle sched may change or canc accommodate riders' n a spokesperson said.

"Dinner With Musician" To Preceed Penn Alps Concert

The Music at Penn Alps concert series has invited the public to attend "Dinner with the Musician" with pianist Joseph Lowe, prior to the final concert of the 2000 season. A buffet supper will be served at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 16, before Lowe's concert at 7:30 p.m. The dinner will be held in a banquet room adjacent to the performance location of the Great Hall at Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop in Grantsville.

JOSEPH LOWE

As a change of pace from the primarily classical fare of the Music at Penn Alps concert series, Lowe will present a "pops" program of waltzes, show tunes, and popular standards. Lowe has arranged in his own distinctive style works by Franz Lehar, Rodgers and Hammerstein, and Johann Strauss Jr.

A native of Key West, Fla., Lowe has served as organist and choir director at St. Paul's Church in Key West for 30 years, and is considered to be a "musical fixture" on the local scene, where he offers "Music in Paradise" concerts free to the public, Monday through Friday. He also plays an organ recital every Sunday at 4 p.m.

Lowe has said that the cathedral-like sanctuary of St. Paul's inspires him to play music that the Miami Herald has described as "spiritually uplifting," adding that his presence contrasts with the "carnival atmosphere of the ever-popular tourist area near the church."

In addition, Lowe plays popular standards five nights each week at Square One Restaurant, and offers his talents for weddings and funerals.

At age 12, his love of music prompted Lowe to travel four hours each way on Saturdays to study with faculty at the University of Miami, from which he earned his bachelor's degree in music in 1970.

Lowe's arrangements include examples from classical baroque to Broadway tunes. He has also composed many choir anthems and liturgical settings. Visiting cathedrals abroad and tending the rose bushes at St. Paul's occupy much of his time not spent playing music.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporate sponsors, and individuals. This concert is sponsored by Irene and David Eyer.

Limited seating dinner tickets are available at the Penn Alps Craft Shop for $15 each, and must be purchased by Sept. 11. Concert tickets are $10, and may be purchased with dinner tickets or at the door. Season passes will be honored.

For tickets or information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, and locations for advance concert ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985.

There are no reserved seats for the concert, so ticket holders are encouraged to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

Retired General Dale W. Schroyer of Friendsville will be the guest speaker, and Dick Friend will serve as the master of ceremonies.

Tickets for the event can be purchased for $15 from Thomas Pratt at 301-453-3360, Floyd Baker at 301-387-4088, Dick Friend, or at the Legion.

To offset expenses, the book It Doesn't Take a Hero will be raffled off. Chances will be $1 each. The book will be autographed by the author, General H. Norman Schwarzkopf, who has consented to write a letter honoring Bratten, according to a club spokesperson. His schedule will not allow him to be present, the spokesperson said, so the letter is his way of thanking the community for honoring Bratten, his long-time friend.

Thomas E. Bratten Jr.

Bratten was appointed Secretary of the Maryland Department of Veterans Affairs on Oct. 1, 1999. He was the director of the Maryland Veterans Commission from August 1993 to September 1999, and also served from 1987 to 1993 as a commissioner of the Maryland Veterans Commission representing Maryland's 8th Congressional District.

Bratten's duties as secretary of the state's veterans affairs department include statewide responsibility for managing and directing veterans programs. He was previously employed as administrator in the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and has held positions as ombudsman for that department in western Maryland, special projects coordinator for the Developmental Disabilities Administration, program manager for handicapped in the Maryland Department of Transportation, and secretary of the State Roads Commission for the State Highway Administration.

Bratten, a certified counselor in post-traumatic stress disorder, is a member of the International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies and the International Association of Trauma Counselors. He has attended numerous conferences, and received extensive training in the areas of traumatic stress studies, individual post-traumatic stress disorders, crisis intervention, treatment planning for trauma victims, and client advocacy.

He serves on numerous committees representing veterans' issues, and is a member of the National Association of State Directors of Veterans Affairs Inc. Bratten is a life member of the following veterans service organizations: America Veterans Association, Disabled American Veterans, Military Order of the Purple Heart, the American Legion, Vietnam Veterans of America, Veterans of Foreign Wars, AMVETS, Catholic War Veterans, and Military Order of Foreign Wars.

A retired U.S. Army captain, Bratten is 100% combat disabled. He is a recipient of the following military awards: Silver Star, Bronze Star with V, Air Medal, Purple Heart, Republic of Vietnam with 3 Devices, Vietnam Service Medal with 3 Devices, Army Commendation with V Device, Good Conduct, and National Defense Service Medal.

Bratten has a master of arts degree in public administration and a bachelor of arts degree in political science, both from American University, Washington, D.C. He has been actively involved in political and community activities for more than 20 years, serving in a multitude of volunteer appointments, including the Garrett County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, Governor's Commission for Employment of the Handicapped, Governor's Commission to Study the Needs of the Handicapped, Maryland Alliance of Advocates for the Handicapped, Maryland World War II Memorial Commission, Maryland Military Monuments Commission, and the Maryland Vietnam Veterans Memorial Commission.

Bratten presently serves as chairperson of the Garrett County Democratic Central Committee. He formerly served as chairperson of the Montgomery County Democratic Central Committee, and chairperson of the Montgomery County Commission on Handicapped Individuals.

Bratten was a recipient of Governor William Donald Schaefer's Disabled Marylander of the Year Award in 1990. He is a resident of the Deep Creek Lake area.

Dale W. Schroyer

From June 1959, after graduating from Northern High School, until March 31, 1997, Dale W. Schroyer made his way up the ranks in the United States military, both in active service and reserves. He began as a private in the Army, and, after 38 years of full-time duty, concluded his career by receiving a Star and the rank of Brigadier General in the Virginia National Guard. Schroyer served 26 years of active duty and 12 years of guard and reserve duty, with both the Maryland and Virginia National Guard.

A native of Friendsville, Schroyer has served in many military capacities, the last of which was chief of staff of the Blue and Gray Division, the 29th Division (light), with headquarters in Ft. Belvoir, Va. As chief of staff, then-Colonel Schroyer was operation-

Get A Life...

In some ways it seems our society in these United States is losing its collective mind, or at least its focus, on what in this relatively brief life is, or should be, important. In fact, we have recently been taking steps backward in our general level of civility.

One prime example of this is the near total fascination/obsession with the recent television program "Survivor," in which 16 persons were "abandoned" (though they did receive free suntan lotion and condoms) on a remote tropical island, and via challenges and ridiculous activities, gradually "voted" each other off the island until there was just one left, and he was awarded $1 million (as if we should have to describe this for the majority of our readers). Tens of millions of Americans watched as these individuals belittled each other, stabbed each other in the back, rolled around in mud together, and ate rats and various larvae, for several weeks. It was so culturally and educationally satisfying! Watching it was such a marvelously wise use of time! What a boon to society!

We understand the next "Survivor" program is now in production, much to the delight of those drooling millions.

How about setting the next one in the village of a third world nation, or perhaps in some impoverished area of our own country? The competitors could compete for $1 million by seeing how much work each of them could get done in a specific amount of time, building houses, hospitals, and orphanages, digging wells, doing farm work, etc. Then the winner would agree to donate 90% of his prize to charity.

A second example which points even more directly to our declining sense of decency is the quality of movies that are being produced today, with the great majority of them rated R and containing the absolute, most base language and behavior that can be imagined. Film makers are now using a "raunchy meter" to compete for the box office dollar, and the sad part is, the crowds are responding and salivating for more. There was a time when the story line and the quality of acting determined the greatness of films and the box office response. Then in more recent years it was special effects. Today it's the level of raunchiness, which is somehow equated with humor, especially by our younger generations.

Of course, as always, the almighty dollar is at the root of most of this behavior.

Get a life, America. Get a life.

To The Editor:

In answer to the letter written by Mr. Bill DeWitt 8-24-00. I would like to enlighten you somewhat concerning the mentally ill. You are fortunate not to have a loved one who suffers from mental illness; my family was not so fortunate. Yes, our loved one receives SSI and Medicare and does use the services of Lighthouse. Something you may not know is that he holds a job, washing dishes at a local restaurant. This job he has held for eight years, and you can set your clock on his arrival at work. Also, what he makes in salary is subtracted from his SSI check. He lives on his own and he is a consumer in this county.

As his caretaker, it's wonderful when the caseworker calls me from Lighthouse and tells his progress, etc. This gives me such peace of mind. A caretaker can sometimes be out on an island alone, so it's wonderful when you know each employee takes the time to help.

You mentioned reasonable transportation; have you tried Community Action?

To the Editor:

We are extremely happy to see Paul Deal point out the needs of the Garrett County Animal Shelter to the county commissioners. His passion on this issue should be felt by everyone.

As usual, the solution is not always simple. The county does not have unlimited funds for this effort, requiring fund-raising from many sources. For this reason, the Western Maryland Brew Fest chose the county Animal Shelter as the beneficiary of a portion of ticket sales from this year's festival, to be held September 16. We will donate $1.00 from every ticket and hold a 50/50 drawing to support the shelter.

The shelter will also have some pets at the festival for adoption that we hope will underscore the need for all of us to help this organization. They will also have educational brochures on hand to help educate county residents on the need to spay and neuter your animals. Fund-raising through the festival is timely, as the needs of our animal residents grow.

Help the shelter staff do their job better by helping us raise money at the Western Maryland Brew Fest on September 16.

To the Editor:

In response to Ms. Lilder's letter, I would like to share a few opinions. I make these with the feelings I have endured in my years at Southern High School.

I agree that school should be a "safe and healthy learning environment for all students..." I do believe in sexual harassment policies, but not the way it was handled last year at SHS. You are right, no one had the right to tease and taunt your son; no one had the right to put him through hell. But more importantly, your son did not have the right to falsely accuse people of sexual harassment. I did feel sorry for your son, but not after I sat in the office for two hours waiting to be questioned over a false accusation.

Students at SHS were not in a healthy environment when we were afraid to speak, look, or even think something that might be taken the wrong way. It was to the point you just wondered who would be the next to be accused. I really couldn't give a rat's rear end what sexuality your son is. I just believe if someone is insecure about their sexuality, whether it be heterosexual, homosexual, or whatever, do not flaunt it around.

I am not saying Paul is a horrible person, but I don't believe he is leaving Garrett County a better person. I just believe he is leaving here $30,000 richer.

Thank you,
Lacey Holtschneider

To the Editor:

This letter concerns The Vogues performance at the Garrett County Fair on Wednesday, Aug. 16. If you saw the performance, you were deceived. This group has no members of the original Vogues in it (present or past). The original Vogues are from Turtle Creek, Pa., and some are still performing together.

The original members of the Vogues are Bill Burkette, Don Miller, Hugh Geyer, and Chuck Blasko. Apparently, the Vogues never copyrighted their name and now there are all types of groups calling themselves The Vogues and touring the United States deceiving all their fans.

Although this group entertained their audience on August 16, they weren't the "real thing." I feel bad that many of the real Vogues fans came to see the original group and relive old memories, but were deceived.

This group makes a lot of money performing and selling shoddy merchandise by claiming that they are The Vogues. If you listened to them, they never said, "This was one of our top 10 songs." They would only say, "This was one of the Vogues' top 10 songs."

My daughter has been on stage with one of the original Vogues, Chuck Blasko, and his group. None of these so-called Vogues has ever performed with him.

Why should we pay for phony merchandise and see a performance by imposters? I'm sure the original Vogues would like to perform at the Garrett County Fair.

As I told my daughter on August 16, "You know all the words to these songs, so you can go on stage and say that you are a Vogue, too!"

Let's not be fooled next year if/when the Garrett County Fair Board wants to book imposters again!

Thank you,
Kimberly Smith

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the article and editorial in The Republican, Aug. 24, 2000, in regard to the euthanasia of 15 dogs at the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

The other day I called the shelter for advice about a very tame young deer frequently seen at Foodland Fresh, Route 219, in McHenry. A helpful member of the shelter staff suggested I contact the DNR to discuss rescuing and reintroducing this young deer back to the wild. The callous response of the DNR ranger was typical of the attitude toward wildlife and domestic animals we have that are observed by some people in this area.

Upon further discussion with a member of the staff of the shelter, I learned of the recent case of parvovirus and the subsequent reaction of local authorities to actions taken by the shelter to stop the spread of this lethal disease.

Our dogs at home are routinely vaccinated against this virus and others. We lost a collie to parvo before the vaccine was available to the public. I believe that two veterinarians who guided the shelter in making the decision to euthanize the dogs made the correct decision under the circumstances. According to the staff member I spoke with, the dog came to the shelter in seemingly good health and three days later became ill. Veterinarians were consulted and a diagnosis was made on this recent shelter arrival. As far as I can tell, the staff reacted in a professional manner.

We strongly believe that a public education program is necessary to teach proper care of domestic animals, such as neutering, spaying, proper immunization, etc. It is terribly sad (and in many other areas, considered abusive) to see dogs chained and ignored for long periods of time.

I would hope that Dr. Paul Deal and other veterinarians (two of whom do help train the staff, I understand) will cooperate further with the shelter to begin (or continue) free rabies clinics, other proper immunizations at reduced rates, volunteer programs for education in the schools, and reduced rates for spaying and neutering with increased funding from the county and private donations for these projects. Publicity and high visibility will increase donations and volunteers as there are many responsible, good-hearted folks in this area.

I was pleased that Dr. Deal has also offered to further train the staff, who would welcome this assistance, [illegible] to my recent [illegible]ion with shelter staff.

The awareness and training must start at the top — a proper administrator (per excellent editorial); funding for training and programs; funding for a trained warden; and funding for a volunteer program. Proper and in-depth home inspections before adoption are also a part of a good program.

I have noted in news articles the encouragement of young people to learn shooting and hunting skills. Wouldn't it be nice if Garrett County fostered respect and care for all living things instead of teaching our youth to kill?

I hope support and assistance will be forthcoming for the fine, dedicated staff at the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

Sincerely,
Shirley McManus
McHenry/Arlington, Va.

To the Editor:

It became necessary this past weekend to call for the assistance of the Maryland State Police at the McHenry Barrack. State Policemen Tfc. Blair Bittinger, Tfc. Mike Kleppinger, and Tfc. Scott MacLane responded in a matter of minutes and resolved the problem in a professional manner.

You can feel at ease knowing the State Police are available 24 hours a day. Thank you again to our Maryland State Troopers.

To the Editor:

Summer has passed by quickly, and it's time, again, for college to begin. I find myself thinking back two and a half years ago to my first semester.

I made the decision to attend college and I chose Garrett Community College because of the location and the size. I didn't really know why I was there at first, but I felt as though I should be doing something more with my life. Still, I questioned myself. What did I hope to gain by attending college? Did I belong there at my age? The people in the admissions office bent over backwards to make incoming students feel welcome and comfortable. They are patient, kind, and friendly, addressing each and every concern a student may have. They did so much to make me feel at ease. In the 2½ years that followed, each and every instructor challenged the students to work hard and to succeed.

I was foolish for not attending college when I got out of high school. But, I have realized it is never too late. I am proud that I chose to do it, and I'm grateful for having been given the opportunity to do so. I graduated from Garrett in May and I am now attending WVU.

Up until a few years ago. I had not been interested, at all, in attending college. I mistakenly thought I knew what I needed to know. I couldn't have been more wrong. I found myself learning about things I had often wondered about, but had never taken the time to find out about, and I learned about things I had never even heard of before. I was amazed when that would happen, and I wished many times that I had known that information years before I actually learned it.

Sincerely, and with gratitude, I would like to thank every professor with whom I had the pleasure of being in class. I've learned so much. I would like to say a special thanks to Terry Kasecamp, Virginia Broaddus, and Beth Luers for unending encouragement and kindness, and for teaching me things I will never, ever, forget.

If anyone reading this letter is considering starting college, but just can't seem to take the first step, go for it.

LABOR AND WORK

The huffing and puffing of steam engines drew my attention a few weeks ago, a day's worth of attention attending a big steam engine rally. Some said it was the biggest gathering of steam east of the Mississippi.

There were steam tractors, steam locomotives, steam mills (saw, flour, shingle), steam-driven threshing and baling, stationary steam engines from ships and factories, and a steam-driven dynamo that provides much of the electricity on the property.

The crowd was largely white and male, perhaps 90% so. There was a wider diversity of ages than might be expected in this Internet age.

The news story from the event is that all that equipment, most of it less than a century old and all of it less than two centuries old, is indeed outmoded. It is of antiquarian interest only. We live in a time when the newest computer is outdated before the purchaser can get it home and out of the box. Imagining the enormous revolution made of steam, little more than a hundred years ago, is difficult.

Steel and cast iron, that not long ago formed the hard cutting edge of modernity, are now romantic memories, playthings for the affluent American hobbyist. Perhaps the romance of steam's obsolescence arises partly from the white, traditional American male's sense of identification. While steam engines roared, the daily bashing given the attendees in the media — electronic and print alike — was drowned out.

The "Rough and Tumble" event felt like a celebration of an age that is past, even long past.

I suggest that in this instance the white male and his sense of self-obsolescence is like the canary in the mine. Old miners remember the days when a canary in a cage was taken down into the mine, because when poisonous fumes started to infiltrate, they would kill the canary first, and the men knew to head for the surface as quickly as possible.

The steam engine replaced animal power. It took a hundred years to drive the horse, mule, and ox off the farm. There are still holdouts (may God multiply their kind!), but "horsepower" is an oxymoron, a unit of power the name of which is meaningless to almost everyone who uses it.

As the steam engine replaced animal power, so the computer now replaces people power. If technology continues to advance at anything like its present speed, more and more people will be as obsolete as the mule. People will no longer be needed to do anything but consume. There may be another revolution after that which will make human beings unnecessary for anything at all, a mere obstacle in the way of progress.

People still work today, but there is less and less labor in life. We are sold one labor-saving device after another. We have to build additions to our homes in order to hold them all.

One of the ironies in this trend is that Americans are working more and more hours in order to purchase more and more labor-saving devices or the latest generation of the latest gadget.

The recent Verizon strikes had much to do with mandatory overtime. Think about it: an entire class of employees must be willing to work an extra 7 to 10 hours in order to be permitted to work the 40-hour week. The 40-hour work week — one of the great achievements of organized labor in the 20th century — has fallen by the wayside.

Labor is definitely out. Those who have to labor are deemed less fortunate. Those who choose to labor are deemed to be partly demented. While labor is out, work is very much in. Work is consuming the consumer.

Technology, introduced as our servant, becomes our master. The slavery that is coming is compassionless, for we serve the master without a heart. We cannot even say that the new master is machine; it is merely a micro-chip, but it rules the world.

were in favor of a bypass, 57 percent expressed support for the hybrid alternate." Maloney added that the no-build option will continue to receive consideration until final project approval is or is not granted.

The hybrid alternate was first proposed late last year and quickly drew the public endorsement of the county's Planning and Zoning Commission, Economic Development Corporation, and Oakland's mayor and town council. Maloney said that the hybrid alternate recommendation was presented to the state's Department of Transportation earlier this summer, and has already program. Continuing with past tradition, no windshield permit will be required to recycle at the landfill or any of the refuse collection sites. The same materials (aluminum and bi-metal cans), glass bottles and jars (clear, green, and brown), newspaper, HDPE #2 plastic jugs and bottles, assorted office paper, used motor oil, and used antifreeze may be recycled.

However, in the past, both aluminum and bi-metal cans were recycled in the same bin (the light blue container). Now only aluminum cans (soda pop and beer) will be collected in the light blue bins. All other cans may be recycled in the mixed scrap metal open-top container.

Children's Trust Fund Grant Won By Partnership

The Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc. (GC PCF) has been awarded a Maryland Children's Trust Fund Grant to implement a portion of a data-gathering program titled the Garrett Data Mart.

The goal of the project is to provide a method of tracking data that can be used to evaluate local services in the area of child abuse and neglect prevention. The Children's Trust Fund grant will help local service providers gather and analyze data on all reported incidents of child abuse and neglect in the county.

An innovative feature of this proposal, according to Lucia Biers, GC PCF resource analyst and member of the State Council on Child Abuse and Neglect, is the application of information technology to solve the problem of tracking the use of inter-agency services while at the same time preserving individual privacy.

"Collection of system-level data in a uniform manner is a relatively new endeavor," Biers said. "Pending successful prototype testing, the product has applicabiiity for every jurisdiction in Maryland. Of special note is the fact that the Garrett Data Mart seeks to collect aggregate data on groups of service recipients, rather than collecting 'case management' level information on a particular service recipient."

In the process of gathering the child abuse and neglect information, the program will protect individual privacy by never storing any names or other identifiers in the database. Therefore it will be impossible to identify an individual by name through the database. The initiation of this process was based on a recommendation from Mark Moynahan, the GC PCF information technology consultant, Biers reported. This technique will also enable the staff to track the use of multiple services.

The Garrett Data Mart project began as the result of a 1997 community needs assessment. The use of information technology to enhance service delivery was prioritized as a key component of the Garrett County "Vision to Scale" Community Partnership agreement of September 1998, Biers said. In February 1999, the Garrett County Local Management Board (LMB) and the Garrett County Family Violence Coalition (FVC) signed a partnership agreement to create an Interagency Management Information System (IMIS).

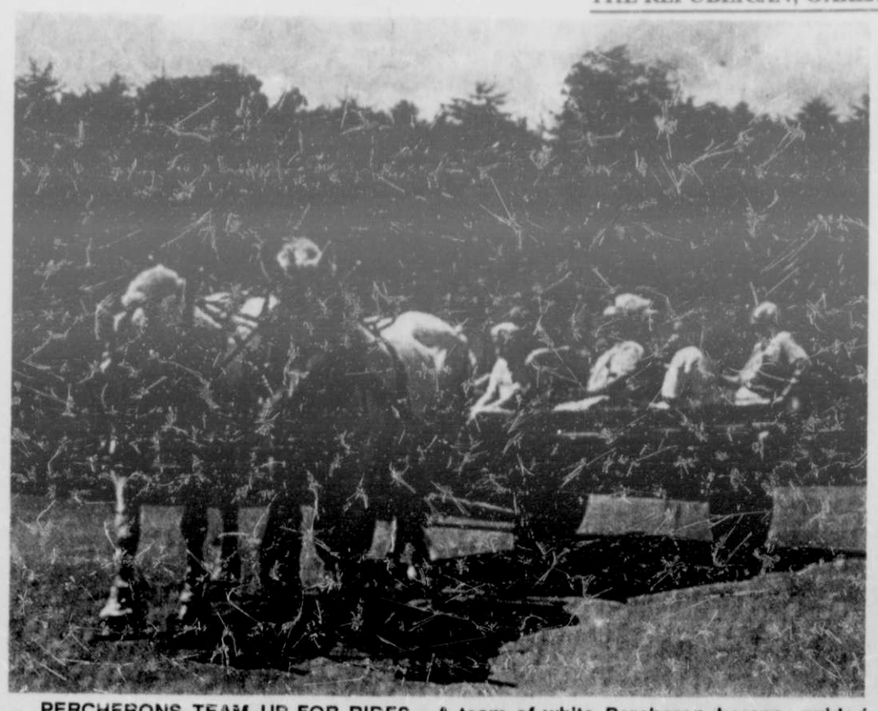
Both groups agreed to track incidents of family violence (including child maltreatment) as a starting point for the Garrett Data Mart, the central data repository for the IMIS. To date, seven other local partners have signed collaborative agreements. Micro Integration Inc. has been contracted to provide programming services for the data mart.

Bill Flockhart, Department of Social Services network specialist, and Peggy Nelson, Family Violence Coalition coordinator, are currently testing and modifying the prototype software at the Department of Social Services. The grant will provide additional programming services, software to "web-enable" the database, and staff training. Implementation of the inter-agency data collection is expected to begin by November 2000.

Biers said the long-term goal of the Garrett Data Mart project is to improve services to recipients. The use of local services will be analyzed, and where service delivery is lacking, adjustments will be made. This grant is funding Step 3 of the program. Step 1 and 2 have focused on establishing a system to track incidents of family violence, including child abuse. Step 3 will focus on tracking interagency interventions related to the prevention, detection, prosecution, and treatment of child abuse and neglect, Biers said.

The purpose of the Garrett Data Mart Step 3 project is to use information to track and analyze the following: child abuse and neglect reports, incidents of child abuse and neglect that coincide with incidents of other domestic violence, and any subsequent reports of child abuse and neglect in families who already regularly use local family preservation and support services.

The GC PCF serves as the administrative arm of the LMB. For more information about the Garrett Data Mart, persons may call Susan Athey-Oxford, GC PCF president, at the Garrett Partnership office



PERCHERONS TEAM UP FOR RIDES - A team of white Percheron horses, guided by Jim Doyle, an employee of the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home, Grantsville, lined up in front of the wagon recently, to offer rides to residents. Jim's son Jamie helped by steadying the horses while folks were loading and unloading. Wheelchairs were wheeled up the ramp by staff and volunteers. Those who didn't care to ride sat back and watched the big, gentle horses, and reminisced about the good old days when horses were used in farming. It was a day of blue sky, white fluffy clouds, and warm sunshine. After numerous trips around the campus, some residents voiced concerns about the horses being tired. However, Jim assured everyone that the horses "hardly worked up a sweat." Residents, smiling as they returned from the ride, commented on how much fun they were having. "When can we do this again?" one resident asked as the rides drew to a close. In the photo at left is Jim Doyle with one of his Percherons. His son Jamie stands in the background. Above, the wagon carrying delighted residents and volunteers heads out for a drive.

Leads Sought In Waverunner Theft From DCL Marina

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is investigating the Monday night theft of a Waverunner personal watercraft, and the dual trailer upon which it was stored, from the Silver Tree Marina along Deep Creek Lake.

The white 2000 Polaris Virage Waverunner, valued at $7,000, was stored behind the marina's office on a white E-Z Loader dual Waverunner trailer valued at $1,500. A second Waverunner was damaged during the same night, apparently as the perpetrator(s) tried to steal it as well.

DFC Rob Corley reported that the stolen Waverunner had a white hull and a blue seat and steering unit, a 95-horsepower engine, Maryland registration tag 8962LA, and a hull i.d. number of 1ZE1XCP11SA 024933. The white Waverunner trailer bore an unknown Pennsylvania license plate.

Persons with information on the theft are encouraged to contact the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911.

September 6, 1999

The sun doesn't shine in my world anymore.
The tears come so easy, I don't laugh like before.
The sparkle that was once in my eyes is now gone.
Our family of two is now only one.
Our love was unconditional, pure and strong and true.
Even death could not destroy this love I have for you.
Nothing can ease this pain that I feel.
And I know my heart will never heal.
My world will never be the same.
Nothing can bring you back again.
Not the million tears I've cried.
Not the thousand deaths I've died.
We promised to love each other for all eternity,
And somewhere up above I know you wait for me.

I will always love you,
Ann

Cumberland Mayor To Speak At Salem Children's Trust Banquet

Cumberland mayor Lee Fiedler will serve as keynote speaker at the Maryland Salem Children's Trust Outspokin' for Maryland's Kids fund-raising banquet and silent auction on Saturday, Sept. 9, at the Cumberland Country Club.

A native of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, Fiedler holds a degree in chemistry from Kent State University and is a graduate of the Harvard University Advanced Management Program. Prior to his move to Cumberland to become the president and CEO of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company in 1991, he lived in Akron, Ohio, where he had been vice president and general manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company's chemical division.

Fielder also served as vice president of purchasing for Goodyear worldwide.

During his appointment as president and CEO of the Kelly Springfield, Fiedler was honored by Advertising Age magazine as one of America's Top 100 Marketers and was responsible for expanding the company's support for County United Way and numerous local economic development initiatives.

In addition to serving as the chairman of the steering committee for the Governor's Western Maryland Economic Development Task Force, Fielder is active in many community organizations. He serves on local boards including the Allegany College Foundation, Cumberland Memorial Hospital corporate board, Potomac Highland Airport Authority, F&M Bank, Frostburg State University Engineering Advisory Board, Frostburg State University MBA and Business School advisory boards, Bishop Walsh Middle High School, Western Maryland Scenic Railroad, PACE Plus, Rocky Gap Foundation, Allegany County Chamber of Commerce, and the League for Crippled Children.

Fielder and his wife Teresa reside in Cumberland and are the parents of five children and have five grandchildren. The couple has also cared for foster children.

The Maryland Salem Children's Trust provides residential, educational, and emergency shelter services to children in crisis who are unable to live with their own families.

POKER RUN BENEFITS MS SOCIETY — The Miss Kitty/Coors Poker Run took place recently as 75 motorcyclists roamed the mountaintop in search of a winning poker hand. The annual event raised its biggest donation pool this year, $840, which went to the Multiple Sclerosis Society to benefit local MS patients and their families. Pictured from the left are Poker Run sponsors Cathy Lohr of Lohr Distributors; Judy Smith of the Garrett County MS Society's self-help support group; and Dick Williams of the Long Branch Saloon.

Mountain Lake Park Observer

by Dan Whittelsey

Some interesting events have taken place in the last several weeks while I have been away. Most important was the rescinding the disastrous resolution to pay $50,000 to Oakland so that they would not build campsites in Broadford Lake Park. The Broadford Lake problem has been around for awhile. It calls for study by a group of responsible citizens from Oakland and Mountain Lake Park. I hope the mayor will initiate such a study.

You should visit the Visitors Center in McHenry. There is a display of memorabilia and pictures of Mountain Lake Park put together by Karen Wooddell and Shirley Mumford. The Historical Society supplied some of the memorabilia.

The Picnic in the Park put on by Crime Watch and Lou DiCarlo was a big success last Saturday. All the featured organizations attended. Over 700 hot dogs were consumed. Two town council members were present; the others did not put in an appearance. It is a shame that the town residents who support them could not meet and talk with their voters. Senator John Hafer, Delegate George Edwards, and Garrett County Commissioners Fred Holliday and Wendell Beitzel also were present.

Facilities for registering voters were made available and achieved some good results.

Cumberland Wine Festival Slated To Benefit Red Cross

The Cumberland Wine Festival, an annual fundraiser for the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross, will take place at Rocky Gap State Park from Friday, Sept. 8, through Sunday, Sept. 10. The Western Potomac Chapter of the ARC serves Garrett, Allegany, and Mineral (W.Va.) counties.

The charitable event will feature 20 East Coast wineries, and over 200 wines will be available for sampling. Local and regional groups will provide continuous live music during the festival, and over 30 artists and artisans will be displaying and selling their wares. Food will be available from several local restaurants.

Festival organizers announced recently that a camera crew from the Comedy Central television channel will be on hand during the weekend. The camera crew will be videotaping festival-goers interested in auditioning for an "on-air" appearance on the Indecision 2000 program. The winner of the national promotional effort will be awarded the opportunity to serve as a special correspondent covering the Comedy Channel's election night party in New York City this November.

Tickets for the Wine Festival are $12 in advance and $14 at the gate, and admission includes a commemorative wine glass. Advance tickets can be obtained by calling the Red Cross office in Cumberland at 301-722-1760 or 800-361-9481. Tickets are also available online at www.ticketweb.com.

SWEET HONEY IN THE ROCK will appear on the Garrett Community College stage on Saturday, Sept. 2, at 8 p.m. The program is a part of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) 2000 season. Sweet Honey In the Rock is a Grammy Award-winning African American female a cappella ensemble with roots in the sacred music of the Black church, spirituals, hymns, and gospel, as well as jazz and blues. The concert is made possible by the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. Season sponsors of GLAF are Sprenger-Lang Foundation, Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Sincell Publishing Company, and Deep Creek Mountain Resort. The concert is funded in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts. Beth Johnson, GLAF executive director, said the concert is sold out.

Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre To Open Cultural Events Series At FSU

The dynamic Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre will open the 2000-2001 Cultural Events Series at Frostburg State University, with two performances including classical ballet masterpieces and innovative explorations of contemporary dance. As one of the top five ballet companies from outside New York City, PBT is known for its exquisite technique, distinctive artistry, and stunning theatricality.

The first performance is slated for Saturday, Sept. 16, at 8 p.m. PBT will present a matinee performance on Sunday, Sept. 17, at 2 p.m. Both performances will take place in the PAC Drama Theatre.

Drawing from the cultural backgrounds of the five principal dancers who come from Cuba, China, and London, PBT's diverse repertoire reflects an international flavor. In addition, these dancers have performed worldwide as soloists.

Artistic director Terrence S. Orr, also director of the prestigious Agnes de Mille Dance Theatre Foundation, brings 30 years of accomplishments in the dance world and an international reputation as a guest teacher to PBT. Before joining the company in July 1997, he was principal dancer for several ballet companies and artistic director of the American Ballet Theater.

As one critic said, "There is no such thing as an impossible dream when you have a ballet company as talented and high-spirited as the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre."

These performances are supported by a grant from Pittsburgh Arts on Tour, a program funded by the Vira I. Heinz Endowment and administered by the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation.

For information and ticket reservations, persons may contact the Lane Center Box Office at 301-687-4411 Monday through Friday, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Based on availability, tickets may also be purchased at the PAC box office one hour prior to curtain.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4201, TDD 301-687-7955.

Heart's In Arts 5K Run/Walk Set At Spruce Forest

Spruce Forest Artisan Village in Grantsville has set its fifth annual "My Heart's in the Arts" 5K Run/Walk for Saturday, Sept. 16, at 9 a.m., rain or shine. Bill Workman of the Queen City Striders, which is affiliated with the Road Runners Club of America, is working with race director Trish Morgan to officially measure the course and get it ready for the nearly 100 participants expected to turn out for the race.

"The course distance will be verified by the Queen City Striders, who will also serve as race coordinators and provide finish line services and split times," Morgan said.

Entrants who register as "early-birds" by September 6 will pay $15 to enter the race. The cost per person after the early-bird deadline will be $18. All proceeds from the race will benefit the non-profit Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

The first 50 people to register for the race will be entitled to an exclusive custom-designed race T-shirt, and all participants will receive a "goodie-bag" the day of the race. One hundred dollar U.S. savings bonds and certificates will be presented to the first male and female 5K Run finishers, and to the first three finishers in each of the following groups: Men and Women: under 19, 20-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, 50-59 and over 60. Certificates will be given to the top male and female walkers in these same age groups.

Complimentary refreshments will be provided following the race. At the post-race awards ceremony, there will be a drawing for prizes handcrafted by local artisans.

The race is sponsored in part by the Maryland State and Garrett County arts councils. For more information, persons may call Morgan at 301-895-3332.

Listening To The Voice Of Mental Illness

The Families Subcommittee of the Mountain Top Mental Health Associates, Inc. (MTMHA), continues to learn from families of people with mental illness. To help improve services and increase public awareness of mental illness, some of these family members have agreed to share their stories.

DAVID'S STORY

It's like all my cells are exploded over the universe, and I live in each of those billions and millions of nuclei shooting in every direction. In the midst of all this, how could I possibly deal with the concrete, even tie my shoelaces, much less find my shoes?

I convinced myself several things were happening: Unrecognizable voices invaded my ears; transmitters had been planted in the ceiling; everyone on the Hall spoke about me; my behavior was watched and discussed by staff; nursing reports, patients' journals, were filled with hundreds of pages describing my appearance and movements; spies were sent into the Hall exclusively to keep track of me and to report any suspicious behavior to the hospital administration; therapists ignored their own patients and spent hours in endless discussion, looking at the ramifications of my case; TV cameras, hooked into the walls taped my facial expressions; every morning, around 3 a.m., three thousand spotlights aimed directly into my eyes; staff prepared elaborate strategies to humiliate me, to expose me, and leave me naked in front of the Hall; killers hid behind closed doors and waited until night to sneak into my room; and food poisoned my insides and rotted out my intestines.

Lying down, my body became so brittle I felt it cracking into a thousand pieces; at night, my roommate fed on my blood. Not exactly sane thoughts. In my frame of mind, if I were to stay alive, I had to be attuned to every movement in the Hall.

I hear this voice sometimes. I call it the "maelstrom of manufactured criticism" because it always tears away at me, rips my identity into shreds, and slices away at everything I am. It's like being in the midst of the Straits of the Sirens with a ferocious storm overhead, no sun, just black clouds that turn the world into night. Sometimes the voice booms in my ears. Other times, it sounds like a song, a melody, but the lyrics, even though the singing is sweet, are filled with criticism and attack. The verbal abuse never lets up. It goes on and on for hours. Nothing outside touches me when it's there: I refuse to talk to anyone; I sit, stare, smoke cigarettes until the voice leaves.

Nothing really stops the madness. I rarely change clothes; hygiene and meals become too much. And, I have more important things to do than be bothered with my nutrition or cleanliness. Contact with people seems closed off; I lose interest in what happens on the Hall. I forget what day it is; I lose track of mealtimes and Hall meetings. Something as simple as selecting a shirt paralyzes me.

That's what begins my psychotic episodes, little things, nothing more dramatic than trying to find a shirt. It's like this huge problem overtakes you: moving toward the closet, opening the door, searching through the rack. Each step of the process is like climbing Mount Everest, so you say to yourself, "Why bother, let it be, stay with the one on your back." Little things are magnified a thousand times, and what happens inside your mind takes on much greater importance than your own hygiene or appearance.

For more information about mental illness and mental health services, persons may contact the MTMHA offices at 301-334-8144 or 1-877-286-8642 (877ATMTMHA) or by mail at Mountain Top Mental Health Associates Inc. 428 Weber Road, Oakland, MD 21550-1943.

The Families Subcommittee, chaired by Rev. Roland Nairn, is continuing to look for stories from families, friends, or persons who have experienced mental illness. Anyone who would like to share their story is encouraged to contact the MTMHA offices. Confidentiality is assured, and every effort will be made to assist families to resolve problems.

Support Group Meeting Slated

Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Arthritis & Fibromyalgia Support Group will meet Tuesday, Sept. 5, at 6:30 p.m. in the board room of the hospital. "Senior Wellness," a new program offered by the GCMH Wellness Department, will be introduced by Debora Nichols, CHES, wellness coordinator. All ages are welcome and handouts will be given. For more information, persons may contact Vicki Insley at 301-334-9767.

Right Step Plans Holiday Events; Seeks Support

The Right Step drop-in center, an organization serving people with mental illness, will hold its first holiday celebration events in the coming months. Halloween, Thanksgiving, and Christmas plans are being outlined at this time, according to publicity coordinator Howard Gerard.

Having opened its doors to mental health consumers last month, the new organization has recently asked for the support of individuals or businesses within the community. "Anyone — consumer, family member, friend, or other organization — wishing to help with food donations, money for supplies, prize donations, or gift donations or with planning, please call Right Step at 301-334-4630 or toll free at 1-877-694-8345," Gerard requested, adding that any and all help would be "greatly appreciated."

The mission of the Right Step center is to develop a self-help, mutual support, and advocacy association by and for all persons who have been diagnosed with a mental illness; to challenge discrimination toward mentally ill persons, and help educate members, families, and the community at large as to the needs, issues, and problems faced by persons with diagnoses of mental illness; and to advocate for and promote the human rights of persons with mental illness.

America's Oldest Brewery

Pottsville, Pa.

A NEW CREW HAS COME TO TOWN!

Lohr Distributors is proud to announce they have been assigned the distribution rights for Yuengling Beer in the Garrett County area, and is excited to be a part of such a strong family oriented brewery. The Yuengling brands include Traditional Lager, Premium Light, Black & Tan, Chesterfield Ale, and Porter, all at a premium price.

D.G. Yuengling & Son is "America's Oldest Brewery" that was established in 1829 in Pottsville, PA. The brewery has always had a high demand for the quality products they produce, but supplying this demand has always been a challenge. That is until the recent announcement of building a fifty million dollar brewery just a few miles down the road from their existing brewery. This new brewery will triple Yuengling's brewing capacity allowing them to make an expansion into new market areas. Amongst the new areas is Garrett County. Yuengling's presence will be felt in the later part of August due to its Pennsylvania popularity, and will prove to be a strong brand in the premium beer category. Today, enjoy a Yuengling beer!

Southern Girls Anticipate Another Winning Season

With just one senior lost to graduation from last year's 7-4-1 team (7-2-1 in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League), Coach Ron Petrella and the Rams can hardly wait to get their 2000 campaign under way, which will happen next Wednesday at home against Fort Hill.

Midfielder Bonnie Riley, a second-team All-WMIL selection, was the only player to graduate from the Ram squad, and several talented freshmen have upped the team roster to 21. Among those back are WMIL Defensive Player of the Year Miriam Sincell, who is a junior, and two other first-team All-Area picks, veteran goal keeper Becky Martin and midfielder Megan Burner, also juniors.

Also among those who have returned are senior defender Sarah Teets and sophomore striker Brittany Naylor, both second-team All-WMIL selections. Naylor was fourth in the area scoring with 13 goals in nine matches.

Sincell, Martin, and Burner were also named to the All-Area first team, while Naylor was a second-team pick. Junior Alison Ulino, who received All-WMIL and All-Area honorable mention, and striker Gina Reeves, who also received honorable mention All-WMIL, are also back this season.

Head Coach: Ron Petrella

READY FOR SOME SOCCER are the members of the Southern High School girls' varsity team, who will open their 2000 campaign next Wednesday at home with a Western Maryland Interscholastic League match against Fort Hill. The Rams, who finished 7-2-1 last season in the WMIL and 7-4-1 overall, lost only one senior, captain Bonnie Riley, to graduation, so are expected to be among the area's most talented teams. Pictured in front above is goal keeper Becky Martin. Seated, from left, are: Laura Bonser, Brittany Naylor, Miriam Sincell, Suzanne Gilbert, Kristen Oxford, and Justine Pagenhardt. Kneeling, same order, are: Falon Stutzman, Casey Taylor, Alison Ulino, Holly Sauder, Sarah Teets, Robbin Gregg, Gina Reeves, and Sabrina Scheffel. Standing are: head coach Ron Petrella, Charlena Reeves, Alasha Rush, Anne Bicker, Jennifer Hickman, Chelsea Remley, Megan Burner, and assistant coach Diana Ashby. See story for details.

"Our strength continues to be defense," said Coach Petrella. "We won a lot of close games last year with our defense. Miriam and Becky have led great defensive play for the past two years, so we will continue to rely on their skills to keep us in games."

Petrella said that his main concern this year, as with every year, is injuries. "If we can stay healthy, we should be competitive in every match," he said. "Girls' soccer continues to evolve in western Maryland and the quality of play improves each year. We expect every team we play this year has also improved, so the competition will be tough."

Another concern of Petrella and assistant coach Diana Ashby is the relatively low scoring output of the Rams in the past two seasons. "As I said, we had a lot of close games the last two years, so we hope to improve our attack," he said. "The one-goal results are not good for my overall health!"

Among the freshman members of the team are several "veterans" of the Mountaintop Soccer Association's youth recreation league, including Justine Pagenhardt, Casey Taylor, Holly Sauder, Robbin Gregg, Sabrina Scheffel, and Alasha Rush, all of whom were standouts in that program.

"The girls are very excited about the season," Petrella said. "We've had a couple very good weeks of practice and now look forward to our first match with Fort Hill, which is also a good team. We hope to have big crowds on hand for all of our home matches, as well as for the boys' matches."

The Rams' second match will be at Bishop Walsh on Sept. 9.

Youth Soccer Season Of MSA Now Under Way

The Mountaintop Soccer Association began its fall 2000 season this week, with initial matches being played on Monday.

"We look forward to another great year of soccer," said Ron Petrella, MSA president. "We have another record number of kids registered this year with 560 on 48 teams. It just keeps growing each year."

MSA booklets should be ready for distribution the week after Labor Day, Petrella said, adding that no matches are scheduled for the Labor Day and Autumn Glory Festival weekends.

MSA shirt night will be next Tuesday, Sept. 5, at Southern High School. The Northern boys will play Southern at 7:30 p.m., which is the first high school soccer game of the year. All who wear their MSA game jersey will be admitted free. "We invite everyone to attend this game and see soccer played at a higher level. You will also be supporting your local high school teams," Petrella said. Southern girls, who are coached by Petrella, will kick off their season the next night, Wednesday, Sept. 6, at 7:30 p.m. with a home game against Fort Hill.

"We would not be able to do what we do without the help of many people," Petrella said. I want to thank all of the parents who volunteer their time to coach teams. A special thanks to Bill Stuck for organizing equipment and team uniform distribution; Scott Hollingsworth, Jean Gilbert, and Steve Anderson for lining our soccer fields; Kevin Hesselbach and Rudy's at the Wisp for processing our uniforms; Jim Hart, referee coordinator; MSA secretary Tawney Brack for all the work she did processing applications this year, Mike Browning for doing the schedules, Robin Storey, treasurer, and Mel Menker, board member. I also want to thank Dale Curtis of Grantsville for assisting me with the northern teams and the Grantsville field, and the Hinebaughs for providing the most important piece of equipment, the port-a-pot. Also, we want to thank the Deep Creek Lions Club for the use of its fields near Garrett Community College."

Petrella also noted his appreciation to team sponsors. "We would not be able to provide soccer to our area youth without the support of our sponsors. They help keep the cost down for participating families and we have not had to increase registration fees in 10 years because of their support. We ask everyone to support the businesses that support your kids."

MSA's "Shirt Night" To Be Next Tuesday

"Shirt Night" for all Mountaintop Soccer Association (MSA) team players will be held Tuesday, Sept. 5. Any youth wearing his or her current MSA team shirt will be admitted free to the opening game of the Southern Ram soccer team.

The Rams will be up against the Huskies for the season opener. The junior varsity game will begin at 6 p.m., followed by the varsity game at 7:30 p.m. All MSA players are encouraged to attend.

THERE IS EXCITEMENT as the Southern High School varsity boys' team looks toward its season opener next Tuesday at home against the Northern Huskies, as the Rams return a veteran squad of players that went 8-0 last Saturday in a scrimmage tournament at Williamsport High School. Most of the players participated in winter and spring programs, and are anxious to put their skills to the test in the high school season. The Rams return a strong nucleus from last year's 8-4-1 team that captured second place in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League (5-1-1). Pictured above are the varsity players, with goalkeepers Jonathan Neville and Chris Menker in front. Standing in the first row, from left, are: Andrew Grant, Brandon Heselbach, Chad Panther, Brian Cathell, Matthew Burner, Riff Browning, Chris Romley, and Kyle Rives. In the back row, same order, are: David Glotfelty, Don Parsons, Ryan Ewing, Keith Steyer, Josh Stevens, Dustin Slider, Bryan Schwalm, and Clement Chauzat. Tom Powers is the head coach, and the assistant is Mel Menker. Pictured below are the junior varsity members. In front is goalkeeper Sean Buckle. In the front row, from left, are: Bryan Wolf, Brian Howell, Aaron Riggleman, Adam Miller, Chuckie Burton, Steve Knepp, Kody Morfoot, A.J. Bender, Nick Perry, and Karl Hillen. In the back are: Bryan VanBogelen, Jimmy Carpenter, Arthur Lemley, Chris Lantz, Dennis Tressler, Matt Stephens, Dan Cathell, Brian Fike, and Bobby Burton. The Jayvees are coached by Mike Browning and Karl Schwalm.

Railey Realty Squad Claims Hoop Crown

The Railey Realty basketball team, composed of Southern High School boys' varsity squad members, captured the Berkeley Springs (W.Va.) Outdoor Summer Basketball League championship recently by defeating a team from Martinsburg, W.Va. The title game triumph came on the heels of the Garrett County representatives' semi-final victory over Hedgesville, W.Va.

Railey Realty had entered the playoff tourney as the top seed by virtue of its 8-2 record against the Berkeley Springs league competition, losing by just one point to both Martinsburg and host Berkeley Springs. The team concluded its overall summer schedule, which included a runner-up slot in the Fort Hill Summer League, at 18-5.

The line-up for the Railey Realty squad was Bryan Panther, Mike Saturday, Keith Steyer, Josh Sharon, Ricky Reams, Jamie Bosley, Chad Panther, Bryson Meyers, Joel Helbig, and Dennis Tressler. The squad was coached by Ryan White and Nathaniel Panther.

Oakland Youth Football League Resulis Noted

The first games of the 2000 Oakland Youth Football League season were played on Saturday, with the Ravens topping the Redskins, 28-14, and the Jets rolling over the Raiders, 26-6, in the NFL division.

The annual Club Golf Tournament at the Wisp Golf Resort was played on the McHenry links over the weekend. Each of the flight winners took home a trophy, while second- and third-place finishers received gift certificates.

The winners of the men's 36-hole tourney were as follows: Championship Flight — Frank Neff, Oakland, 159; A Flight — Chris Otto, Salisbury, Pa., 168; B Flight — Tony Doerr, Accident, 182; and C Flight — Bob Gear, Frederick, 188.

THERE ARE HIGH EXPECTATIONS of the Northern High School boys' varsity soccer team this year, as the 9-5-1 squad from last season lost only one senior to graduation. The Huskies will face a tough test right away when they travel to Oakland next Tuesday to face their county rivals, the Southern Rams. Pictured above in the front is goal keeper Woody Kenner. Seated from left are junior varsity players Shane Yoder, Jason Afable, Derek Buckel, Zach Bruch, Geoff Newman, Torrey Poholsky, Eric Garlitz, Chad Stallman, and Brian Covell. Kneeling, from left, are varsity players Shane Mayle, Michael Guard, Brent Housley, Guy Beltzel, Eric Durst, Shawn Fike, Mitchell Guard, and Adam DeWitt. Standing, same order, are Coach Tom Ables and varsity members Andrew Bowser, Greg Bender, Adam Brenneman, Mike Fletcher, Jensen Long, Sammy Miller, Justin Fontaine, Andy Fike, and assistant coach Chris Elliott.

READY TO DEFEND their Western Maryland Interscholastic League title this season are the members of the Northern High School girls' soccer team, who posted an overall record of 10-3 last year. The Huskies will be led offensively by Brooke Butler, last season's WMIL Offensive Player of the Year, and goalkeeper Ashley Warnick, also a first-team All-WMIL selection. The Huskies will open their 2000 campaign next Wednesday at Bishop Walsh. Pictured from left above, front, are Warnick and Randi Beller. Kneeling, same order, are: Kara Kenner, Kristin Lander, Rachel Bruch, Trisha Kamp (second team, All-WMIL), Brooke Butler, Emily Rawe, and Carrie Friend. Standing, same order are: Coach Connie Meyers, Emily Downton, Carissa Kamp, Kayla Kamp, Lyndsi Butler, Karie Kamp, Amanda Bowser, Trish Beltzel, Terah Sines, and assistant coach Greg Hostetler.

Thank You

In appreciation to all of those who shared their sympathy, support, and love with the family of

Our deepest gratitude to the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department and the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, for their quick response and perseverance.

A special thanks to Reverend Wm. Anderson and the Durst Funeral Home for a beautiful service.

Northern Boys Back At Near Full Strength For '00 Season

There will be high hopes in Husky Stadium this season every time the Northern High School boys' varsity soccer team takes the field, as Coach Tom Ables and his troops return almost intact from last season when they recorded an overall record of 9-5-1. Only one senior (Josh Gilpin) was lost to graduation, and among those back this year are goalkeeper Woody Kenner and striker Ronnie Lipscomb, both first-team All-Area and All-Western Maryland Interscholastic League selections, plus second-team All-Area and All-WMIL pick Mike Fletcher, a midfielder.

The Huskies will be put to the test right away, as they must face highly touted Southern next Tuesday in Oakland.

Other team leaders back this season are Andy Fike, Sam Miller, Jason Fickes, and Andy Bowser, with the entire defensive unit back.

"Obviously our experience and depth are strengths for us this year," Coach Ables said, "while execution and conditioning are my primary concerns."

Ables said that the Huskies should be competitive in every match, although he believes there will a number of talented teams in the region this year. "Southern, Beall, Fort Hill, and Bishop Walsh should all be very strong this year," he said.

"We have an excellent group of returning seniors," he continued. "If they show the leadership I know they are capable of giving, we should have a successful season."

Assisting Ables with coaching duties this season is former Husky Chris Elliott.

The Huskies' first three matches will be on the road. After playing Southern on Tuesday, they will travel to Keyser next Thursday and play at Fort Hill the following Thursday. Their first home match will be Sept. 19 against Westmar.

Steelers Stomp Mounties, 30-6

The Northern Steelers demolished the Frostburg Mounties, 30-6, in the season opener of the Cumberland Area Youth Football League. Steeler quarterback Robert Stark accounted for all of Northern's scoring output by rushing for three touchdowns and tossing the other two.

A nine-yard TD run by Stark put the Steelers up 6-0 early in the first quarter, and Northern's lead doubled in the same stanza when the quarterback carried the ball into the end-zone from 24 yards out. A second quarter, 15-yard scoring pass to Robert Fontaine gave the Steelers an 18-0 halftime advantage.

The Mounties broke into the scoring column on their first possession of the second half when Jim Kline scored on a 17-yard run, but Northern struck back later in the same quarter on a 47-yard touchdown pass from Stark to Darrick Lowdermilk. The Steelers reached the final 30-point victory margin in the fourth quarter when Stark rumbled 37 yards on a keeper for his fifth touchdown of the day.

Overall, Stark carried the ball 10 times and racked up 140 yards. He completed 4 of 7 passes, half for touchdowns, for a total of 77 yards. Eric Johnson picked off two Mountie passes to lead Northern's defense. Teammate Ian Woodin stopped 10 Frostburg ball carriers for 10 solo tackles, and Justin Sines contributed eight tackles.

The Northern Steelers (1-0) travel to Mineral County to take on Keyser this Saturday.

JUMPING OUT LIKE A TIGER, the 2000 Northern High School golf team has amassed a 5-1 record so far this season. The Huskies' three senior members, shown kneeling from the left, are co-captains Greg Speicher and A.J. Thomas, plus Denny Thorp. Standing are juniors Kenny Wampler, Mark Bergstrom, and Mark Roberts, sophomore Willie Rock, and freshmen Ben Hannibal, Andrew Hady, and Jason Rice. Not available for the photo was junior Michah Plevyak. The always-tough NHS squad is poised for this year's first cross-county meeting with the Southern High Rams Tuesday afternoon at the Wisp Golf Resort.

NHS Golf Squad Hopes To Capitalize On Experience

The Northern High School golf program is off to a 5-1 start for the 2000 season, and Coach Harv Speicher is banking on a number of returning golfers as the Huskies go on the prowl in search of another excellent season. "We're bringing back two All-WMIL and State Tournament participants, A.J. Thomas and Greg Speicher," the NHS coach said, "and we've got great depth with other experienced golfers like Kenny Wampler, Mark Bergstrom, and Denny Thorp. Tim Umbel was our major loss from last year's 25-7 team."

Northern's quest began last Thursday as the Huskies took their first match of the year by 28 strokes at the Maplehurst Country Club. NHS's 170 far outdistanced the competition, as Berkeley Springs came in second with a 198, Moorefield followed with a 199, and Beall rounded up the field with a 207.

NHS's Thomas took low medalist honors with a 37, and Speicher's 41 was good for a runners-up tie. The Indians' were led by Steve Potter's 42, Mike Mathias shot a 41 for the Yellow Jackets, and the Spartans were paced by 50s from Jimmy Nigh and Mike Kasecamp.

Yesterday the Huskies hosted a quadrangular at the Wisp, and placed second with a 176, eight strokes off Preston's 168. Westmar came in third with a 199, and Frankfort brought up the rear with a 209.

Despite the Huskies' second-place finish, Thomas repeated as low medalist with a 38. Speicher once again tied for the runner-up slot with a 41, as the Knights' Luke Lazier and Logan Haney and the Falcons' Andy Kesner matched that tally. Ryan Bateson's 47 paced the Wildcats.

"Preston is going to be one of the toughest teams we'll face all year," Coach Speicher commented. "Both the Knights and Keyser's Golden Tornado are bringing back a number of starting golfers. We've got our eyes on qualifying more individuals for the state tournament, and hopefully the entire squad if things go our way."

The Huskies will travel to the Oakland Golf Club Tuesday to participate in a four-way match with Fort Hill, Beall, and the Southern Rams. NHS visits Polish Pines Country Club the following afternoon to take on Keyser.

In other coming local golf action, the 1-0 Southern squad, which was idle this week, will host the afore-mentioned match Tuesday. The Rams then travel to Keyser to take on the Golden Tornado on Thursday, Sept. 7.

Maddawg Squads Split With Saints

The Northern Pee-Wee Football League teams traveled to Moonan Field in Cumberland, where the Maddawgs took on the Saints in the heat of a summer Saturday. The Maddawg C team triumphed by a convincing 22-0 margin, while the Maddawg A&B unit fell by a 12-0 margin.

The C team's offense relied on a 5-yard touchdown run by Zach Watkins and a 10-yard scoring scamper by Carson Kamp. Austin Tomley added an extra point.

The A&B match-up was a defensive battle, as each team's offense found itself repeatedly stymied; however, as the contest was entering its final minutes, the Maddawgs succumbed to fatigue. The Saints' Shane Chambers scored on a 6-yard run, and teammate Chris Martin found the endzone from 5 yards out.

BEARS ADD EXCITEMENT TO LAKE VACATION FOR BALTIMORE FAMILY

The O'Malleys and McDowells from the Baltimore area arrived in Garrett County on Saturday, Aug. 19, for a quiet week of sun and boating. They had vacationed here last year and enjoyed it enough to want to do it again. The second night after they bunked in at their rented Marsh Hill Road residence they were awakened in the middle of the night by a clattering and banging just outside their windows. When Jim O'Malley turned the lights on to see what was going on he saw a fair-sized black bear rummaging through the garbage cans located right next to the building. As the family peered at the bear, they were somewhat taken back to find him peering back at them through the glass door. At this, they did hasten to lock all the doors while they watched the bear cart his booty off into the woods.

The bear left for the night, but was back the following evening and for several more visits before midweek. One of the visits came in mid afternoon of Thursday, the 24th. As Mr. And Mrs. O'Malley were returning from a sightseeing drive through the Savage Forest, about 3:30 p.m., they saw what they assumed was the same bear at the top of the driveway.

Mrs. O'Malley commented on seeing her first bear in the wild that the sleek black coat of the animal surprised her. Jim, her husband, said that it had taken him 65 years to see his first bear.

Marsh Hill Road seems to be a favorite feeding ground for bears as most of the trash cans along this road show signs of having been worked over. As for other bear encounters around the county, Jack Faulkner told me that Don Clayton, manager of the Deep Creek Yacht Club, told him of bear activity around the club's metal dumpster. And, lots of folks are talking about the incident where the bear rang the doorbell of a Grantsville residence as reported in The Republican last week.

With fall approaching, bear activity and encounters with humans could increase as these animals begin to feed more heavily preparing for winter. And, as cute as they seem to be, the wise person gives a bear of any size a wide berth. This is particularly important to remember when encountering bears used to eating from local trash cans, as they may have lost some of their natural fear of humans.

FLYFISHERS OF GARRETT COUNTY SET TO KICK OFF THEIR SECOND SEASON

Bob Lancaster, Oakland resident and founder of the Garrett County Flyfishers, informed us that they are set to inaugurate their second season of informal gatherings at the Point View Inn on Wednesday, Sept. 13. The regular schedule is the second Wednesday of every month, with the exceptions of June, July, and August, when the meetings are suspended.

Anyone interested at all in fly-fishing is welcome to attend. There is no formal membership, no officers, and no dues. Every meeting, which follows an informal social hour, features a program speaker on a variety of fly-fishing related topics.

The first meeting will feature a slide presentation by Dana Shimrock titled "Fishing The Roaring Fork in Colorado." October's gathering will showcase a presentation by Bob Lancaster and Allen Noland on "The Construction of a Bamboo Flyrod."

Meeting time is 8 p.m., with a gathering at the lounge around 7. More information is available from Bob at 301-334-6124.

NEW WIND DIRECTION INDICATOR PRODUCT AVAILABLE

API Outdoors sent along a sample of a new product that they are touting as very valuable to hunters in determining exactly the path of the wind. Their product, called "windfloater," consists of a container of wispy, featherweight fibers that dance away when released in the breeze. Watching these fibers, they claim, will show the hunter precisely where the wind is coming from and, more importantly, where it is going. This should aid hunters in placement of tree stands, timing shots, and predicting deer movement. I tried the sample they sent and found that it did move in the wind, but in very light air, the fibers didn't travel very far before settling.

More information is available from API Outdoors at 1-800-228-4846 or mrogers@outland-sports.com.

RIVER FISHING IMPROVES WITH EXCELLENT WATER LEVELS

Trout fishing in local rivers has been good recently. Water flows in all of our streams are reported as optimum. Fishing on Deep Creek has been spotty, with some walleye, chain pickerel, and smallmouth action. Panfishing has been good, particularly for those seeking Deep Creek's big sunfish.

Jim Shearon of Pittsburgh got a nice 23-inch chain pickerel in the Back Bay area.

Garrett Bassers Fishing Tourney Prize Worth $1K

The Garrett Bassers Deep Creek Lake One-Man Fishing Tournament, set for Sunday, Sept. 10, will feature a $1,000 prize for the competition's winner. Part of the proceeds raised by the 7 a.m. - 4 p.m. event will go to the programs of the Garrett Bassers fishing club, which sponsors a large youth fishing rodeo each summer.

The $1,000 cash prize will go to the angler who amasses the heaviest five-fish stringer. Competitors will also have the opportunity to pay $10 to enter a lunkerpot pool, with all proceeds going to the angler who hooks the heaviest single fish.

The event's registration fee has been set at $70, and registration will be open on the morning of the event at 6 a.m. at the DCL State Park boat launch ramp. Each participant must possess a valid Maryland fishing license, and only one competitor is allowed per boat.

For further information interested persons may call Garrett Bassers president Don Hoecker at 301-387-9537.

To enter the contest, anglers must enter their catch at Johnny's Bait House, Route 219, south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge. The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

NOW THAT'S BUSTIN' A MOVE, and hopefully that's all that got busted. McHenry's E.J. Scofield wowed judges and the spectators with this "air raley" move during the Bust Largness Wakeboard Contest on Deep Creek Lake. Scofield's daring tricks earned him the Outlaw division crown, and during this particular move he was thrown more than 12 feet into the air by the wake of the towboat, which was traveling over 20 miles per hour along DCL's waters near High Mountain Sports. Winners of the other categories were: Julie Bortz, Olney, Women's division; Lex Ozias, Swanton, 10 and Under; Grant McDonald, Swanton, Men's 11-14; Eric Crawford, McHenry, Men's 15-24; and Mike Strager, Morgantown, W.Va., Men's 24 and Up. A variety of prizes, plaques, and T-shirts were distributed to the many contestants. "Our riders are pretty competitive but this contest is still a lot of fun, thanks to the DJ and tons of spectators," commented Steve Green, co-owner of High Mountain Sports, which sponsored the event.

TWO LOCAL CARS TAKE CHECKERED FLAGS AT AREA TRACKS - Shawn Davis, driving the #29 Gold Digger (above), owned by Automotive Machine in Mtn. Lake Park, led every lap in the Modified division and took his second win of the season at Corridor H Speedway in Elkins, W.Va., last Saturday night. Also on Saturday night, Jeff Thomas of Oakland (below) "Did the job at Roaring Knob" by winning his first Late Model feature this season at Roaring Knob Raceway Park in Markleysburg, Pa.

Area Speedway Review

Roaring Knob Raceway Park

Jeff Thomas of Oakland was the feature winner in the Late Model race Saturday night at Roaring Knob Raceway Park. Winning his first checkered flag at the Knob this season, Thomas started the race in the seventh position, but from the drop of the green flag, he moved up to attain the second position in the 12th lap. A caution gave him a chance to make his move and take the lead just as the white flag waved, and he went on for the win, followed by Scott Miles, Jeff Furguson, Duke Pratt, and Chad McDougal.

A no-caution feature for E-Mods saw Ron Delano Jr. taking the win followed by Rick Smith, Bob Bennett, Vic Vandergrift, and Mark Baylor of Kingwood, W.Va.

Mike Hay, the 14-year-old driver from Somerset, Pa., took another checkered flag at the Knob Saturday night. He was followed by Lynn Knepper, his father Eric Hay, John Cogar, and W.L. Stile.

A no-caution race was not the case in the Pure Stock race, however, as a few cars had to be taken away on the tow truck, but no one was hurt. Twenty-three cars were signed into the pits in the class, but only 19 started the race after a few were taken out during hot laps. Greg Hauger of Uniontown, Pa., started in seventh position and moved up to take over the lead in the sixth lap and held strong to the end. He was followed by Jim Shaffer, Jim Byers, Billy Martin, and Bart Tressler.

There are only two more point races left in the season, and in some classes points are very close. This Saturday night is WMBS Radio's Community Compassion Night, and fans who bring a donation of canned goods, toothbrushes, or toothpaste will pay only $5 to see the races. There will be four-division racing and a "Faster Pastor Race," in the Pure Stocks.

The owners apologize again for any inconvenience caused by the web site being down, and said they hope to have the problem solved soon and ask that drivers and fans keep checking the site at www.roaringknob.com, or call for information at 724-329-0306.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Interstate 79 Speedway ended the 2000 regular Friday night racing season with Gary Dalton, Scott Chenoweth, Vic Vandergrift, Jeff Kesling, and Mike Simpson finding their way into Victory Lane on Season Championship night.

The Late Model feature was a side-by-side race between Gary Dalton and Paul Wilmoth, who were also the top two drivers in the points race. As the checkered flag flew, Dalton picked up his third win of the season as Wilmoth finished in second but won his first Late Model championship. Scott Miles, Butch McGill, and Duke Pratt rounded out the top five. Wilmoth also earned an extra $200 for being the Timber Wolf Hard Charger. Heat winners were Robbie Scott, Dalton and McGill.

In the Semi-Late division two young drivers picked up their first career win and first championship at I-79. Scott Chenoweth held off a stellar field of hard chargers to garner his first career feature win. Duane Moreland attempted to take the lead a couple of times but had to settle for second place, followed by Mark McGill, Steve Wilmoth, and Rick Burrows. The first-time Semi-Late points champion, Chris Smith, hails from Elkins, W.Va. Chenoweth, Moreland, and McGill won heat races.

The Fox 46 Modifieds were the final feature of the night and after 10 laps, the fog was so heavy that the checkered flag was thrown to Vic Vandergrift, giving him his third win of the season. Louie Krushansky, Dave Defibaugh, Ron Parrish, and Tom Singleton rounded out the top five. Defending champion Dave Defibaugh earned the championship. Vandergrift and Trimble won heat races.

Picking up his fifth feature win of the year in the Pure Stock division was Jeff Kesling. Rounding out the top five in the feature were Jon Wamsley, Randy Bohan, Chad Rexroad, and Jim Byers. Byers, defending his points title, claimed yet another championship at I-79. Heat wins went to Wamsley, Kesling, and Byers.

Mike Simpson sealed the 2000 4-Cylinder Championship with a feature win. Dave Summers wound up second with Mike Lewis of Oakland in third. Finishing fourth and fifth were Tom Simpson and Andy Homes. Heat races went to Kevin Pifer and Summers.

The season finale at I-79 will be held this Friday and Saturday evenings. On Friday, the Steel Block Late Models will be in the spotlight with a $1,000-to-win special event. Also on the Friday night program will be the UMP Modifieds and Pure Stocks racing for $500 and $300, respectively. Gates open at 6 p.m. with time trials at 8.

On Saturday, the STARS Late Models will be in town for the Mountain State Thunder II paying $10,000 to win the 75-lap main event. The UMP Modifieds and the Pure Stocks will race a complete show on Saturday paying the same purse as on Friday. Gates will open at 4 p.m. with time trials beginning at 7:30 sharp.

The Rock Allegany Co. Speedway

As the curtain closed on the 2000 racing season at The Rock, Allegany County Speedway last Friday night, rookie driver Matt Emerick held off Jim Saylor for his first win in the 15-lap Stock feature. Concluding the top five were Kerry Molovich, Tom Humberson of Grantsville, and Clinton Clark. Heat victories went to Jeff Detwiler and Troy Aikey. Matt Sponaugle capped off a strong season as the Stock division track champion.

The Rock will switch to Saturday nights for the 2001 racing season. The season opener is tentatively scheduled for next April. Fans are asked to stay tuned to all of the off-season news on-line at www.dirtrock.com.

Corridor H Speedway

Last Saturday night was the annual Dick Armstrong Memorial for Late Models with $2,000 going to the winner at Corridor H Speedway in Elkins, W.Va.

In the Late Model event, Gary Dalton led the final five laps to win over Denny Chamberlain, Chuck Harper, Paul Wilmoth, and Doug Horton. Heats went to Paul Wilmoth and Butch McGill.

In Modifieds, Shawn Davis, driving the Gold Digger for Automotive Machine in Mtn. Lake Park, led every lap for his second win of the season. He was followed by Ron Parrish, Brent Trimble, Dave Defibaugh, and Steve Cook. Heats went to Davis and Defibaugh.

Only one lap of the Pure Stock feature was in the books before the fog became so thick that action had to be stopped. Heats went to Tim Moore, Lynn Moore, and

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

SIC SEMPER GLORIA; OR, IT WAS FUN WHILE IT LASTED
by Dan Muss

The weatherman was right on this past weekend; he called for partly sunny on Saturday and thundershowers on Sunday, and that's exactly what we had. I do believe that weather forecasting is benefiting from these big computers working on the problem.

As we left the mooring for the first race on Saturday the wind was light and variable, but when we got to the slot there was a westerly breeze blowing about 2 to 5 knots. The race commander, Don Griffin, set a simple windward-leeward-windward-leeward course through the slot where the wind was best.

We got off to a good start at the committee boat, and halfway to the first windward mark we were ahead of my nemesis, Ted Rissell, by about a hundred yards and moving nicely. I had visions of beating him. But as we approached the first mark, I held a tack too long to avoid some B Fleet boats at the mark, and both Ted and Ed Peters passed us.

The leeward leg was pretty much straight downwind, so we sailed a far reach and "tacked" down wind by jibing. We passed Ed and closed the gap with Ted. It was racing at its best and while we never did catch Ted, I had a great time. Sic Semper Gloria!

Ed and Barbara Peters were sailing with their twin grandsons, and the kids seemed to be enjoying it. Lucy Kammer, a recent sailing school graduate, has been sailing a school Laser in the weekend races and she's doing very well.

There was a protest in the Flying Scot B Fleet in the second race on Saturday. It is always difficult reporting on an incident involving a protest because the people involved experience the events very differently. So what is reported here is what the protest committee decided happened and was told to me. Tom Myers and Dave Bertsch were on port tack, close-hauled, with Bertsch the leeward boat. Lee Coraor, on starboard tack, hailed them for right-of-way, but Bertsch could not tack to keep clear until Myers did. Myers was disqualified.

Chuck Buffington and his new bride Sarah finished third in the FS A Fleet in the second race on Saturday; they are sailing well together.

Sunday dawned, threatening from the start. By noon there was rain with thunder and the flash of lightning. The race was canceled.

NHS NETTERS FEATURE NEW FACES — After the departure of all but one returning starter, the 2000 Northern High School volleyball program has brought a number of new players into its starting ranks. In an effort to help the squad make the transition, NHS varsity head coach Linda Wengerd said her players have been "working on team cohesiveness, because we anticipate some tougher competition this year. The consolidations in Allegany County will make the teams at both Fort Hill and Allegany stronger, but we have a lot of potential, especially with our height." The varsity team is pictured above. In Row 1 are, from left: Jolene Brenneman, Kola Artice, and Heather Lander. Row 2: Bridget Frazee, Kelly Carr, Amanda Frantz, and Karla Buckel. Row 3: Nicole Sisler, Malia Collins (the lone returning starter), Christie Flockhart, and Amanda Nazelrod. The junior varsity is shown below. Row 1: Yesha Patel and Molly Wolf. Row 2: Tabitha Beitzel, Nicole Doerr, Kaylan Powell, Lauren Wiley, and Kristin Hoffman. Row 3: Jodi Fratz, Melissa Patterson, Laci Slagle, Jamie Livengood, and Marybeth Hershberger. Row 4: Tiffany Swiger, Valery Miller, Brandi Wagner, Valene Snyder, Courtney Resh, and Tessa Folk. Wengerd is assisted by fellow coaches Gale Keller and Diane DeWitt. The Huskies open their season on the road Wednesday evening against the Frankfort High Falcons in Frankfort, W.Va.

THE ART OF WAR

Rated R - Running Time: 1:57 - Released 8/25/00

Before The Art Of War, I had never seen anything directed by Christian Duguay. And I must say I hope I never do again. Duguay's style is one of those all too common in Hollowwood, combining gun play (and in this case, Kung Fu fist- and foot-play) with fast editing to make it look slick and hopefully cover up the lack of intelligence in the script and characters.

The film's hopelessly convoluted and anti-Chinese story, penned by Wayne Beach (Murder at 1600) and Simon Barry, involves a proposed trade agreement between China and the U.S., which is supported by Secretary General Douglas Thomas (Donald Sutherland), but is under attack by a faction of Chinese people who believe that it will allow for the continued exploitation of the underpaid workers. At a huge dinner celebrating the impending passage of the agreement, the Chinese Ambassador is gunned down, and U.N. agent Neil Shaw (Wesley Snipes) is hired by Eleanor Hooks (Anne Archer), Thomas's right-hand lady, to find out who the killer is. But as he trails the supposed bad guys through numerous additional killings, followed closely by FBI agent Frank Capella (Maury Chaykin), he begins to uncover an ever-increasingly intricate web of danger, double crossings, and special effects.

This movie is too long by 45 minutes. It's racist. It's hard to follow. It's hard to swallow. And the romantic tension that's supposed to exist between Snipes and his female counterpart, Marie Matiko, doesn't. Matiko plays Julia Fang, an interpreter who knows something about the assassination and therefore becomes a target, and she and Shaw are supposed to be one of those clichéd movie couples who are unwillingly thrown together and develop feelings for each other under the most adverse conditions. But Snipes and Matiko couldn't care less about each other, so we can't care much about them. Sutherland and Archer are completely out of place in this film, and Archer is laughably bad in most of her few appearances.

I notice that Snipes, who co-produced this mess, also co-produced 1998's The Big Hit, another shoot-and-kick-em-up of the same dismal ilk. Perhaps this is his kind of film. But it sure ain't mine. ★½

BRING IT ON

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:35 - Released 8/25/00

Looking at the trailer from Bring It On, and from the TV commercials, and from the first few scenes, one can't help assuming it's simply another high school almost-sex flick, following in the tradition of Can't Hardly Wait, American Pie, and She's All That. And it certainly doesn't disappoint in the T&A department, especially in the first reel. But despite its reliance on highschoolspeak and some of its more stereotyped characters, Peyton Reed's cheerleaders-go-to-nationals film actually lends a bit of credibility to its fluffy premise. The script by first-timer Jessica Bendinger is the film's weakest point; Bendinger didn't intend for this to be anything more than those mentioned, but Peyton and his actors, notably Kirsten Dunst, Jesse Bradford, and Eliza Dushku, take it to a level where it actually almost seems to matter.

As incoming senior Torrance Shipman (Dunst) receives the mantle of head cheerleader for the 5-time national champion Rancho Carne High School cheering squad of San Diego, she plans to carry on the winning tradition that has made the "Toros" famous. However, when she discovers that the group's last several years' worth of winning routines were stolen from an all-black squad from East Compton High School, she must find a way to create her own routine in time for this year's championship. This task becomes even more urgent when the East Compton girls make it to nationals for the first time and threaten to take away the Toros' title.

Supporting characters include transfer student Missy Pantone (Dushku), who is really a skilled gymnast but joins the squad because "this school has no gymnastics program," and Missy's brother Cliff (Bradford), with whom Torrance falls in love despite his open derision of the cheerleading life. The rest of the squad is mainly made up of girls whose boobs outweigh their acting ability, and there are also several incidental characters, like the professional choreographer played by Ian Roberts, whose inclusion brings the film back down to its original sophomoric level every time it starts to fly.

Bring It On is frustrating because it seems like the director and writer are working at cross-purposes. Bendinger's trite, eminently predictable script usually wavers between being just pointless and downright stupid, but then once in a while you catch yourself beginning to care. And the scenes toward the end involving the national competition seem to be written by a different author; it's compelling in spite of itself.

The love story is trite and, thanks to the PG-13 rating, sexless. The cheerleaders' predicament story strains greatly to be of importance. And the comedy, including everything from the silly tryout scenes to the leather-clad choreographer acting as a sort of mincing drill sergeant, is geared more toward a goofball spoof than a film with any kind of serious intentions. But the cheering is occasionally spectacular and the principals' acting is above the material. ★★★½ received DOT approval. State transportation representatives are tentatively slated to present their recommendation to FHA officials on Sept. 22, two days prior to the meeting at the county commissioners' office.

The hybrid alternate, which was first proposed late last year, combines aspects of two of the previously proposed alternates, A and A-1. The hybrid would route a new two-lane roadway from Maryland Highway north toward Memorial Drive, where it would begin a gradual turn to the west where Option A's turn was projected.

The bypass would continue in a northwesterly direction, traveling between a set of wetlands and crossing just east and then just north of the Wal-Mart Supercenter store and parking lot, which have been under construction since early spring. North of the Wal-Mart site, the bypass would gradually take more of a northbound direction as it joins with existing Route 219 in a sweeping turn, rather than at a T-intersection as other options had proposed, at a point between the intersection of A and A-1.

The preliminary estimate of the cost of the Oakland bypass construction project is between $35 and $40 million for the 2.3-mile hybrid alternate, according to Maloney.

Vehicle Struck In Rear Flips; Driver Injured

The driver of a 1999 Jeep Cherokee was injured on Route 219 Monday when her vehicle overturned after being struck from behind. Maryland State Police filed a report at Barrack W, stating that Heather Lynn Cooper, 26, Kitzmiller, was taken to the hospital following the accident.

Tfc. C. Ward, who investigated the incident, reported that Cooper, who was northbound on Route 219 at 3:41 p.m., slowed and stopped her vehicle prior to turning onto Weber Road.

A 1998 Ford F150, operated by Alvin Elwood Sisler, 69, Oakland, was northbound on Route 219 behind Cooper's Jeep. Sisler reportedly failed to slow his pickup truck and struck Cooper's vehicle in the rear. The Jeep subsequently overturned, the report said.

Cooper was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Oakland VFD also responded to the scene.

Police filed charges against Sisler.

Western Maryland Truck Show Focuses On Family

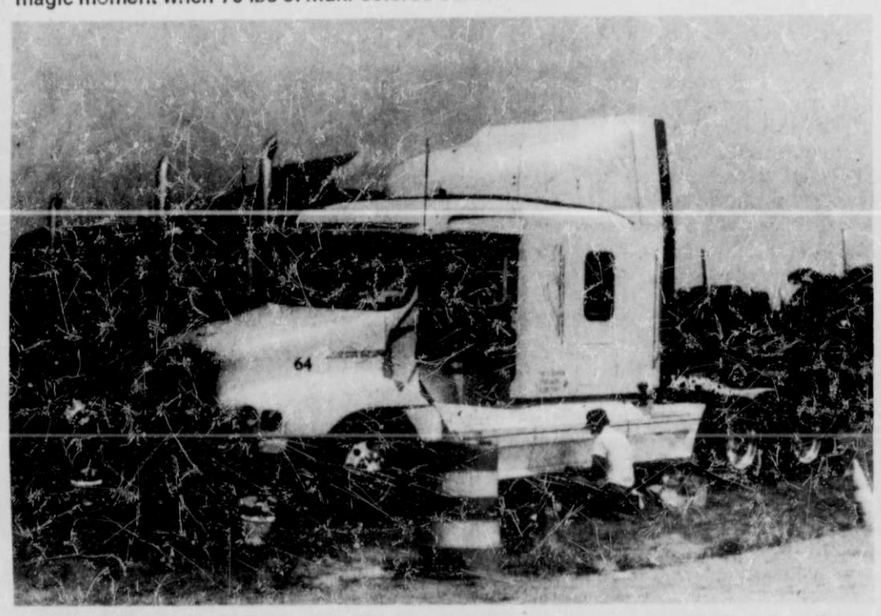
The second annual Western Maryland Truck Show, coordinated by Carson Yoder and Jim McFarland, welcomed a couple thousand visitors to Grantsville Community Park last weekend. Coming from near and far, owners of huge semis and pickup trucks made their way to the event. Families with children of all ages took advantage of a opportunity to spend a day together playing games, looking at shiny trucks, sampling festive foods, and helping to support the efforts of the Dove Center to prevent family violence and abuse in Garrett County. Photos by Lisa Broadwater & Peggy Santamaria.

MEETING ON THE RUN - Originators and coordinators of the WMTS, Jim McFarland (left) and Carson Yoder, held an impromptu conference Saturday afternoon, surrounded by little kids and big kids out for a day of family fun. The easy-going atmosphere of the day belied the thousands of hours of planning and organizing, not to mention praying, that went into pulling this off. Music, games, safety education, fingerprinting of children, and more were in the line-up scheduled for the day. Jim and Carson, both from the local area, have been life-time truck enthusiasts. "We started with the purpose of creating a nice truck show for the western Maryland area. In the process of organizing the show it was decided to produce an event that would include all members of the family and community," they said.

LOOK! UP IN THE SKY, IT'S A BIRD, IT'S A PLANE - All eyes were skyward in anticipation at 2 p.m. Saturday as pilot Kenny Miller circled the field behind the Grantsville Community Park. Grown-ups and kids alike waited for the magic moment when 70 lbs of multi-colored candies showered down from the sky. Like the flood gates opening, children swarmed up the hill to gather handfuls of sweet treats to stuff in their mouths or their pocket. The candy was donated by Hilltop Market.

"LET US NOT FORGET why we are here." This was the message spoken by Tom Guy, who was moved to speak to fellow truckers gathered in the park pavilion during Sunday afternoon's shower. "Domestic violence can happen to any one of us. It can be a sister or a daughter. The bruises may go away but the scars never heal," Tom said. He reminded everyone present that the truck show benefits the Dove Center, Garrett County's resource for victims of domestic violence and sexual abuse. Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center, joined Tom while he addressed the group.

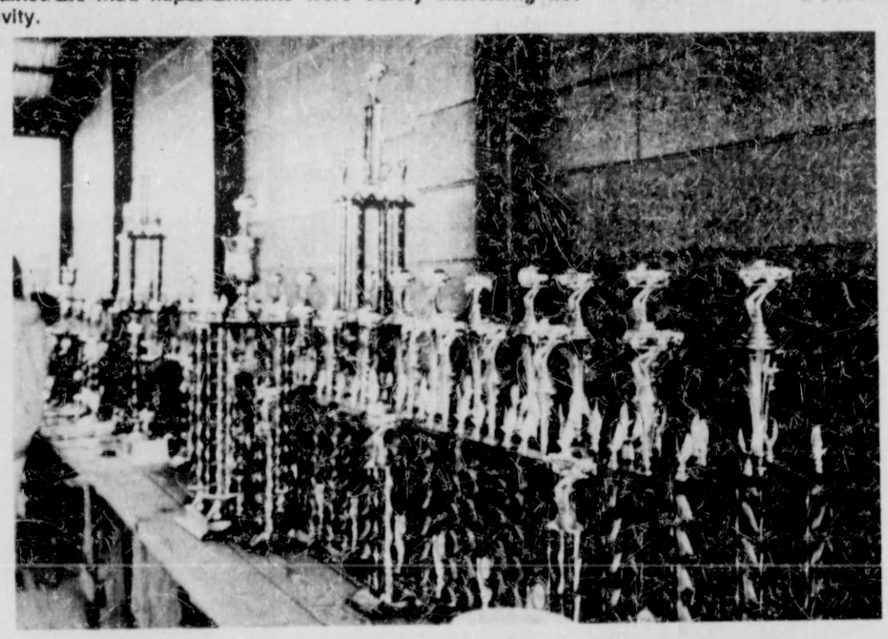
IT WILL SHINE, SHINE, SHINE - Truck owners spent hours with polishing rags in hand cleaning and shining every little nook and cranny of the enormous machines that would hopefully earn a trophy at judging time. Not only was chrome polished, so were tires. At least one person was seen carefully repainting the manufacturer's name onto the side of the tires for a nice crisp appearance.



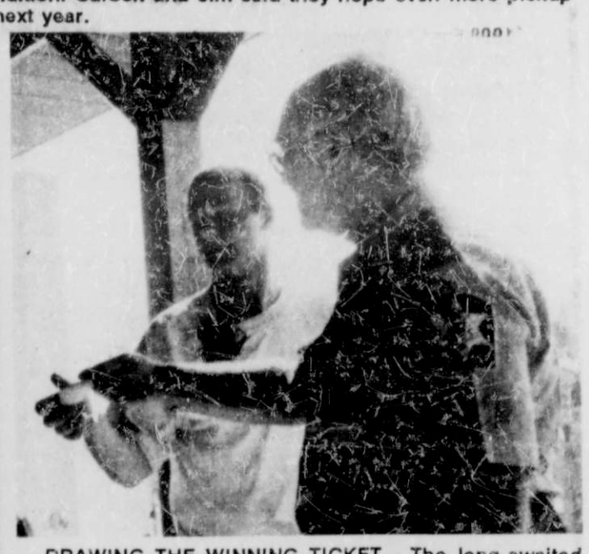
TRUCK BEAUTIFICATION PROJECTS went beyond "spit and polish" and well into interior decorating and even a bit of "landscaping." In the photo above, the big yellow Oester Trucking Inc. semi boasted white planters filled with golden chrysanthemums, lending a "nice, homey" look. The interior was done in a spiffy black and white "cow" print. Other trucks displayed vibrantly colored designs and one had a couple of Amish "pouting babies" leaning against the mud flaps. Entrants were surely exercising not only elbow grease but creativity.

PICKUPS STRUT THEIR STUFF - This year, the WMTS invited owners of pickup trucks to take part in the event and put in a bid for a trophy. The entrants in the pickup categories numbered about 30. The antique truck pictured above delighted the spectators with its tiptop condition. Carson and Jim said they hope even more pickup owners will enter the event next year.

JUST PAINTING A CHICKEN - These two little blonde-haired girls were among dozens of tots who exercised their artistic talents painting animal cutouts. A veritable farm of chickens, cows, and pigs was available to the would-be Picassos, who were given "smocks" to protect their clothing. Painting of hands and arms, however, seemed to be fair play.



YARDS OF GOLD spread across the trophy table, reflecting light from shiny surfaces. A total of 90 award trophies were designated for winners in categories for trucks of varying size, shape, and function. A sudden downpour on Sunday began just as the judging was getting under way. But by 4 p.m., which was slated as trophy time, the sun broke through the cloud cover. "The rain didn't wash us out, it just slowed us down," Carson said.



DRAWING THE WINNING TICKET - The long-awaited raffle of the 2000 Ford pickup truck took place on Sunday afternoon during the awards ceremony. Capt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office drew the winning ticket. Jim McFarland announced the name of Al Marucci of Oakland as the lucky owner of brand new truck, provided by Diehl's Ford in Grantsville. Mr. Marucci, who was not present at the time, received a phone call directly from the pavilion. Carson Yoder phoned Mr. Marucci to tell of his good fortune, and that 1,000 people were sitting in front of him sending congratulations and offering to buy the ticket from him. "He said he would sell the ticket for $14,000," Carson reported.

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

The town meeting was held on Tuesday, Aug. 22.

•Terry Spear was appointed by the town council to serve out the remainder of former council member Carroll Forsyth's term. He was sworn into office by Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle.

•The RAD Committee was granted use of the town park and stage for a "Back to School" activity on September 9, 4-9 p.m.

•The possibility of a local Halloween activity, which would be sponsored by various local groups and organizations, was discussed. More information will be forthcoming.

•The approved grading permit for work on the new Little League field has been received. Grading work has been requested from the county.

•Deputy Green attended the council meeting. Parking problems throughout the town were discussed.

•Several benches and bicycle racks have been purchased with Program Open Space funds for the park. The town also purchased a bench and a bicycle rack, which will be installed at the town hall/library building along Chestnut Street.

•Notice was received from Duane Yoder indicating that the contractor for the community center will repair the water leaks and several other items there soon.

•It was noted that additional soccer fields have always been a part of the park's Master Development Plan. The council has been actively seeking permission from the Corps of Engineers for over two years to locate these fields on Corps property adjacent to the park.

•Volunteers are needed to head up a maintenance crew for the military tank located at the park. It was noted that local veterans and members of the Reserves might be interested in this activity.

Juvenile Charged After Running Car Into Ditch

A juvenile driver faces charges after a Monday morning accident south of Oakland when she ran her car into a ditch, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The 16-year-old was slightly injured in the mishap, while a 15-year-old passenger was unharmed.

The accident occurred at approximately 8:30 a.m. along Garrett Highway just south of Jasper Riley Road. The 1987 Plymouth sedan left the southbound travel lane and went into a ditch on the right side of the road, then bounded out of the ditch, completely across both lanes of travel, and into a yard on the left side of the highway. It came to rest in a ditch on the left side of the road.

The driver was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, and was treated and released. Sheriff's deputies deemed the driver at fault, and issued a citation in regard to failure to maintain control of a vehicle and failure to keep right of center.

Another accident occurred Tuesday night when a woman driving descending Backbone Mountain near Bloomington struck a bear that wandered into Maryland Highway. Neither the woman, Denise Almond, nor her two passengers were injured, although the bear died instantly when the vehicle struck it in the head, according to the Maryland Wildlife and Heritage Division.

The 182-pound bear had been ear-tagged about a year ago in the Thousand Acres area near Swanton, wildlife biologist Clarissa Harris said. Although the carcasses of bears killed in vehicle mishaps are often salvaged and processed for educational purposes, DNR personnel said that in this case the bear was too damaged to serve that purpose.

Woman Charged In Theft Of Rifle

Charges were filed against a North Carolina woman in the case of the theft of a rifle from a residence in Grantsville last Saturday. According to the Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack, Terry Allen Spiker contacted the barrack to report a theft at 7:15 a.m. on August 26.

Tpr. Michael Detrick said Spiker described the missing weapon as a Remington BDL 22-250 calibre with a Simmons scope (4-12x40). In addition, when asked if he had noticed evidence of forced entry to the residence, the victim reportedly said no. Detrick stated in his report that Spiker said the rifle was most likely taken by his girlfriend, whom he identified as Kimberly Dawn Rand, 36, Richlands, N.C.

On information provided by the victim, police later located Rand at the home of a friend. Allegedly, Rand admitted that she had taken the rifle, stating she had pawned it at a shop in Frostburg. She was placed under arrest for theft of an item valued in excess of $300.

Faces CDS Charges

A driver stopped and charged with driving while intoxicated also faces charges involving a controlled dangerous substance. Tfc. K. Stakem reported that on August 28 at 8:45 p.m. he stopped a 1988 Dodge van on Route 40 and charged John Edward Loewendick, 36, Cresaptown, with driving while intoxicated.

Following the arrest, Stakem said he found marijuana and a smoking device in the van and a further search revealed that a passenger in the vehicle, Eric Edward Fadley, 27, Cresaptown, was also in possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. Both individuals were arrested.

DWI

Leroy Erwin Friend, 35, Beaver, Pa., was charged with driving while intoxicated on August 27.

FIRST UNITED SUPPORTS FIREFIGHTERS - The Deep Creek Lake office of First United Bank & Trust recently demonstrated its support of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company and the Accident Volunteer Fire Department by donating some of the proceeds from a special certificate of deposit that was offered to customers. The successful campaign raised over $1,000 for each organization. In the photo above, Roger Sisler, First United's lake office manager, left, presents a check to Paul E. Custer, president of the Accident VFD. Below, Sisler presents a similar check to Larry L. Lewis, treasurer of the Deep Creek VFC.

Southern High Band Boosters Seek Alum Help

A member of the Southern Garrett Band Boosters is encouraging former members of the band to support the 2000-01 organization by purchasing a spot on a full-page advertisement in the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands program.

Kathy Johnson, herself a former member of the band, is hoping other alumni will join her in purchasing the ad by sending contributions of at least $10 toward that purchase and having their names included in the ad.

"Participating in this will go a long way in showing the current band members that we remember how valuable the time we spent in band was then, and continues to be today," Johnson said, adding, "With ever-increasing costs and fewer band members, the long-term problems of funding that we all remember are intensified."

Johnson said that SHS band alumni who wish to support this effort may send their checks, made out to Southern Band Boosters, to her at 275 Crook Crest, Oakland, MD 21550. She asks that class graduation year also be included.

The band boosters and band members are also currently selling chances on one-half baby beef, which was purchased at the Garrett County Fair and donated to the band by Dr. Dan Miller. The cost of the tickets is $1 each, and $5 for seven. The drawing will be held at the Tournament of Bands, scheduled for October 14 at the Southern High athletic field.

Rising to the Challenge

Since many of us observe Labor Day as a holiday, perhaps we can take just a few moments to consider how our attitude about our vocation impacts upon our life experience.

Doesn't it help keep our daily lives interesting if we challenge ourselves? You might say, "Why do that? I am comfortable just as I am." Think of it this way... A caterpillar would never become a butterfly if it were satisfied with itself. In rising to meet challenges we grow in knowledge, in courage, in humility, and very importantly, in self-respect. We learn that we are capable of more than we thought was possible. Additionally, others respect us and see us as an encouraging example.

As we approach Labor Day, and as we worship, let us pray for the courage to challenge ourselves to rise to new heights. You may well surprise yourself on the way up!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ACKHOUSE

THE WILLING RESPONSE

September 3, 2000

Background Scripture: Judges 4 through 5
Devotional Reading: Psalms 68:1-6.

In the book of Judges, there is a recurring theme, "And the people of Israel again did what was evil in the sight of the Lord..." (4:1, but see also 2:11; 3:7, 12; 6:1; 10:6; and 12:1). This was usually followed with a resulting expression of God's wrath which always meant bad news for the people of Israel.

In Judges 2:14 we read, "So the anger of the Lord was kindled against Israel, and he gave them over to plunderers..." In Judges 3:8 the angry Lord "sold them into the hand of Cushan-rissathaim." In Judges 6:1 "the Lord gave them into the hand of Midian seven years." It is the Philistines and the Ammonites who are the arm of God's wrath in Judges 10:7 and "the Philistines for forty years" in 13:1. In Judges 4 the response of God is swift: "And the Lord sold them into the hand of Jabin, king of Canaan..." (4:2).

The wrath of God was usually followed by a cry for help. In Judges 4 King Jabin holds a tremendous advantage: his armies under the generalship of Sisera were equipped with nine hundred chariots of iron. The wooden chariots of Israel were no match for these and Sisera "oppressed the people of Israel cruelly for twenty years" (4:3). How many oppressive years passed before the people came to their senses, we do not know, but eventually: "Then the people of Israel cried to the Lord for help."

Slow Learners!

When we read Judges we cannot help wondering why these people never seemed to learn. We can see them forsaking the Lord perhaps once, or even a second time

This is Heather's second year of being recommended for this honor.

She is a senior at Northern Garrett High School, where she is a member of the Northern Husky Marching Band. She is the daughter of Espy and Cathy Hook, Friendsville, and the granddaughter of Grace Hook, Friendsville, and Norman and Doris Thomas, Oakland.

Local Lutheran Women Attend Synod Convention

The 13th W.V.-W.Md. convention of the Synodical Women's Organization of the Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America was held at Priest Field Pastoral Center, Kearnysville, W.Va., August 3-5. Attending from Garrett County were Linda Buckel, Ferne Beachy, Pastor Patricia Pittsnogle and husband Keith of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Bittinger; and Barbara Flinn of St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House.

The theme was "A New Beginning — Let It Begin With Me." Irene Lee, executive board and keynote speaker, brought greetings from churchwide and challenged participants to use the resources available through Augsburg Publishers.

Business included the adoption of the budget and the election of the following officers and board members: treasurer, Donna Jean Mahan; secretary, Delores Steege; and board members, Linda Buckel, Beverly McDonald, Carol Kimberling, and Shirley Derr.

Convention highlights included a bus tour to a peach-packing facility and to historical sites Morgan Morgan's cabin and Ar-qua Springs. Saturday night entertainment was motivational speaker and NBC celebrity Michael T. Myers.

Jeannie Hellum, executive director of Eagle's Wings, a residential educational facility for young girls 13-18, spoke to the gathering regarding the need of such a home for teenage girls. The Love Offering of about $1,600 was equally divided between Eagle's Wings and the scholarship fund. The group decided to give two $1,000 scholarships to women in seminary this year.

Catherine Braasch, executive director of the Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, was the preacher and assistant to Rev. Doug Knupp of Martinsburg, W.Va., at the culminating communion service held Saturday afternoon. Rev. Knupp served an internship with the Bittinger Lutheran Parish last year.

Police Stress Safety As Kids Walk To School

The men and women of the Maryland State Police issued a statement this week reminding Maryland students that whether they walk or ride a bike, they should "strive to survive." Pedestrian accidents are one of the leading causes of unintentional injury-related death among children ages 5 to 14.

The first few years of school are a high risk period for children who walk to school because parents often over-estimate their children's abilities to cross the street safely, explained Colonel David B. Mitchell, superintendent of the Maryland State Police. "We ask parents to familiarize their children with the safest route to school," Mitchell said.

He also pointed out that children may be able to cross the street safely while with their parents, but may do something "unexpected" while playing near a street or walking with friends. "Arrange to walk with them or have a much older child accompany them to and from school," Mitchell suggested.

The superintendent also noted that while the actual school bus trip is among the safest forms of transportation, there are substantial pedestrian risks associated with the "total trip" as the child walks to and from the bus stop, waits for the bus, gets on and off the bus at home and at school, and sometimes, crosses the street to and from the bus.

The state police list the following "basics of safe street crossing":

1. Stop at the edge of the street.
2. Look left-right-left for traffic.
3. Cross only when no cars or trucks are coming.
4. Keep looking while you cross.

A police spokesman said that although young children may be able to recite the rules of safe crossing, it does not mean that they can actually do it right every time. "It takes many years for children to develop the understanding and skills they need. Most kindergarten through third grade children have no real sense of danger, cannot judge speed and distance to decide how fast a car is approaching, and often assume that the vehicle driver can see them if they can see the driver," he added.

The state police suggest the following safety tips for pedestrians:

- Be an alert and courteous walker. Don't jaywalk. Observe crosswalk markings and traffic control devices.
- When walking on the road, always walk facing traffic. Walk as far from the roadway as possible.
- Always watch approaching traffic to make sure the oncoming driver sees you and is not driving toward you.
- Always wear light colored clothing, especially if you must walk at night.
- Remember, walking on a controlled access highway is prohibited and dangerous.

State police suggest the following safety tips for bicyclists:

- Bicycles are vehicles too. Know and obey state and local laws that apply to bicyclists, including the rules of the road.
- All bikes must be equipped with a bell or other device that can give a warning signal that can be heard 100 feet away.
- After dark or in bad weather, bikes must be equipped with a white light on the front and a red light or reflector on the rear.
- Bikes are prohibited on controlled access highways or roads with speed limits of more than 50 mph.
- Bicyclists, like pedestrians, can be hard to see. Wear light color clothing and be alert for motor vehicles.

Each year across the nation thousands of pedestrians are killed and about 100,000 are injured in traffic accidents, the MSP spokesman said, noting that this year to date, 48 pedestrians have died in Maryland, and that young children and the elderly are more likely than others to be killed or injured in a pedestrian crash.

Arthritis Pain Mystery Solved

Horse Liniment is the secret!

OCALA, FL. -- An ingredient used to treat inflammation in thoroughbred racehorse legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx™ and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Scientists suggest that ARTH-Rx works by intercepting the pain messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain. Although the mechanism is not totally clear, pain is relieved in the affected area because the pain signal actually disappears.

ARTH-Rx is the only product on the market with Neurocaine and is available in a convenient, pleasant scented roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, ARTH-Rx is available in pharmacies, nutrition stores, and even some feed stores. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. ©2000 PGC

CENTENNIAL EVENT SET AT DEER PARK UM — The Deer Park United Methodist Church will observe the 100th anniversary of the church building's dedication with a day of special events on Sunday, Sept. 10. The centennial celebration gets under way at 10 a.m. as Rev. Nell Parsons leads a worship service that will feature special music, followed by a noon covered dish buffet dinner across the street from the church at the Deer Park Community Building. A 1:30 p.m. music program will feature performances by the Steyer Family, the Garrett Community Concert Band, and others, and the closing ceremonies will draw the event to a conclusion between 2:30 and 3 p.m. A tent filled with church history exhibits, compiled by the late Frances Comp, and an outdoor display of a number of classic cars will be available for viewing throughout the day. The congregation worshipped at the Methodist Episcopal Church in Deer Park until that structure burned to the ground on Jan. 29, 1898, with only $80 remaining on its mortgage. A new and larger church was built and dedicated two years later to serve the nearly 1,000 residents who lived in Deer Park at the turn of the century.

Local Student To Participate In Semester At Sea

Some 630 college students, representing over 200 institutions from across the country, are about to depart on Semester at Sea, a 100-day study abroad program that will take them to nine countries around the world. Among them is Anna Marc, a 1997 graduate of Southern High School and daughter of Ron and Sally Marc, Deep Creek Lake. She is a senior at Wheeling Jesuit University, Wheeling, W.Va.

Twice a year, for over 33 years, Semester at Sea has given 500-600 students the opportunity to study and travel around the world during a 100-day cross-cultural journey. Students will embark in Vancouver, B.C., on September 13, and travel on to Japan, China, Vietnam, Malaysia, India, Egypt, Turkey, Croatia, Spain, and Cuba before returning to New Orleans on December 22.

Semester at Sea is administered by the Institute for Shipboard Education and is academically sponsored by the University of Pittsburgh. All courses are accredited by the College of Arts and Sciences, and credits earned can be fully transferable to the student's home institution.

The Institute for Shipboard Education (ISE) is defined by its ongoing commitment to combine academic excellence with challenging experiential programming. The academic environment and shipboard campus, complete with residence life staff, student organizations, health services, and extracurricular programs, is implemented in a manner that is very similar to a traditional land-based campus, according to an ISE spokesperson.

Faculty are selected from institutions across the U.S. and around the world. All faculty have extensive resident international experience in order to effectively integrate course content with countries on the itinerary. When in port, students choose from a wide range of structured travel opportunities developed by the institute and the faculty in order to augment their onboard coursework. Each class has a field component requirement that the student must integrate into coursework during the course of the voyage. Activities in port include home stays with families; exchanges with local universities; travel to sites of historic, cultural, and religious significance; or independent travel in the cities and rural areas. About four days at a time are spent in each port.

The Semester at Sea maritime campus includes classrooms with closed circuit audio/visual capabilities, research resources, theater, campus store, student union, and cafeteria. It also includes a pool, basketball and volleyball courts, and a weight room. The student life staff provides on-board activities programming and support for the student community.

Antiques by Ralph and Terry Kovel

To get a patent on a new invention, it was necessary, from 1836 to 1880, to make an actual model to present to the U.S. Patent Office. Several hundred thousand models were eventually stored with the government. In 1907, 1,061 models were given to the Smithsonian Institution, 3,000 models were sold for a total of $62.18, and the rest remained in storage.

In an economy move in 1925, more models were sold. The Smithsonian took another 2,500, museums took 2,600, and 50,000 were sold for $1,550. The remaining 125,000 crates were sold, unopened, for $6,540. That collection was bought and sold several times. In 1942, it was purchased by O. Rundle Gilbert, an antiques auctioneer, for a little more than $13,000, including overdue storage charges. There was a series of auctions of the collection in 1973, and single patent models have been sold through antiques auctions and shops ever since. Each model is part of the history of the United States.

Collectors today like to buy a model related to their special interest, like a bottle closure for a bottle collector or a barber's chair for a shaving mug collector. The model for brass tilters on a Shaker chair, made by a Shaker from New Lebanon, N.Y., in 1852, auctioned for $17,000. The models are small works of art, carefully made miniatures of a quality not often found today. Each is tagged with the name of the inventor, the date and the patent information.

WHEN SCRUBBING DOESN'T DO IT

Q. I have a 30-year-old, nubby fiberglass shower floor (base) that has become discolored. I tried everything, including 20 hours of scrubbing in three days. What can I use to clean it? Please help! — Barbara L., Staten Island, N.Y.

A. Ah, yes — I, too have experienced the frustration of cleaning those fiberglass shower floors. Ordinarily, fiberglass fixtures are a breeze to clean, but over time (especially 30 years!), stains caused by mineral buildup or continual mildew can form, especially between the tiny little "nubs" that make up the nonstick surface of the one-piece shower. Scrubbing the surface with scouring powder, even for hours on end, has little effect on the stain. Believe me, I've been there.

However, there are two alternatives to scouring powder and massive amounts of elbow grease. Both are suggested by James and Morris Carey, who host "On The House," a national radio talk show.

The first method involves automatic dishwashing powder, a nylon bristle brush and a spray bottle filled with water. First, wet the shower floor completely. Then sprinkle a layer of dishwashing powder over the stained surface and let the powder sit for around one hour. Keep the area wet by spraying it often with clear water. When the hour's up, scrub the area with the bristle brush and rinse.

If dishwashing powder doesn't do the trick, try a paste made of two to three tablespoons of turpentine mixed into 1/4-cup of regular table salt. Use the nylon bristle brush to apply the cleaner to the stained area, and scrub. Wipe away excess solution with a paper towel, then go over the area once more with mild detergent and water. Rinse thoroughly to finish the job.

Finally, if neither of these scrubbing methods cleans away the stains, you can try a last-ditch effort of soaking the shower floor in a half-and-half solution of bleach and water. Plug the shower drain and pour enough solution in to cover the stained area, then let it sit for an hour or so. Rinse thoroughly.

All of these methods are pretty heavy-duty cleaning solutions. If none of them work, your shower floor may be permanently stained. Contact your local fiberglass fixtures specialist, who may offer special cleaning solutions just for this type of job.

Pet Care

In 1966, the Oscar-winning film "Born Free" captured the hearts of a generation with the story of how George & Joy Adamson raised and released Elsa, an orphaned lioness. Thirty years later, we have "To Walk With Lions," the story of George Adamson's dramatic battle to save Kenya's lions from the growing brutality of poachers and local herdsmen.

"To Walk with Lions" premieres on STARZ!, Sept. 9 at 8 p.m. (with subsequent plays throughout the month). The film stars Richard Harris ("Gladiator," "A Man Called Horse") as Adamson, who was 83 when he was killed while defending his lions. His death had an international impact and, as a result of his work, the Kenyan government introduced an initiative to drive out poachers and established a National Reserve which was named in Adamson's honor.

In Other News: A reader, Terianne, responded to an earlier letter from a father whose young daughter had become terrified of dogs and cats when a day care worker told her they would "eat her up" if she didn't behave. The father wanted to know how to help his daughter get over her fear.

"I had a similar problem with my son. One of his classmates said much the same thing to him. I found it worked when I gradually reintroduced my son to my sister's two cats and my neighbor's dog. We went slowly and respected his fears. After a while he was able to pat them again. It took about a year, but he no longer hides behind me when he sees a dog being walked on the street. I hope this advice helps that father."

Local Members Of BPW Attend Nat'l Conference

Two Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club members, Barbara Flinn and Mildred Wucik, recently returned from the 81st annual national conference, held in St. Paul, Minn., July 12-16. The theme was "Inspiration & Empowerment."

The keynote speaker was Dr. Maya Angelou, who is a poet, historian, author, actress, civil-rights activist, producer, and director. "She tirelessly calls upon her talents and experiences to inspire, comfort, and improve the world around her," said a conference spokesperson.

Dr. Angelou has said, "It's the fire in my eyes, And the flash of my teeth, The swing in my waist, And the joy in my feet. Phenomenally. Phenomenal woman. That's me!"

The national legislative platform was passed by the conference with the Equal Rights Amendment, as authored by Alice Paul, standing first, foremost, and above all other items which may appear on the national platform. BPW/USA also supports legislation to increase the annual amount of IRA contributions so as to promote long-term saving, help eliminate the retirement gap, and ensure retirement security for all Americans. Also, members of the U.S. Congress will be urged to pass the International Trafficking of Women and Children Victim Act. Lastly, girls will be encouraged to pursue careers in science, math, and technology.

Flinn and Wucik attended the BPW Foundation Fundraiser Scavenger Hunt at the Mall of America, and also attended the Foundation Honors Luncheon, where each was given the honor of announcing a national scholarship winner. The BPW Foundation received more than 1,100 applications from qualified women in 1999, and awarded 226 scholarships. Ninety-nine percent of the recipients complete their degrees and double their annual incomes, according to BPW statistics.

For the first time in 81 years, a Maryland woman was installed as national president — Mrs. Patricia Cornish of Potomac. The entire 32 members of the Maryland delegation were on stage to take part in her installation.

A photo was taken of the thousand members of the 2000 conference on the steps of the library in downtown St. Paul. This was a re-creation of a photo taken in 1920 when the organization was just getting started and members posed during their second convention. Both photos appeared on the front page of St. Paul newspapers.

In addition to national president Patricia Cornish, the 2000-2001 national officers will be: president elect, Leslie Wilkins of Hawaii; vice president, Cindy L. Patterson; recording secretary, Adrian Edmondson of Kansas; and treasurer, Carolyn Grady.

CAC AmeriCorps Members Complete Service, Graduate

Graduation ceremonies held recently at Frostburg State University for the A Star! AmeriCorps program included four members who served with Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc.

Serving in the CAC Housing Department, Salena White-Jones assisted clients with housing needs and coordinated the Super Pantry. She has been selected to serve a second year as an AmeriCorps member, this time with the AmeriCorps Housing Program for the program year 2000-2001. She will take a leadership role with the Frostburg State University A Star! program. White-Jones resides in the Oakland area with her husband and her 18-month-old son.

Tereka Tasker was a member in the Community and Emergency Services Department of CAC, where she assisted clients with heating and utility terminations, assisted with the Grantsville after-school program and the Grantsville summer program, and coordinated the blanket drive and the Road to Food Program. Tasker, who lives in the Oakland area with her fiancé and daughters, will take a position as an outreach worker with the Community and Emergency Services Department.

Patty McGee was a second year member in the Head Start Department, where she assisted the Head Start teacher and assistant teacher with activities in the classroom. Her first year of service was in the Area Agency on Aging, where she assisted the seniors with daily activities at Rose Terrace, a CAC Senior Assisted Living facility. She resides in the Oakland area with her 5-year-old son.

Diane Friend served in the Head Start and the day care department of CAC, where she assisted the Head Start teacher, day care coordinator, and Head Start assistant teacher. A resident of the Friendsville area, Friend is a full-time student at Garrett Community College, where she is majoring in child development.

The AmeriCorps members each completed 1,700 hours of service between September 1999 and August 2000, for which they earned a living allowance in exchange for their service. After completing their year of service, AmeriCorps members receive a $4,725 education award.

Miss Freyman Becomes Bride Of Mr. Forno During June Ceremony

Kara Lynn Freyman and Peter Anthony Forno were married in a double-ring ceremony on June 10, 2000, at St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church, Farmington, Pa., by Father Paul Whalen.

The bride is the daughter of William and Linda Freyman, Oakland. The groom is the son of Peter and Jo-Ann Forno, Addison, Pa.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father. Bridesmaids were Michelle Harman, Accident, and Toni Glotfelty, Addison, sisters of the groom; Jackie Roland, Frostburg; Mindy McCarty, Friendsville; Brenda Mulligan, Cumberland; and Terin Morton, Winchester, Va.

Groomsmen were Michael Freyman, Montrose, Colo., brother of the bride; Dylan Livesay, Round Hill, Va.; Brian Mowery, Seneca Rocks, W.Va.; Michael Mulligan, Cumberland; Wesley Langley, Winchester; and Shawn Suter, Addison. Flower girls were Sonya and Sydney Thomas. The ring bearer was Blake Harman, nephew of the groom.

Serving as ushers were Matt Glotfelty, Addison, and Keith Harman, Accident, brothers-in-law of the groom; Shawn Armstrong, Masontown, Pa.; and John Pitman, Fairmont, W.Va. Serving as scripture readers during the ceremony were Mrs. Vicki Kley, great aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Alice Hoehn. Ian and Evan Humphrey distributed programs to the guests. Vocalists for the service were Joyce Zosky, Jessica Taylor, and Stan Kostyal. The organist was Stephanie Cawley.

The bride wore a designer gown by Oleg Cassini. The dress featured a fitted satin bodice with spaghetti straps and a full tulle skirt and princess train. Both bodice and skirt were adorned with pearl and sequin lace appliqués. The elbow-length illusion veil with hand-sewn seed pearls and beaded headband were fashioned by the bride's mother. The bride's jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings. The groom wore a Ralph Lauren black tuxedo, white brocade vest, and a white rosebud.

The bridesmaids wore long burgundy empire waist A-line dresses with spaghetti straps and matching scarves. Their illusion necklaces and earrings were gifts from the bride. The bride and bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of pink spectrum rosebuds, baby's breath, pixie ferns, and plumosa. The groomsmen wore black tuxedos, black vests, and white rosebuds.

The reception was held following the ceremony at the Summit Inn, Farmington, Pa. During the lighting of the unity candle, Terrence O'Brien sang "A Wedding Prayer." Dr. Edward Boehm, cousin of the bride, offered the blessing prior to dinner. The three-tiered wedding cake was baked and decorated by Christy Thomas, Friendsville. DJ Jonny Rock provided the music, and the photographer was Doug Buckley. Friend of the bride and groom John Helmick was the videographer. Cookie and sweet treats displays were provided by Carole Forno, aunt of the groom, Karen Winklevoss, the Accident Bakery, and the bride's mother. Stella Oursler, grandmother of the bride, provided the flowering plant centerpieces at each table. The favors at each place setting were scented votive candles created by the groom's mother at "Somewhere in Time," Addison.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents for the wedding party and guests at Topo's Restaurant, Flat Rock, Pa.

The couple now reside in Stephens City, Va. The groom is employed by Alcatel Networks, Chantilly, Va. The bride is employed by the Board of Education, Frederick County, Va.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

It is the end of August already. Summer was here and then it has gone so fast, and my kids are so busy with all their activities that it seems like they are never all three home at the same time. It was a very long week for me but at last they came home from their weeklong trip to Ocean City with Lloyd's parents late Saturday night. I only have one day with them and then they will rush out the door for their first day of this school year.

It seems as if Claire breezed through her first day at Northern High School. Caitlin seemed perfectly happy to return to Northern Middle School in the seventh grade. When I was her age, I went straight from Accident Elementary to Northern. Mere was happy to back to her beloved Accident Elementary filled with familiar faces. Mere barely got in the door before she had to run out for her first soccer game this season. Her coach, Shawn Nicholas, was an excellent student of mine at GCC. He is also Claire's civic teacher. I have complete confidence with him in both jobs. I couldn't resist writing comments on his handout for Claire's class. I did not find anything to take issue with. I would give it an "A" if I had to grade it.

I couldn't bear to attend the special final service held Sunday night at the closing down of our beautiful, simple church, and transferring altar pieces and memorabilia to the new church. I was really sorry to miss the bell tolling 126 times marking the years the old church has served as a place of worship for Emmanuel Lutheran Church congregation. I was baptized, confirmed, wed, and attended funerals of many loved ones in it. I shed quite a few tears in private for both the loss of our old church and for some very personal and private loss I am going through right now. My mother reported that the service was a very touching and emotional service, especially the tolling of the bell. The many memories of special happenings in that church in the past will linger on even after the church is torn down. The bell also tolled an extra ring for the beginning of the new church. The church is almost complete now, thanks to the many people who have toiled and worked to make this beautiful new sanctuary. Also present were visitors who also have the old church in their hearts and look forward to a new beginning.

Pastor Pat Pittsnogle has begun her ministry and we already have a warm spot in our hearts for her. Her ordination will take place in September and the dedication of the new church will be held on September 30 at 3 p.m.

Ruth DiPaolo and her cousin, Lucille Patton Ritter, spent part of last week with their special friends, Ellis and Betty Sacra, Margaret Hatcher, Bette Sish, and Jimmie Woodie, in Partlow, Va. They all gathered together to celebrate the birthday of Ruth. She is continuing her birthday celebration this week. She attended her summer bowling league dinner at the Berlin fire hall on Monday evening.

Karen Beitzel found the perfect summer job, picking wild blackberries. Instead of being cooped inside, she spent the time roaming through the woods. I used to just love to pick wild blackberries. I guess that I get it from my grandfather, Orval Glotfelty, who also loved blackberries. We had canned many quarts so he could eat them all year. You can order Karen's blackberries by calling her mother, Mrs. Cleland Beitzel, at 245-4492. Since we have had pretty cool and wet weather lately, I am sure the berries are still good.

Last week's column was lost in the e-mail. Where did it go? Where is it now? How can we find it? Computer technology is easy and simple if it works; otherwise, you may lose your work. My mother reported that she found it and it follows below. Sorry about the mix-up.

There will be a service of Holy communion on Sunday, Aug. 27, at 7 p.m. at Emmanuel Lutheran Church conducted by Rev. Alex Black and Rev. Patricia Pittsnogle. The service will be in addition to the regularly scheduled Sunday morning service and will be the final service held in this present church building. Our congregation extends an invitation to all who wish to join us as we give thanks for that purpose. As we prepare to move to another building, may our hearts be fixed where true joy is found — in Jesus Christ our Lord. Fellowship will follow in the educational building.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Resh hosted an outdoor picnic on Sunday, Aug. 20, to honor Mrs. Joe Resh on her 87th birthday. Those in attendance were Sue and Harry Bowers, Dave Butler, Judy Stanton, Shirley Yommer, Dave Wilt, Greg Lawson, Jeff Layman, Beverly, Ray and Tyler Wilt, Darlene and Marvin Miller, Dennis Buckel, Peggy Chappell, and Sheila, Bill, Tyler and Landon Southerly.

I was amused and am amazed that the "Fair Pig Scene" is finally over. It was extremely interesting. All my beautiful pig girls did a bang-up job with their 4-H project pigs. One thing about your kids having pigs is that you might be recruited to help with the rough and ready job to get the hogs into the ring. This year over 50 hogs were at the fair. The pigs can sometimes get pretty rowdy, and the task of getting all the 4-H hogs in the right order is a lively job. Imagine if someone had told Lloyd when our kids were little that someday he would be having so much fun herding some pigs around at the county fair.

The highlight of this week, besides watching Claire win her first blue ribbons in her market hog class, was the hog barn during the parade. It is a little known fact that pigs are crazy about a parade, from the scoop from colleague pig handlers to Lloyd. Lloyd dropped off Caitlin and Mere for their appearance on the Bittinger 4-H Club float, and Claire got to perform with the Northern High School Band (which seems almost impossible that now she is in high school and seems only yesterday that I had staggered through the fair grounds on Saturday, August 17, 1986, the day she was born). That was just 14 years ago.

On this Thursday evening just as the parade was about to begin, Lloyd hurried over to the pig barn where the real action was going on. The pigs gave the Northern and Southern bands a cool reception, but when the Accident Concert Band went by the pigs went "nuts," sometimes like a crowd of rock concert goers. They tried to climb out of their pens and went straight up the sides. But the seasoned pig handlers were ready with the water hoses. A good spray cooled down the excitement to more relative quiet. Why the Accident Band had such an extreme affect on them, while the bigger louder high school bands left them cold, no one knows. Maybe it was because my brother Rodney, who was known in high school band for his extremely high notes on the trumpet, showed off this year in the Accident band.

I am glad Claire went to band camp a few weeks ago, since she already made friends with some of her upper classmates. Robbie Glotfelty did one of the action stunts at camp when he ate some sick mixture of Jello, applesauce, etc., and when he spit it out it was over Joel Kolbe, who is also from Bittinger and also plays the tuba.

I would think that Lloyd Brenneman watched with much pride the class for heavyweight champion hogs. The ring was packed with hogs that his sire, a red Doroc, had mothered. Lynn's son Trey, Jordon Brenneman, Robbie Glotfelty, and Claire and Caitlin were owners of some of those hogs. All the pigs from Bittinger did very well at the sale on Saturday night. I do not know exactly how well they all did, but I do know my girls got over $3.00 a pound. But in case you think it is easy money, you did not see all the cousins shedding oceans of tears.

I was supposed to put an item in the column last week about a lost dog, Jazz, belonging to Lesa Whittemore. He was missing for about a week. Yesterday Lesa said he will never come home, but I told her I was sure he would come home. I even told her he would come back tomorrow (which is today), and, sure enough, I just got a call that he is home. She said apparently he was on Dry Run Road at Lorne Brenneman's place. She can't understand how he could have gotten that far. I told her it was just over Meadow Mountain. It is not that far, especially for a strong big beagle dog like Jazz.

Marci Glotfelty's father, George Farmer, and wife Chris were up from Baltimore for the sale at the fair on Saturday. When they returned home on Monday they took back to Baltimore with them twins Darryl and Elliot to play some golf. Lynn and Michael Smith also were guests of the Glotfeltys the first of the week and visited the fair. Also up attending the fair were Mike Englar, Westminster, and Barry Glotfelty, Frederick. Barry visited with his family on Saturday and caught a glimpse of action at the Bittinger picnic, but said it was not the same at all with the missing old-time country band. This year they were entertained with karaoke. It seems lots of people just don't attend like they used to do. The chicken barbecue is still a hit.

Another sad example of progress in Bittinger is this coming Sunday, the last service in our old beautiful 200-year-old church. Starting in September, services will be held in the new church.

When you are reading this, it will be the longest week I have ever lived through. Late Sunday morning Lloyd took my girls to Ocean City to spend the week at the beach with his parents and sister.

Emma Bass celebrated her ninth birthday on Sunday with her cousins. She and Claire resent any attempt for their parents to hold a combination party since their birthdays are only two days apart. It is very tempting for the parents involved. We will still have to have Claire's cousin's party when they return since her birthday was int he middle of fair week.

My mother, Ruth DiPaolo, as usual spent some time at the fair, but unfortunately it caught up with her on Tuesday night as she got a very dizzy spell and had irregular heartbeats. After being checked out by the rescue squad on duty at the fair, she was taken to the emergency room, and after different tests was allowed to come home. Her friends, Ellis and Betty Sacra from Partlow, Va., arrived Wednesday and cracked down on her and forced her to take it easy, so they relaxed, playing cards and visiting. She finally made it out to the Livestock Sale on Saturday night.

The drawing for the quilt and comforter made by Ferne Beachy to benefit the building fund of the church was held on Saturday. The winner of the quilt was Gloria Bowser, Nims, Fla., and winner of the comforter was Alma Lauver, Meyersdale, Pa. Proceeds from the drawing amounted to $435. Thanks go to Ferne and all those who purchased chances.

Cindy and Lea Stanton and Sally and Torrey Poholsky visited with Brent, Kelly, and Wyatt Beachy, Clarkston, Mich., last week. The highlight of the trip was playing with 2½-year-old Wyatt, along with seeing the huge Chrysler Building and watching a game at the new Comenica Park, home of the Detroit Tigers.

Lenny Poholsky was a Friday night dinner guest of Kevin and Mary Jo Johnson, Grantsville. Lenny and Torrey recently attended a Pirate game with the Johnsons.

It is back to school for the college kids from the community. Lea Stanton returned to Towson and Michelle Geis returned to Virginia Tech. Many others also returned to college.

Since last weekend I got a phone call from a mysterious Ted from Hollywood, Calif. He said to have a subscription sent to him so he can read my column. So I better mention him. Hello, Ted!

19th Mt. Grove Potato Festival Set For Sept. 9-10

The 19th Annual Mt. Grove Potato Festival, sponsored each year by the Mt. Grove Volunteer Fire Department, is set for Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 9 and 10.

Events get under way both days at 10 a.m. and will continue throughout the evening. Attractions planned during the two-day festival include live entertainment, flea markets, crowd participation contests, cake walks, and door prizes. Concessions, including the VFD's "famous" steak subs, rabbit nuggets, and ramps and fried potatoes will be available for sale throughout the weekend. New to the festival's wide variety of concessions this year will be Rotary fries.

Saturday's special events include a decorated cake contest, followed by the ever popular cake auction at 2 p.m. The top three prize-winning cakes, as well several others entered into the contest, are traditionally auctioned off and donated back to be sold again, offering festival-goers a lively afternoon of entertainment.

The 3rd annual Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club Car Show, also slated for Saturday's potato festival activities, will feature antique and classic cars and trucks from the tri-state area.

Proceeds from the annual festival are used each year for the VFD's operating expenses.

Plenty of free parking will be offered on the fire department's grounds, located on Rt. 219, between Silver Lake and Thomas, and there is no charge for admission to the festival or to the entertainment planned throughout the weekend.

For more information about any of the activities planned at this year's event, persons may call 304-735-6104 or 304-735-5035, or e-mail inquiries to: Potatofest@usa.net

Labor Day Travel To Increase By 5%, AAA Predicts

An estimated 33.7 million Americans are expected to travel 100 miles or more from home this Labor Day holiday, up 5 percent over last year, according to AAA Mid-Atlantic. Despite a 23-cent surge in gas prices over the same period last year, approximately 28.3 million plan to travel by automobile, light truck, or recreational vehicle. Holiday travel by air, bus, rail, or ship is expected to reach 5.4 million, the same number as last Labor Day.

AAA Mid-Atlantic predicts that nearly 485,000 Maryland residents will travel 100 miles or more on the nation's highways. Gas prices in Maryland are currently averaging $1.56 per gallon for self-serve regular unleaded, 34 cents higher than this same time last year. "Good weather will certainly motivate Marylanders to travel this weekend as summer winds to an end," stated Myra Wieman, manager of public affairs for AAA Mid-Atlantic.

Based on requests for Triptiks, tour books, and maps at AAA branch offices, the top destinations for Maryland travelers this Labor Day will be: Ocean City; Myrtle Beach, S.C.; Williamsburg, Va.; Gatlinburg/Pigeon Forge, Tenn.; and Outer Banks, N.C.

"As the summer comes to a close and vacationers soak up that last bit of sunshine, travelers need to anticipate crowded roads especially late Monday afternoon," Wieman said. "Those heading home after a long day should also be cautious of possible fatigue and the warning signs of sleepiness to prevent falling asleep at the wheel." Eyes closing or going out of focus, having trouble keeping one's head up, consistent yawning and/or having trouble staying in the traffic lane are all warning signs that indicate a driver may be falling asleep.

AAA offers the following advice to help travelers make it home safely:

- Get a good night's rest. It is far too easy to burn the midnight oil while on vacation, but one of the most important preparations travelers can make before a long drive is ensuring they have enough sleep before getting behind the wheel.
- Avoid driving during the body's down time. For most individuals this time is between 2 and 6 a.m., the time of day when most are biologically programmed to be at home asleep in bed.
- Talk with passenger(s). A passenger can also let a driver know when he or she is showing signs of sleepiness. In addition, encourage passengers who are sleepy to retire to the back seat. Sleepiness is contagious.
- Pull over and take a nap. As little as 20 minutes of sleep will help rejuvenate a weary driver. Remember to find a safe spot, preferably a well-lit, populated rest area.
- Get a little exercise and consume caffeine. After a nap, take a walk and stretch before getting back in the car. For an extra boost, caffeine helps to restore alertness.

"It is important to note that people fall asleep at times when they think sleep is highly unlikely," said Wieman. "Don't count on a last minute warning sign because sleep can occur suddenly. By being patient and prepared, travelers can avoid problems and enjoy their last summer hurrah."

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

You are invited to participate in the grand re-opening of Oakland's train station at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 7, where not only will you see the results of the handiwork of skilled craftsmen who have returned the building to its original splendor, but you can also meet "Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln." If you're wondering why there will be two people who are professionals specializing in the historic re-enactment of the Lincolns attending this event, the answer is that President Lincoln was friends with John Garrett, president of the B&O Railroad, a leading member of the family after whom this county was named.

And if you're wondering why the bricks bearing the names of local people and their families haven't been laid yet in front of the Garrett County Historical Society, the answer is that structural problems beneath the walkway have been discovered. These are fairly serious undermining of the sidewalk and demand to be addressed before the bricks can be put in, which will now be sometime after Autumn Glory.

In the meantime, people still wanting to buy bricks can do so by picking up forms at town hall or by downloading them from our web site at www.oaklandmd.com. The bricks bought from now on will help to complete the sidewalk from the end of the first segment that will begin at the museum along Second Street up to the train station. Those people who have already purchased bricks can look for them to be in the first segment of the sidewalk sometime after Autumn Glory.

There are some other ways in which you, your family, or your organization can be a permanent part of the train station project and help us bring the project to financial completion. We have a list of memorials at town hall that include unique, locally made steel benches, street lights and flagpoles . . . all of which have spaces for a plaque with the wording of your choice.

And our tax credits are still available. They're the ones that return 74 percent of your donation in cash to you. So, if you decided to give $500 or more, most of that donation will come back to you AND you receive credit for your full donation on a plaque inside the station. No matter which method you choose — bricks, plaques on memorial donations or tax credits — all three forms will assure permanent recognition on the site of our important restoration effort.

Stephen and Tara,
I want to express from myself and my family our great appreciation for all of your help over the last several weeks during the purchase of our new home.
As first-time buyers, we knew nothing of the process and frankly had become discouraged by the "how much do you want to spend?" attitude demonstrated by other realtors. In the two of you we found unparalleled professionalism combined with a genuine concern for the needs of our family.
Thanks for being much more than "Representatives" or "Sales-Professionals", You have become our friends.
God Bless You,
John Wyrick

Lancaster Farming Offers Cow Cam

For dairy farmers who are attempting to become computer literate, Lancaster Farming magazine offers Cow Cam on its web site at www.lancasterfarming.com.

As part of the magazine's ongoing effort to support the agricultural community and bring an interest in farming to the city and urban population, it has joined with Kreider Dairy Farm located near Manheim, Pa., in establishing a cow cam in its dairy barn.

Because of the recent expansion of their dairy complex, the Kreiders, third generation family dairymen, now operate one of the largest and most modern milking facilities in the U.S.

Bovine comfort, even in this large operation, is "supremely accommodated," according to the Kreiders. The 850-foot-long free-stall barn with more than two acres under roof provides openness that allows naturally moving fresh air to reach the cows at all times.

The milking parlor, the largest such unit east of the Mississippi River with 54 rotary stalls, can be viewed on line.

Loan Deficiency Payments Are Explained By FSA's Kozier

Michael R. Kozier, executive director of the Garrett/Allegany Farm Service Agency (FSA), explained in a news release this week that a loan deficiency payment (LDP) is not a loan.

"Loan deficiency payments are made to producers who meet the requirements to obtain a CCC loan and agree to forego the loan in return for a payment on the eligible commodity," Kozier said.

He explained that the loan deficiency payment rate changes daily based on the difference between the county loan rate (which remains constant) and the posted county price (which changes daily), and asks farmers to call the office for the daily rates.

Following are the 2000 loan rates, which are the same for both Garrett and Allegany counties: wheat, $2.59; barley $1.45; oats, $1.26; corn, $2.05; and soybeans, $5.37.

In past years, LDPs were available to producers who grew wheat, barley, oats, grain sorghum, and corn on farms which were participating in the Production Flexibility Program. All farms were eligible for soybean LDPs, Kozier said.

He explained that what is new this year is that producers growing a contract commodity (wheat, barley, oats, corn, grain sorghum) on a farm which is not enrolled in the Production Flexibility Program are now eligible for LDPs on 2000 crop production.

"This change is effective for crop year 2000 only," he said. "Since this program is being announced after many small grain producers have marketed their crop, producers have 30 days after the final regulation is published to apply. All farms will be eligible for soybean LDPs.

"If you are planning on harvesting your crop and taking it straight to market, come to the office first and sign the CCC-709," Kozier said. "The LDP rate will be based on the date of delivery."

He continued by stating that farm-stored grain to be sold at a later date gives farmers flexibility. "As long as you maintain beneficial interest, risk of loss and title to the commodity, you can choose the date you request your LDP. A CCC-666 LDP is signed on the date you choose your LDP rate," he said.

A producer chooses the date he wishes to request his LDP, and Kozier adds that this must be done before he feeds the grain. "We highly recommend measurement service to determine the eligible quantity. A producer can certify the quantity, as long as the producer certification does not exceed the maximum yield established by the county committee," he explained.

About selling grain locally, Kozier said, "It is fine to sell your crop to another farmer but you must have a proper invoice, unless you decide to certify. Call the office and we will be glad to send you a sample invoice."

He warned that all producers certifying their production will be subject to a spot-check.

"All producers applying the LDPs must have an acreage report on file, complete a CCC-502 Payment Limitation Form, and have a current AD-1026 Highly Erodible Land/Wetland Certification, Kozier added.

"The deadline to report your crop acreage was July 28, but producers who missed the deadline can report now, as long as there is crop residue in the field. The acreage will be spot-checked, and a late file fee will be charged," he said.

One other change for the 2000 crop he noted is that the payment limitation for marketing loan gains and LDPs reverts to $75,000 per person.

Dairy Legislation Prominent In 106th Congress

Six separate dairy bills are pending in the U.S. Congress as the 106th session draws to a close. With major congressional races and a presidential election in the works, action on these bills appears doubtful before adjournment in October.

The Maryland Dairy Industry Association (MDIA) has been monitoring several of these measures, including efforts to pass HR 1604, the interstate dairy compact authorization; HR 4922, which seeks additional studies on the discharge of dairy nutrient waste; and HR 5052, a measure establishing a National Milk Pricing Board.

"I'm most pleased with the enthusiastic support from Maryland's congressional delegation," said MDIA president Myron Wilhide. "Together with other dairy groups, MDIA plans to increase support in the next congress for measures that increase profitability for producers in Maryland and throughout the nation."

Often Asked Questions About the New Maryland Nutrient Management Laws

Compiled by Jill Hauser

Garrett County Nutrient Management Advisor

1. Who is required to have a Nutrient Management Plan?

Any agricultural operation grossing $2500 or more annually or having more than 8 animal units (one animal unit = 1000 lbs. of live wt). Example, if you have 8 dairy cows that weight 1,500 lbs. you have 12,000 lbs. live wt or 12 animal units.

2. What is the date by which we have to have a nutrient management plan for the operation?

Farmers using chemical fertilizers are required to have a nitrogen and phosphorus based plan developed by December 31, 2001 and implemented by December 31, 2002.

Farmers applying animal manure, biosolids (sludge), or other organic nutrients must have a nitrogen-based plan developed by December 31, 2001, and implemented by December 31, 2002.

3. How often does a Nutrient Management Plan need to be updated?

Usually a minimum of every three years. If you are changing crop rotations or are adding more or changing animals you will require an update more frequently.

4. What is a Nutrient Applicator Voucher?

An Agricultural Applicator Voucher is a voucher any farmers who own or manage 10 or more acres of agricultural land and apply their own nutrients are required to hold. The farmer will need to attend a two hour Maryland Department of Agriculture sponsored education program on nutrient application every three years to have a voucher. Commercial applicators hired by a farmer to apply nutrients to agricultural land must be certified as nutrient management consultants by Maryland Department of Agriculture or work under a certified nutrient management consultant. A Non-Ag. Applicator is any person employed to apply nutrients to three or more acres of nonagricultural property (lawns, public grounds, golf courses, etc.) or to any state property not used for agriculture. This person must apply the nutrients following the recommendations provided by Maryland Cooperative Extension.

Applicators are required to keep records of their activities, including soil test results, production and management objectives, and timing of and rates of nutrient application.

Farming for a New Market
Mountain Pride Cooperative Inc.
Paige Dopson, Marketing

Marketing is a process by which folks ("them") get their needs and wants met by exchanging dollars for product with others ("us"). The consumer then, as with all other industries, drives the farm.

The growing concerns of the consumer and government for the environment and therefore farm practices has led to a keen interest in how we do things. We need to be willing to enter the arena with information and products that will satisfy consumers' needs and wants.

With "Marketing" in mind, buyers have expressed a strong interest in alternatively raised swine. Alternatives, to large-scale confinement models, does not mean returning to antiquated production methods. Instead, it means combining appropriate technologies to customize operations. Jennifer Debnam, president of Maryland Pork Producers Association, says, "This especially long period of poor hog prices has left very few hog farms remaining in Maryland." We would like to know who is now or would be interested in producing swine. Look for our survey or call the Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

Getting a clear picture of what the consumer wants in a goat has been ever elusive. But evaluating the animals we have and finding a market for them has been met with some success. Mt. Pride has now found a packer who is looking for 30 to 40 goats a month. Also on our success list is an opportunity with a packer for "Specified Lamb Plan."

Keeping our eye on "The Market" for what they want and we have, Mountain Pride is planning to move forward, successfully providing the consumers' needs and wants.

NRAES Offers New Publication Examining Greenhouse Options

The Natural Resource, Agriculture, and Engineering Service (NRAES) is offering a new publication examining greenhouse options for homeowners and gardeners.

Whether it means tending to a collection of exotic house plants or cultivating a year-round crop of vegetables, greenhouse gardening appeals to many people for many different reasons. A greenhouse can help garden enthusiasts get through the cold part of the year; it fills a void during winter, when weather prohibits gardening outdoors. Home greenhouses are ideal for introducing children to nature and showing them how seeds develop into flowering plants or nutritious vegetables. Retirees often adopt greenhouse gardening as a hobby to enjoy during their retirement years.

Greenhouses for Homeowners and Gardeners (June 2000) will help readers select and design the most appropriate size and style of greenhouse to fit their needs, find the best place to locate a greenhouse, and decide whether to build a greenhouse themselves or hire a contractor to do it. This comprehensive, easy-to-read book covers every style and type of greenhouse—from relatively inexpensive film-plastic-covered growing spaces to custom-designed, cozy sunspaces that extend the living space within the home. The book addresses a wide audience, including gardeners, homeowners, cooperative extension educators, and institutions (such as retirement homes, schools, and prison associations). Small farmers may also find the book useful.

The book contains eight chapters on the following topics: greenhouse basics, selecting a greenhouse, greenhouse planning, framing materials and glazing, greenhouse layouts and equipment, the greenhouse environment, window greenhouses and growth chambers, and garden structures. With this book, aspiring and practicing greenhouse operators will be able to make informed decisions about foundations, glazing and framing materials, space utilization, interior design, heating and cooling systems, supplemental lighting, watering and fertilizing systems, and other greenhouse design and construction issues. The garden structures chapter covers the design, construction, and use of cold frames, hotbeds, shade houses, rowcovers, and high tunnels.

Nearly 150 line drawings illustrate the 214-page book to help readers visualize the way greenhouses are built; evaluate alternative methods of construction; design interiors; select labor-saving equipment; and understand the skills involved in designing, building, and operating a greenhouse. Ten diverse do-it-yourself plans for home greenhouses and other garden structures are provided in an appendix. Each plan includes materials lists and construction diagrams and details. Three additional appendixes contain a greenhouse maintenance checklist, lists of greenhouse and equipment suppliers, and useful conversions. A glossary of terms that might be unfamiliar to readers and an index are included as well.

Greenhouses for Homeowners and Gardeners was written by John W. Bartok Jr., professor emeritus in the Department of Natural Resources Management and Engineering at the University of Connecticut. He wrote the book to update similar publications that have become obsolete because of changes in materials and construction techniques. Bartok has over 30 years of experience working with hobbyists, commercial growers, institutions, and manufacturers. His book was published by the NRAES.

Greenhouses for Homeowners and Gardeners, NRAES-137, is available for $25 per copy plus shipping and handling from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701. Shipping and handling for one copy is $5.50 within the continental United States. If ordering more than one book or if ordering from outside the United States, those interested may contact NRAES for shipping rates and possible quantity discounts. All major credit cards are accepted, and checks should be made payable to NRAES. For more information or a free publication catalog, interested persons may contact NRAES by phone at 607-255-7654, by fax at 607-254-8770, or by e-mail at nraes@cornell.edu. To learn more about NRAES, persons may browse through the entire catalog, and order books on-line by visiting the web site at www.nraes.org.

New Financial Aid Assistant Named By GCC

Garrett Community College has selected Erin DiBacco as its new financial aid assistant. She will serve students who apply for financial aid as she assists Pat Bennett, director of the college's Financial Aid Office. DiBacco has also earned a GCC General Scholarship award for the coming school year. (See separate story.)

DiBacco, who has already been employed in GCC's Financial Aid Office for the past two years, stated, "I really enjoy working in financial aid and I look forward to having more responsibility. My favorite part is working with the students and making them aware of the many resources available to them. It's great to see their faces light up when they realize that they have these opportunities they were not aware of."

A GCC graduate, DiBacco holds an associate's degree in business administration and is currently enrolled in Bowie State University's bachelor of technology degree program, which is offered via distance learning. In addition to working in the GCC Financial Aid Office over the past two years, she has also taught aerobics at Brenda's Body Shop.

DiBacco said that her hobbies include scrapbooking, organizing photos in albums, and journaling to create a permanent display.

DiBacco and her husband Shannon reside in Oakland.

LEUBA SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED — Marianne Peracchio, daughter of Carol and Dorian Peracchio of Oakland and a 2000 graduate of Southern High School, has been awarded the Dorothy R. Shown above, Tom Graybill, left, of the GOH presents Perocchio with the Leuba Scholarship check, which is awarded annually to Garrett County residents with disabilities who seek to improve their education or training beyond high school, or to residents who seek training in the provision of direct services to individuals with disabilities. Legal Assistance Available Free Through MVLS

When Maryland resident Susan D. discovered that her tax return was being challenged by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for inadvertently failing to submit the complete amount of her Social Security income, she didn't know where to turn. On her annual income of $15,000, she did not have the money to hire a lawyer to represent her, and she was not equipped to defend herself against the IRS on her own. Fortunately for Susan D., she found free legal assistance through the Maryland Volunteer Lawyers Service (MVLS) and was able to amend her tax return, reduce her assessment, and resolve her issue with the IRS.

For the second consecutive year, the MVLS — in partnership with the University of Maryland School of Law and the University of Baltimore School of Law — received a $92,000 grant from the IRS to provide free assistance to low- and moderate-income Maryland residents in resolving controversies involving the Earned Income Credit, discrepancies in reported income, non-filers, collection matters, and head of household status. To apply for the program, taxpayers can call MVLS at 410-547-6537 or 800-510-0050, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Legal assistance is provided to low- and moderate-income taxpayers who qualify for the program by law students who are supervised by faculty at the University of Baltimore and University of Maryland, as well as MVLS volunteer lawyers and accountants. In the first year of the program, 52 Maryland residents received free legal representation in their disputes with the IRS.

MVLS is a nonprofit organization that provides free and low-cost legal assistance to low-income people throughout Maryland. In addition to tax controversies, MVLS handles cases involving landlord/tenant disputes, consumer rights, denial of public benefits, wills, deed changes, and name changes. To apply for representation in these cases, persons may call the above numbers. Since its creation in 1981, 2,500 private attorneys have taken more than 14,000 pro bono cases, donating legal services valued at more than $14 million.

GIRLS DIG INTO THEIR WORK - Amanda Kinsinger, left, and Kayla Kipp, both 12-year-old students at Northern Middle School, have become very familiar faces at Spruce Forest Artisan Village, Grantsville. The two young women have volunteered their services for a combined total of 251 hours (Amanda 148 hours and Kayla 103 hours). Tending gardens around the log buildings of the village, as seen in the photo, was only one of the jobs they took on. Amanda and Kayla worked in the office as well as outdoors performing routine maintenance and preparing for Summerfest and the quilt show. Though the number of hours given may not all be included in their service learning school requirement, both girls said they would continue with the work because they enjoy it.

Youth Complete Summer Program In Grantsville

Grantsville Kids 'N' Corporated Summer Youth Initiative held a recognition program recently with approximately 80 parents, community members, and guests in attendance. The program, funded through the Department of Juvenile Justice and Garrett County Community Action, had 49 students enrolled for eight weeks of activities.

Coordinator Karen Wood, working with staff members Stephanie Merrill and Eileen Schlosnagle operated the program with the assistance of service learning students Tom Menges, Ashly Swauger, Jeff Yommer, and Amanda Swauger. In addition, parents volunteered as chaperons for the program when the children were on field trips.

Parent volunteers who were recognized for their efforts included Dee Durst, Patty Durst, Chris Miller, John Miller, Rhea Georg, Lollie Yommer, Tina McKenzie, Robert Singell, and Lisa Singell. Chris Miller and Patty Durst were given additional thanks for their special efforts.

Wanda Reynolds and Eric Savage of the Department of Natural Resources praised the students for their participation in the Junior Ranger program, held at New Germany State Park. Savage and Reynolds expressed their appreciation to the students describing them as "an outstanding group."

Wood commended the students for their "outstanding efforts" in the reading program that was coordinated with the Country Club Theatre. The top readers were Michelle Jones, Wayne Menges, Tiffany Wilt and Jeffrey Wilburn.

The group read a total of 18,624 pages this summer in comparison to 10,574 last year. Their achievements earned all the students a day at Dan's Mountain.

There were nine students recognized for having perfect attendance: Jennie Orner, Cristy Orner, Blair Silbaugh, Pennie Durst, Wayne Menges, Miriam Wilt, Jeffrey Wilburn, Vincent Fazenbaker, Vanessa Fazenbaker, and Stephanie Fazenbaker.

For a community service project that practiced team-building skills, the students returned to New Germany State Park and collected 182 pounds of garbage, with Wayne Menges and Bruce Dirden gathering the most.

The highlight of the awards program was a presentation of plaques to Ashly Swauger and Tom Menges for their outstanding volunteer work with the program. Karen Ray, Service Learning coordinator for the Garrett County Board of Education, made the presentation.

In addition, Delegate George Edwards awarded a citation to Tom Menges for his exceptional efforts on behalf of the program.

Program director Linda Green described Tom as a "role model to those students attending the program." A member of the Northern Husky football team, Tom missed a practice in order to accompany his student group when they went to Dan's Mountain.

"We so often hear of the negative actions of young people, but I feel the dedication of the four students who served the Summer Youth Initiative Program demonstrates the integrity of our youth and what they have to offer," said Green.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Garrett County Board of Education is required by its own policy and by Federal and State Law to annually notify eligible students and parents who have children attending public school of the policy regulating the handling of student records and the information contained within them. Board of Education Policy #474.20 and Procedures #474.21, the "Confidentiality of Student Records Policy," establishes the guidelines that the Garrett County Public Schools employ.

The provisions of this policy are intended to preserve the right of students and parents to have full access to all official records about the students which are maintained by the Garrett County Public Schools; to have removed from these records any information about the student which is determined to be inaccurate or misleading; to enjoy confidentiality and privacy in regard to the disclosure of information contained in those records to outside agencies; and to provide for efficient student records management.

Individual pupil records maintained by teachers or other school personnel under the provisions of this policy are to be confidential in nature, and access to such records may be granted to professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of the individual student in a teaching, guidance/counseling, or consulting situation. Individual student records, with the exception of such records as are designated as permanent, and with such other exceptions as provided by law, should be destroyed when they are no longer able to serve professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of individual students in a teaching, guidance/counseling, or consulting situation.

Institutions of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County shall not permit access to, or release of education records of, students or personally identifiable information contained herein (other than directory information), without the written consent of the parents of the eligible student with the exception of disclosure without consent as required by Federal law, and/or State law and bylaws. Education institutions of Garrett County, however, shall make the cumulative records of a student available to officials of other elementary or secondary schools or another school system in which the student seeks or intends to enroll. The institution of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County will forward without consent cumulative records on request to a school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

Directory information means the student's name, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, and other similar information. Directory information may be made public without the consent of parents or eligible students. Student records limited to directory information and student addresses may be made available at the discretion of the principal for legitimate educational purposes, such as post-secondary schools and Armed Services Recruiters, for the purpose of informing eligible students of post high school educational opportunities, to businesses officially recognized by the schools as requiring legitimate contact for purposes of graduation activities, yearbook production, and alumni associations of schools in the organization of class reunions. A parent or guardian may refuse to permit personally identifiable information from being designated as directory information by informing the school in writing his/her refusal within the first two weeks of the school year.

The policy goes on to spell out the types of data in a pupil record, the types of student records, and how the records are transferred between schools, individuals, institutions, and agencies.

If access to a student's records is desired by an eligible student or parent, he/she should contact the appropriate school principal. In most cases, there is a charge for copies of student records.

"REAL ESTATE TALK"

Question: I'm thinking about selling my house in the near future. I know my house needs repairs. If I do all the repairs to the house, can I raise the sale price to cover the money that I spend for the repairs? (Mrs. M, Oakland)
Answer: Good question, Mrs. M. I'm asked this question often. You should consider what type of repairs are needed. If the roof, plumbing, electrical, heating, etc., need repair or replacing, it would be necessary to take care of these, not only for the resale value, but also for your safety and the safety of the property. Repairs that could raise the property value are remodeling a kitchen or bathroom, or adding a deck or patio. Improvements that may not pay are over improvements like adding a swimming pool, an addition, or elaborate landscaping. Remember, "Keep it simple, but keep it nice."
The best advice I can give you is to talk to your Real Estate professional. He or she can advise you on what you should improve, or what you should just let be. Thank you for your question, and we hope that we have given you some ideas that will help.

Savage River Dam Warning System To Be Instituted

The Savage River Dam, currently considered quite stable as a result of frequent inspections carried out on a regular basis, will soon have a state-of-the art warning system that would provide emergency notification to downstream residents in the event of a dam collapse. The 184-foot high earthen structure, which holds an estimated 6.5 billion gallons of water, carries a "high hazard" rating because of the amount of damage that could result if the dam should fail.

The warning system is expected to be operational before the end of November, according to Fleming El-Amin, planner with the Maryland Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) and member of the Savage River Dam Planning Committee, which was charged with instituting a plan of action after last fall's meeting of the Governor's Flood Mitigation Task Force for Western Maryland. The committee is nearing its selection of a vendor to install a computerized call-down system that would notify residents nearest the dam first, then continue the calls in geographical phases to others further along the potential floodway.

If a dam failure were to occur, the Upper Potomac River Commission, which owns and closely monitors the dam, would immediately contact the Garrett County

AND AT HOME, THE PLAYGROUND IS QUIET — Last week's front page photo was almost audible, with children climbing on monkey bars and shouting to the cameraman: "Take my picture!" But today we are back at the home playground, where the swings are still, now that the kids are back in class. Perhaps the wildlife will visit the quiet places, like this long-eared nose twitcher, to take a ride or two on that interesting teeter-totter.

ATV Accident Victim Transported To Hospital By Police Helicopter

The operator of an all-terrain vehicle (ATV), injured in a mishap on private property last Sunday, was transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by Trooper 5, the Maryland State Police helicopter. Tfc. S. MacLane of the McHenry barrack reported that Brian Champ, 22, Petersburg, W.Va., was riding a 2000 Yamaha 350cc ATV on private property on Vindex Road when the accident occurred.

Champ drove his ATV into a rock-lined culvert and was fully ejected from the vehicle, MacLane said. Champ was treated at Memorial Hospital and released, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Pickup Strikes Bus

A collision involving a pickup truck and school bus, which occurred last Friday afternoon at the intersection of Humberson and Green Gable roads, sent two people to the hospital for treatment of injuries, according to the police officer investigating the 4:05 p.m. accident.

The report filed by police stated that the 1991 International school bus, operated by Vernon Sines, 58, Friendsville, pulled onto Green Gable Road and into the path of a 1999 Ford Ranger, driven by Bronco Joseph Detrick, 22, Friendsville. The pickup subsequently struck the back of the school bus, police said.

Detrick and one student were taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

The investigating officer said that Sines had failed to yield the right of way and was charged accordingly.

A FAMILY THAT WORKS TOGETHER — Dusty and Elizabeth Huxford are pictured with Terry Huxford, center, at her recent retirement celebration, hosted by the local company Financial Computer Support Inc. (FCSI) and its employees. Terry started the business with her late husband Dave Huxford, and the two carved out a remarkable niche in the financial industry. Their decision to locate in Garrett County some years ago has brought opportunity and achievement to many local residents. The family members work well together, and tend to give a sense of family to the employees. In the spirit of good relations with both the workers and the public, Dusty is known for such things as treating the entire staff to fun outings to help build morale, and requiring the telephones at FCSI to always be answered by human beings ready to help. While the company is on the cutting edge of computer technology, it also has a reputation of being friendly and personal. The family touch is evident, initiated "way back when" with Terry and the late Dave Huxford. A feature article about Terry and her career can be found on page A-14 of today's issue.

Handgun, Drug Arrests Result From Traffic Stop On Interstate

A traffic stop on I-68 Monday morning by Maryland State Police from the McHenry barrack led to an arrest for possession of a handgun and possession of marijuana in excess of 300 grams with intent to distribute.

Tfc. Jesse Broadwater reported that at approximately 8 a.m. Monday, he stopped a 1988 Pontiac Grand Prix, registered in Virginia, which was traveling eastbound at a speed exceeding the posted limit near the 21 mile-marker of the Interstate. A consent search was granted by the driver of vehicle, James Wayne Marshall, 20, Newport News, Va.

A search of the vehicle revealed a Feg .380 caliber pistol in the glove box, 317.9 grams of marijuana, drug paraphernalia, two sets of digital scales, and $718 in currency, Broadwater said.

Marshall and two other occupants of the vehicle, Christopher Mason Know, 20, Williamsburg, Va., and Tyler Hartley Andersen, 19, Newport News, were arrested and incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail. They have since been released on $10,000 bond.

Traffic/CDS Charges Filed

Tfc. B.A. Bond reported stopping a Dodge Ram pickup truck on Monday for speeding eastbound on I-68 near Shade Hollow Road at 3:21 p.m. The driver, Lisa Nicholson, Poolesville, was charged with speeding and driving with a suspended license. Following a search of the vehicle, two passengers, Rodney Crall, Saline-ville, Ohio, and James Denoon, Poolesville, were charged with possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia.

Tfc. J. LeMay stopped a vehicle driven by Kenneth Lee Perrin Jr. 20, Frostburg, for reportedly traveling 79.7 mph in the a 65 mph zone on I-68 near the Casselman River at 11 a.m. September 1. LeMay said he detected an odor of marijuana and requested a search of the vehicle, which led to the arrest of Perrin for possession of marijuana, prescription drugs, and drug paraphernalia.

Deem, Dalton Both Sentenced In Circuit Crt.

Two men were sentenced to jail by Judge James Sherbin last week, following proceedings of the Circuit Court of Garrett County.

A 15-year prison term in the Department of Corrections was handed down to Jason Dalton, 25, formerly of Pulaski, Va., for the robbery of Gerald Beachy's pharmacy. A concurrent 5-year term was also given for a first degree assault charge, incurred by Dalton after he threatened a Beachy's Pharmacy employee.

Dalton pleaded guilty in June to the charges. He was brought before the local court after having been returned to Maryland from North Carolina, where he is serving 60 to 81 months for robbery with a deadly weapon.

Dalton will be returned to North Carolina to complete that sentence and then will be brought back to Maryland for the consecutive 15-year term, according to a state's attorney's office spokesperson.

Dalton was apprehended in Hanover County, N.C., after he and a co-defendant committed a string of armed robberies for which they were wanted in Maryland, West Virginia, and North Carolina. In Garrett County, the two entered Beachy's Pharmacy, located along Main Street in Grantsville, on Aug. 20, 1999, and demanded a specific narcotic drug. They apparently fled the area in a small green vehicle. When they were caught in N.C., they were reportedly in possession of a green Chevy Cavalier, two pellet guns,

Jane Avery Is Named County's Most Beautiful

The local "Maryland, You Are Beautiful" committee announced its choice yesterday for this year's "most beautiful person" in Garrett County. Jane Avery of Oakland has been given the recognition for 2000.

A long-time teacher in Garrett County, Avery is known for her work with young people, both through school and through her more recent "project," Our Town Theatre in Oakland. Avery was nominated for the award by Chris Wildesen, who said in her letter to the committee that the honoree is an "exceptional woman who has touched the lives of so many people."

Avery will be honored by the county in the near future, and then will travel to Annapolis for a ceremony with all the counties' chosen honorees.

A detailed story about Avery and her contributions to Garrett County will appear in a future issue of The Republican.

Commissioners Vote To Create Animal Issues Advisory Group

In light of recent concerns about animal control in Garrett County, and in an ongoing effort to improve the county's handling of animal issues, the county commissioners this week announced that they will form an "animal issues advisory commission." The charge of the commission will be to address concerns about animal control and to suggest ways to better the local system.

The 11-member commission is to be composed of the following individuals: a county veterinarian, a member of the Garrett County Humane Society, a representative appointed by each of the county commissioners respective to their districts, the director of the county's general services department (presently Gary Mullich), the animal shelter manager, a representative of the county health department, a representative of the sheriff's office, a representative of the county's emergency management office, and a county licensed kennel op-erator.

"We are aware of many issues of concern," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg. "The best way to address these concerns is to get people involved in the process in this way. If we don't get people involved, things will only get worse."

The commissioners said they want to convene the new group as soon as possible. Letters are to be sent this week to prospective members, according to Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator.

The commissioners said the commission must convene at least four times per year, or more often as determined by the county officials. The advisory commission will be given "specific direction and parameters" by the commissioners, and will not be involved with personnel administration (such as the animal shelter staff).

Concerns about the training of the animal shelter staff were aired with the commissioners two weeks ago, with local veterinarian Dr. Paul Deal expressing worry about the lack of schooling of the two full-time employees and the one part-time worker. Mullich told the commissioners this week that the employees are going to attend training classes at Howard County Community College and Allegany College of Maryland. They will receive basic training and will work with local vets, he said.

In the discussion about animal control, Commissioner Fred Holliday said he was angry about a brochure printed by the Humane Society early this summer. He read the brochure at the Garrett County Fair and found fault with the following paragraph that was the last of a list of goals for the Humane Society:

"[It is a goal of the Garrett County Humane Society to] advocate the elimination of short-sighted management of the animal

Westernport Man Charged With Child Sex Abuse

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation arrested a Westernport man Friday, Aug. 25, on charges of child abuse and second degree rape in Garrett County.

Donald Wayne Liller Jr., 37, was the subject of a two-day investigation led by GBI detective Cpl. Scott Anderson. Liller is accused of assaulting two juveniles in the Oakland area residence of an acquaintance. A search of Liller's residence along Westernport Road uncovered alleged incriminating evidence associated with the incidents, according to the detective's report.

Liller remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $50,000 bond set by a district court commissioner.

Lightning Strike Blamed For Fire That Guts Avilton Community Ctr.

Lightning has been ruled the cause of a fire that resulted in an estimated $250,000 damage to the Avilton Community Association building early Monday. The 30-by-100-foot wood-frame structure, which formerly housed St. Ann's Catholic Church, is located along Avilton-Lonaconing Road.

Over 70 firefighters from the Grantsville, Bittinger, Eastern Garrett, and Deep Creek volunteer fire departments responded to the 3:58 a.m. alarm and, upon their arrival, found the building fully involved in flames. A neighbor reported the fire.

According to Deputy Chief State Fire Marshal Mark A. Bilger, an investigation conducted by Deputy State Fire Marshals Bruce Shafer and Ryan Chapman revealed that a lightning strike caused a short circuit in the building's electrical system, resulting in the fire. They said that the building was covered by insurance.

Also responding to the scene were the Northern Rescue Squad, Allegheny Power Company representatives, and a unit from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. There were no injuries reported. Frostburg firefighters stood by at Eastern Garrett's station, while additional Bittinger firemen stood by at Grantsville's station.

LIGHTNING is believed to have been the cause of a fire that gutted the former St. Ann's Catholic Church in Avilton, a structure used in recent years as a community center. Some 75 volunteer firefighters from several departments were called to the scene along Avilton-Lonaconing Road at 3:58 a.m. Monday, only to find the 100-foot-long structure fully involved in flames. Fire investigators have estimated the loss to be $250,000. See story for details. Photo courtesy of Kathy Harty.

State, County Jobless Rates Drop In June

Maryland's already low unemployment rate dropped to 3.3 percent in July after hitting a yearly high of 3.6 percent in the previous month, Gov. Parris N. Glendening announced last Thursday.

Garrett County's jobless rate also dropped, from 6.4 percent in June to 6.1 percent in July. The July rate last year was 6.8 percent.

Maryland's rate now stands almost one full point below the national average of 4.2 percent, according to statistics from the state Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation. The state's jobless rate has hovered between 3 and 3.5 percent all year. It fell below the national average in mid-1998 and has stayed below it since.

The 3.3 percent unemployment rate is a record low for the month of July, marking 12 straight months of record low unemployment rates in Maryland.

"This is a remarkable way to celebrate Labor Day," Glendening said.

The unemployment rate in nearly every individual county fell, with Somerset, Worcester, and Allegany counties experiencing the highest drops, around 1 percent.

But not every Maryland county saw growth. Unemployment in Queen Anne's County rose to 2.9 percent from 2.5 percent in June, and unemployment in Harford County rose to 3.9 percent from 3.3 percent in June.

"The summer months are very cyclical," said Tom Sadowski, director of economic development for Harford County.

Those cycles plus recent privatization at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, the county's largest employer, and the county's transition from a largely agricultural economy to one that is more high-tech might explain the rise in unemployment, he said.

But, with the privatization, "you may see initial unemployment, but then the workers may get rehired by the private contractors," he said.

The state partly attributed the 0.3 percent statewide drop to a rise in the number of seasonal employment positions in several counties in hotel, restaurant, and amusement positions.

"This is a normal pattern from June to July," said Marco Merrick, a spokesman for the state Department of Labor Licensing and Regulation.

"When you have a huge labor force, particularly summer job seekers, a number of industries can flourish. We're seeing employment grow as the labor force grows," he said.

Glendening also touted job growth in several business areas as another of the reasons for the 0.3 percent drop statewide, including services, construction, and retail. Maryland ranks 11th nationally in job growth, he said.

But he said in order for unemployment to fall farther, improvements in worker education and training must occur to give workers the skills needed to fill those jobs.

"The jobs are there," he said, noting that training and education will be a priority for his administration during next year's legislative session.

MOTHER NATURE WAS NOT KIND to the Avilton Community Center, formerly the St. Ann's Catholic Church building, this week, as a bolt of lightning caused a fire that all but destroyed the structure early Monday. Driver Charged After Striking Girl With Truck

A Clear Spring man faces charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI) and negligent driving after his pickup truck struck a 12-year-old juvenile from Hagerstown early Monday morning, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The accident took place in a field along Roth Reynolds Road.

Jeffrey Scott Jenkins, 34, was camping with a group at the location when, at 4:45 a.m., he began backing his truck through the field. As he told deputies later, he forgot that there was a tent behind his 1995 Chevrolet truck, and rolled into it. Three individuals were able to escape the tent safely, but the juvenile was injured when the truck ran over her right leg and left foot.

The girl was transported by her mother to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Another accident at 8:40 p.m. Monday injured a Kitzmiller woman, who was also treated and released after being transported to Garrett Memorial by the Elk Garden (W.Va.) Ambulance service.

Linda Lee Welch, 29, was descending a steep grade in the Wilson Bottom area of Kitzmiller when her four-wheeler began to slide in some mud. She lost control of the 1987 Suzuki 250, and it slid into a ditch and overturned, throwing her clear in the process.

control program in Garrett County, thus curtailing the waste of taxpayer dollars on ineffective policies that do not provide solutions, but which ultimately compromise public health and safety."

Holliday said he perceived the paragraph as inappropriate and "totally uncalled for," as he felt it insulted the commissioners' handling of animal control.

"Writing something like that is just not the way to approach an issue," Holliday said. The commissioners have since penned a letter to the society expressing their disappointment with what they perceive is an affront to their leadership.

Bernadine Friend, executive director of the Humane Society, said she disagreed with the brochure statements and that she had not been given the opportunity to properly review the brochure before its release in June.

"These commissioners have given more than any others before them. There is no way I would blast them or Monty Pagenhardt in any way because they have helped us more than any officials have in the past," Friend said. She said the brochure was never formally brought before the members of the society, and that she had only briefly scanned the item herself. But the writer of the pamphlet, Annette Robinson, said that the brochure was definitely previewed by society members.

"We brought it to the June meeting for the members to read and approve. They all looked at it and said it was fine. We wanted to get it ready for our Christmas in July event, and with the okay of everyone, we printed it and have been distributing it since," Robinson said.

Her view is corroborated by society member Chris Csonka, who helped Robinson print the brochure. He said 8 to 10 members viewed the brochure at the June session and gave the go-ahead for printing.

Csonka added that he didn't understand why the controversy has arisen, as he does not feel that the paragraph in question singles out anyone in particular.

"We weren't pointing the finger at the commissioners. We were simply stating one of our goals, and that is to get our animal control up to speed in Garrett County," Csonka said.

Robinson echoed that sentiment, and noted that she has researched animal control budgets throughout the state of Maryland. In counties with similar populations, Garrett ranks far below in budget allotments for animal control.

Caroline County, with a population of 29,800, spends $150,000 on animal control. The commissioners there have a contract with their local humane society, which operates as the supervising agency. In Dorchester County, population 29,400, $123,000 of county money is budgeted for animal control, added to $21,000 of city funds. The humane society also serves as the contracted supervising agency there.

In Kent County, population 19,000, the county budgets $100,000, added to the humane society's $20,000.

In Garrett County, the fiscal authority spends $68,511 and has recently allotted $2,500 to the Society to help with spay and neuter efforts.

Friend was adamant, however, to stress the local Humane Society's gratitude to the present commissioners for their increased attention to the animal control effort in Garrett County.

GCSO Notes Arrests Over Past Week

Several individuals were arrested this week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, stemming from both the service of outstanding arrest warrants and traffic stops that resulted in driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) arrests.

Delmos Russell Warnick, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, was served with a warrant charging him with disorderly conduct, disturbing the peace, and harassment. He was later released on his own recognizance.

Jeannine Lynn Griffin, 23, Grantsville, was served with a warrant charging her with making a false statement and perjury. She was released on her own recognizance.

Sean Joel Allen Goodwin, 24, Point Marion, Pa., was served with a warrant charging second degree assault. She was released on her own recognizance.

James Anthony Horning, 42, Pittsburgh, was served with a warrant charging him with telephone misuse. He was released on his own recognizance.

A number of DWI and DUI arrests were made by sheriff's deputies last week: Victor Frank Gardea Sr., 44, Friendsville; Jason Everett Van Sickle, 23, Oakland; Molly Agatha Deniker, 40, Accident; Gary Michael Thomas, 48, Mtn. Lake Park; James Torquinio Parbuoni, 24, La Plata; and Timothy M. Sullivan, 35, Fairfax, Va.

Arson Suspected In Cabin Fire Early Sunday

A fire which caused an estimated $5,000 in damages to an unoccupied log cabin near Deep Creek Lake was believed to have been intentionally set, according to investigators from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office.

Firefighters from the Deep Creek, Accident, Bittinger, and Oakland volunteer departments were summoned to the cabin, located at 250 Foy Road off Mosser Road in McHenry, at 2:21 a.m. Deputy Chief Fire Marshal Bruce Shafer said that the blaze originated in a living room chair, and he said the fire may have been set to destroy evidence of a break-in.

The cabin is owned by Curtis Pendleton Sr., and Charles Wisland.

Also responding to the scene were units from Allegheny Power and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Diplomat, operated by Jonathan Lease, 25, Oakland, Sunday on Route 219 at 2:26 p.m. Police said both vehicles were northbound when Lease stopped his Dodge to turn left into the parking lot of Glotfelty Enterprises and it was struck in the rear by the Volkswagen.

Both drivers were taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Failed to Stop/Yield

Rebecca Ann Taylor, 28, Swanton, was charged by police with failure to stop at an intersection and failure to yield right of way following an accident Tuesday afternoon on Lower New Germany Road.

Police said Taylor, operating a 1998 Subaru northbound on Lower New Germany Road, failed to stop and yield the right of way at the intersection with Avilton Road. Taylor's Subaru reportedly struck a 2000 Ford F250, operated by Ronald Clinton Lipscomb, 40, Lonaconing, which was proceeding from Avilton Road.

Lipscomb and a 10-year-old passenger suffered minor injuries.

Three Vehicles Collide

Three vehicles collided at an intersection in Friendsville on Saturday, injuring one driver. Police said Kristi Lu Brantner, 39, Friendsville, driving a 1996 Dodge, was northbound on Route 42 approaching the intersection with Maple Street, when, Terry D. Pearce, 40, Lewistown, Pa., operating a 1996 Chevrolet S-10, pulled into the path of Brantner's car.

The resulting collision reportedly forced Brantner's vehicle to strike a 1994 Dodge Van, driven by Eleanor Nancy Custer, 70, Clearwater, Fla., which was stopped in the southbound lane of Route 42, preparing to turn onto Maple Street.

Brantner was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Ruby Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries sustained in the accident. Friendsville VFD also responded to the scene of the accident.

Pearce was charged by police for failing to yield the right of way.

and a map that included information about the local pharmacy.

The second defendant in the case is to be brought to Garrett County as well, at which time Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney, will put him on trial.

Michael Wayne Deem, 20, Crellin, was sentenced last week by Sherbin for charges of second degree rape and second degree sexual offense. For each charge, Deem received five years in prison, with four years suspended and two years of supervised probation added. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Deem was charged by officers of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in April after they determined he had engaged in sexual relations with a person under the age of consent. Deem must now register as a child sex offender in any community in which he resides in the future.

Two New Habitat Homes To Be Dedicated Sunday

The dedications of two new Garrett County Habitat for Humanity homes will take place on Sunday, Sept. 10, at 403 N Street in Mtn. Lake Park and 105 Crook Crest, Oakland. Two families of five will be taking up residence at these two locations.

At the N Street house, families and friends, guests, and Habitat officials will meet at 1:30 p.m. for the dedication of the home of Charles T. (Buddy) and Connie Herman and three children. Refreshments will follow the dedication services there. People will then move to 105 Crook Crest in Oakland at 2:30 p.m. for similar services for Jeremy and Brenda Groves and their three children.

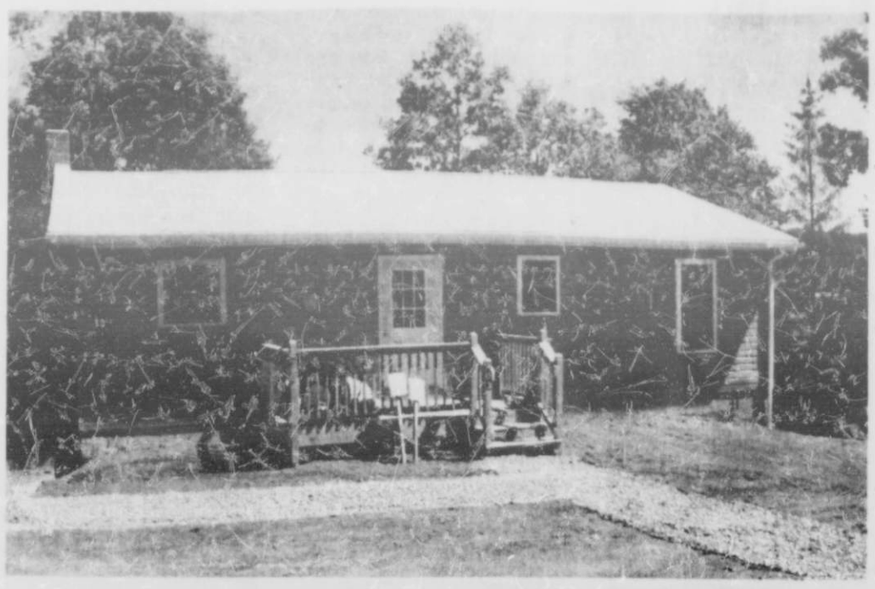
These two homes will be the 38th and 39th homes built by Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, primarily by volunteer church groups from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, and many local individual groups and churches. These two families, their friends, and their relatives also took part in the building process.

September is National and International Habitat for Humanity month, and September 11-18 is Habitat's "Building on Faith" week. All over the world that week Habitat homes will be completed.

In New York state, former U.S. President Jimmy Carter and wife Roslyn will help complete a home for Habitat for Humanity International's 100,000th new affordable, decent, and safe home for a family in need of new housing.

Each home in Garrett County has been supplied with a new Whirlpool range, refrigerator, and two new Larson storm doors. Hunter-Douglas mini-blinds for the bedrooms and bathrooms have also been donated. The families and Garrett County Habitat members are thankful for these items and, again, all other forms of assistance.

Ann Hill, president of the board of directors, and Wayne R. Johnson, executive director of Habitat, expressed their thanks to everyone who has helped in any way through donations of time, money, or materials for the completion of the two new homes.



ONE OF TWO NEW HABITAT HOMES to be dedicated this Sunday is pictured here. This structure, built by the hands of many Habitat for Humanity volunteers, will be the new home of Charles and Connie Herman and children. It is located at 403 N Street in Mtn. Lake Park. The dedication ceremony will begin at 1:30 p.m. and the public is invited. The second home will be owned by Jeremy and Brenda Groves and children, and is located at 105 Crook Crest in Oakland. The ceremony for the Oakland house will begin at 2:30 p.m. See story.

Presentation By Dr. Melvin Brown Set In Kitzmiller

Former Garrett County educator and renowned author and botanist Dr. Melvin Brown will speak at Kitzmiller School on Saturday, Sept. 23, beginning at 1 p.m. His presentation, which will include slides and a tour of the botanical gardens, will be co-sponsored by the town of Kitzmiller and Maryland Mountain Trust as part of the region-wide Potomac Watershed Weekend.

Co-author of Woody Plants of Maryland and Herbaceous Plants of Maryland: 1634-1984, Dr. Brown was a major force in the creation of the botanical gardens and arboretum in the town while he was teaching at Kitzmiller School. He began the project in 1948 and involved students in all grades as well a members of the community. Later in his teaching career, Dr. Brown was a professor at Frostburg State University.

The gardens and arboretum, which featured a windmill, a mill race, and fossil beds, had fallen into disrepair. The town of Kitzmiller began a revitalization campaign for the gardens several years ago. "We've been working on it off and on for a longer period of time, but it was about four years ago we started a concerted effort to restore that area," said Kitzmiller mayor Nancy Brady.

Dr. Brown continues to revisit the gardens which are adjacent to the school and community park. "A year ago we held a ceremony to re-dedicate the park to Dr. Brown. He insisted that the dedication include all the workers that helped with the project," Brady noted.

A number of officials with the Department of Natural Resources have been invited to attend Dr. Brown's presentation and the following tour of the gardens.

Children's activities, which will focus on wildlife and natural resources, are currently being planned as part of Kitzmiller's Potomac Watershed Weekend. For further information persons may contact Mayor Brady at 301-453-3449 or Maryland Mountain Trust at 301-746-8989.

CIBIT Program Unveiled At Garrett CC

The Career Institute for Business and Information Technologies (CIBIT) was introduced recently at Garrett Community College. "The CIBIT will help us train a workforce for an ever-changing world of technology, better serving the regional business community," director Dr. Terry Norris stated.

The institute was formed in conjunction with the reorganization of GCC's business program, which becomes effective this fall semester. According to Norris, CIBIT will have six components: the academic offerings, computer certification programs, high school computer certification academy, center for telecommuting professions, a speakers bureau, and a practicum/internship program.

The academic program of the CIBIT will offer certificates and associate in applied science degrees in five areas: computer applications for business, network administration, repair/network technician, business management, and Internet specialist.

The Computer Certification Academy, developed in partnership with the Garrett County Board of Education and I/Tech Services of Frederick, will offer high school students training in A+ computer repair and Network+ certification programs. Information technology courses leading to a full range of specialized and individualized certifications, including Microsoft systems certified engineer, A+ computer repair technician, Network+, Microsoft office user specialist (MOUS), Webmaster, and CISCO, will also be available.

The Center for Telecommuting Professions has been designed to unite telecommuting users, vendors, consultants, and other important parties through mutually beneficial relationships, said Norris. Participants will be trained to work from their homes and fill the need for trained employees in areas of critical shortage.

Another benefit to area businesses will be the practicum/internship program through which student interns will be available to fill a need working on specialized projects.

The CIBIT Speakers Bureau will be available to businesses and organizations for presentation on various business topics, ranging from development of a marketing plan to e-commerce on-line security issues.

Persons interested in further information about CIBIT may contact Norris at 301-387-3043 or via e-mail atcnooris@gcc.cc.md.us.

I-68 Accident Injures Two

A motorcycle accident on I-68 last Thursday afternoon sent two people to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland for treatment of injuries. Maryland State Police from the McHenry barrack investigated the 3 p.m. mishap.

According to the report filed, John Beckman of Rawlings was operating a motorcycle with a passenger, Brenda Beckman, westbound on the Interstate near Amish Road when he lost control of the vehicle, which slid into the median and the guardrail.

Northern Rescue Squad and Grantsville VFD responded to the scene and the Beckman couple were transported to the hospital for treatment.

Oakland Man Handed Three Years In Jail

An Oakland man who pleaded guilty to a burglary charge in a Garrett County District Court hearing last week received a three-year jail sentence from Judge Ralph M. Burnett.

Scott Edward Patton, 25, was convicted of fourth degree burglary after he pleaded guilty to carrying out a July break-in at the Loch Lynn Service Center. The Garrett Bureau of Investigation arrested Patton after concluding that he had thrown a brick through the front window of the business, and entered the store section to take quantities of coins, candy, cigarettes, sodas, and milk.

Additional charges of second degree burglary, destruction of property, and two counts of misdemeanor theft were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

In other district court news, a Smithsburg man was handed a five-year, three-month sentence, all but two years and three months of which were suspended after he pleaded guilty to second degree assault, two counts of violating an ex parte order, and trespassing.

Joseph Allen Price, 23, was also placed on three years of supervised probation by visiting judge Paul Stakem. The charges stemmed from a series of five arrests by sheriff's deputies over a three-week span, all in connection with domestic-related incidents. Additional charges of second degree assault, misdemeanor theft, trespassing, and failure to obey a lawful order were not prosecuted.

Price was first arrested on March 17 for trespassing at a Crellin Mine Road residence, then was jailed again the following day for striking someone and taking

BIRD BANDING DEMONSTRATIONS SET — Herrington Manor State Park will present several bird banding demonstrations beginning tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 8, at 10 a.m. The art and science of capturing, marking, and releasing wild birds for research, bird banding enables participants to get up close and personal with nature, as the Henslow's sparrow shown above demonstrates with his best "bird in the hand" pose after a band had been applied to his left leg. DNR naturalist Connie Skipper will lead the programs, set for this Friday, as well as the upcoming Wednesdays and Fridays of Sept. 13, 15, 20, and 22 (unless a rain cancellation is necessary). "Bird banding is a great way to boost your bird identification skills," Skipper commented, "especially of those confusing fall warblers that will be migrating through the area, as well as indigo buntings, gray catbirds, and scarlet tanagers." Persons may learn about bird banding any time between 8 a.m. and noon on demonstration days, with Skipper's formal presentation taking place at 10 a.m. Banding demonstrations will continue through mid-October, with additional dates to be published later. Groups are welcome, but should call the park office in advance at 301-334-9180. Walk-in participants may request written directions to the bird banding site at the Herrington Manor Concession building.

Newly Planted Field Damaged By Vandals

A newly seeded farm field in the Pleasant Valley area was damaged last week by vandal(s) who drove a vehicle through it repeatedly, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

During the night of Aug. 30 a four-wheeled vehicle of an unknown type drove through the field, located along Jasper Riley Road near Garrett Camp Road, several times in doughnut patterns. The damage is estimated at $1,500.

Persons with information about this incident are asked to call the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911. A reward is reportedly being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the perpetrator(s).

Oakland Police Report DWI

Oakland Police charged an Oakland man with driving while intoxicated and exceeding the speed limit September 3 at 2:28 a.m. Pfc. S. Fratz said Joel Justin Uphold, 21, was stopped for driving 66 mph in a 40 mph zone on Third Street at the Garrett County Roads Garage. Fratz said he detected an odor of an alcoholic beverage and administered a field sobriety test, which Uphold did not perform satisfactorily. Uphold was arrested but later released after signing citations.

Estate Tax Should Die...

There is to be an effort in Congress this week, perhaps today, to try to override President Clinton's veto of legislation that would do away with the estate tax, a tax which costs some small businesses as much as 55% of the value of that business when the owner dies and leaves the property to an heir. The end result, particularly when the small business is a family-owned farm, is often the bankruptcy/loss of that business, as heirs simply cannot afford to pay the tax. Some businesses are sold or dissolved before the owner dies, just to avoid the tax, which results in the loss of jobs.

There is no better example of one's money being taxed unfairly and repeatedly than with the estate tax. The owner of a small business pays tax on his money when it is earned, and he pays more tax as it is spent, whether it is in the form of salaries to employees or for the purchase of equipment. The estate tax is paid when great-grandfather dies, again when grandfather dies, and again when father dies. It must be paid yet again when the next heir dies, and on and on and on. It's outrageous to the point that it seems it should be criminal, and yet it remains, even now that we have a huge federal budget surplus.

The estate tax was initiated in the early part of the 20th century to help fund U.S. involvement in World War I. As Time magazine writer Daniel Kadlec puts it, "News flash: The war is over. We won. Peace is at hand, and we have a budget surplus."

President Clinton vetoed the legislation because he said that repealing the estate tax benefits the wealthy. We can hear thousands of farmers laughing right now at that description of them.

While it is true that many of our wealthier citizens would benefit most by the repeal of this tax, there is a trickle-down effect that would benefit many others. Because of the tax, most business owners pay tens of thousands of dollars to lawyers and accountants to legally "fix things" to avoid the brunt of the estate tax. A survey showed that over the last five years in New York, family-owned businesses spent an average of $125,000 on estate preparation, which equates to an average of 14 new jobs that could have been created over those five years if the business had not had to spend that money on estate planning.

Clinton and other critics note that the repeal of the tax will cost the U.S. Treasury $105 billion over the next 10 years. But that sum pales in comparison to the projection that there will be a $2.2 trillion surplus over the next 10 years.

The tax should be eliminated, and we hope enough of our Congressional representatives will agree.

To the Editor:

A few days ago I received a call from Linda Spassil, director of the Dove Center, informing me that I was the winner of the beautiful quilt raffled off at the Truck Show. Like most folks, I purchased my tickets to support this worthwhile organization, never expecting to actually win. It was a thrilling surprise.

The quilt is perfect in every way. I happen to be one of those unfortunate people totally lacking in sewing skills. If not for the staple gun, the glue stick, and the safety pin, I would be in real trouble.

Please be assured that I appreciate each and every stitch and will treasure and care for "The Quilt" always. Thank you for your talented fingers, your artistic sense of beauty, and for creating a little piece of history.

To the Editor:

Sadly, the unemployment rate in Garrett County will be four people higher this week. This is due to the fact that some people feel they have the right to tell others how to live their lives. These are the same people who fight county-wide zoning since it infringes on their rights to live their lives as they please and do what they want on their land. This limited view continues to have significant financial impact on the county and its residents.

Without the ability to serve just beer and wine with dinner, we cannot financially stay open on Sundays. The hours of work lost by our workers is the equivalent of losing four jobs. Many, including our state representatives, belittle restaurant jobs and refuse to discuss this issue. But the jobs provided by this and many restaurants are the difference for many Garrett County youths desiring to continue on to college. College could not be a reality for our high school graduates without a summer job, and the best jobs they can get are at the lake.

This also includes the many students at GCC. They have to have these jobs, and they could do even better if they could earn money on Sunday. This, in a county with the second highest unemployment in the state.

Do our politicians, who pledge to find and retain jobs, do anything? No, they cower in fear of this issue because of the strong feelings. Stop the cowering by taking a stand. Write to our county commissioners at the Courthouse, Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550 or our Delegate George Edwards at P.O. Box 658, 23 N. Pennsylvania Avenue, Grantsville, MD 21536.

We will still be open on Monday through Saturday, the days when no one can dictate how you can enjoy your meals. Please, help us respect the rights of all residents and visitors — there are many religions who celebrate or worship on different days, yet we do not have laws that affect everyone because of the beliefs of others in that case. Sunday should be no different.

To the Editor:

Hospice of Garrett County salutes "Moyers On Dying," and I encourage you to watch television journalists Bill and Judith Moyers, who have turned their attention to a once-taboo subject that is becoming increasingly relevant for "Baby Boomers" and their aging parents: the final phase of life.

"On Our Own Terms: Moyers on Dying," scheduled for broadcast September 10-13 on PBS stations nationwide, highlights the well-documented failings in care given to Americans at the end of their lives, as well as the growing national movement to make such care better. Most of all, the Moyers' series is designed to spark thoughtful, serious, personal conversations about the kinds of experiences Americans would want for themselves or their loved ones as the inevitable end of life draws near.

One of the real bright spots amidst the sadness captured by the Moyers' documentary cameras is hospice care - a specialized service for patients confronting terminal illness and their families. As viewers will learn, hospice care combines an interdisciplinary team oriented approach of expert medical care and pain management with compassionate support for the emotional, psychological, and spiritual dimensions of confronting one's mortality - even grief counseling for family members is provided at the patient's death.

The lion's share of hospice care is provided in patients' own homes, with their loved ones participating in their care, although hospice programs often offer alternative settings for care, such as nursing homes.

Unfortunately, too many of those patients reached hospice's doors only in their final days or even hours of life, leaving their families to wishing they had known about hospice care sooner. Many patients die without ever being offered the tangible end-of-life support that hospice provides, instead struggling with untreated pain and with the side effects of by-now-futile curative medical treatments. All this in addition to watching their families struggle to cope with the escalating demands of their care.

The common thread in these heart-breaking scenarios is that a candid discussion never took place among patients, families, and their medical providers of the painful reality they confronted. Often such conversations are avoided out of an understandable, but unnecessary, desire to spare each other's feelings. We know from public opinion research conducted last year by the National Hospice Foundation of Alexandria, Va., that Americans are more prone to talk to their teenaged children about drug abuse or premarital sex than to talk to their aging parents about end-of-life care options and preferences.

Yet times are changing, and the Moyers' series is an important sign of the times. The Moyerses hope that attention to their series will launch kitchen table conversations from coast to coast.

I urge you to watch the Moyers' series and to talk with your friends and neighbors about it. Let your loved ones know now - when you are still able to effectively communicate - what your preferences for treatment would be if you were confronting a terminal illness. Living wills and other advance directives can be useful tools for communicating your preferences, but only if they are a first step for generating personal conversations on this most intimate of subjects.

And if you or someone you love is struggling to cope with a life threatening illness, call Hospice of Garrett County, 301-334-5151, Grantsville area 800-521-5252, or TTY 800-735-2258. We are well equipped to provide care with comfort and compassion when it's needed most.

Sincerely,
Brenda J. Butscher
Executive Director
Hospice of Garrett County, Inc.

To the Editor:

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank The Republican for its coverage of recent developments that have resulted from the airing of concerns over the management of the Garrett County Animal Shelter. One item in your coverage needs to be clarified, however.

Mr. Sincell was incorrect in stating that the Humane Society uses a $2,500 grant from the county commissioners to feed animals in foster homes. These county funds are earmarked specifically to provide spaying and neutering assistance to Garrett countians. The Society and commissioners recognize the importance of spaying and neutering in fighting animal overpopulation. We have received this grant since 1998.

These funds are given to the Humane Society to provide an incentive to pet owners who may otherwise balk at the cost of having their animals "fixed." It is apportioned out in the form of $25 certificates good toward a $25 discount for the procedures at veterinary clinics. In effect, the Humane Society is administering the county's only spay/neuter program. We thank the commissioners for realizing the importance of such a program.

Having clarified that issue, I'd like to turn to the recent concern over the Humane Society brochure. First I'd like to thank the commissioners for bringing the brochure to the public's attention. They are or will be available to the public at locations throughout the county. Thus far we've used them at our July 15th Christmas in July fund-raising event and distributed them at the Garrett County Fair. The brochures are actually quite positive pieces of informative literature, their main purpose being to put into print exactly what it is the Humane Society endeavors to accomplish in Garrett County.

This includes educating the public about the tragedy of pet overpopulation and the importance of spaying and neutering, pointing out the link between animal cruelty and child and/or spouse abuse, stressing the importance of animal vaccinations, etc. The Garrett County Humane Society is an advocacy group. We are not, nor do we have anything directly to do with, running the county animal shelter. As an advocacy group, yes, we are going to step back and take a look at what is going on.

Yes, we question the insight of managers who are taking so long to see the obvious benefits to increasing license fees in the county. Compared to other counties in the state with similar demographics, Garrett County is seriously under-funded and understaffed. Differential licensing fees can provide an excellent source of income for the shelter and a great incentive for getting animals spayed or neutered. Why does the animal shelter call itself a mandatory spay/neuter shelter when only 70% of people adopting animals comply?

Statistics show that the number of animals that pass through shelters can drop by as much as 30-50% over time in communities that have stringent spay/neuter regulations coupled with sound animal ordinances and differential licensing incentives. Does it not seem like throwing good money after bad to continue to approach these and other policy problems at the shelter in the same old fashion when it will pay us in the long run to do things right?

Sometimes the facts, no matter how you turn them, no matter how you try to adjust the lighting, they just plain aren't pretty. It's kind of like that Christmas tree with the big ol' bare spot in it — it doesn't matter how you turn it, or where you hang the tinsel — it's still an ugly tree. But the good news is you'll have a chance to do better next year. Hopefully, we can continue to strive toward a better way of doing things where animal control and sheltering in Garrett County are concerned as well. We'll have to know what the issues are, however, before we can attempt to fix them.

THE HOUSE — AGAIN

Friends used to ask me if I had finished my house yet. My standard reply was, "I'll be finished before the house is." I have now lived in this place, which I call "Love-in-the-Ruins" named after the novel by Walker Percy, for 16 years. The house still isn't finished, but, to this date, neither am I.

I never quit working on the house, but the work plan consists of long periods of incremental improvement interspersed with brief periods of quantum improvements which, though they are shorter, seem longer. I am currently in the midst of one of those star bursts of activity.

Not many years ago this house would have been on the large size, 2,300 square feet with five bedrooms, two bathrooms, three public rooms as well as kitchen, laundry, and mudroom. In this day of mansions nouveaux with thousands of square feet and more room in master suites than entire houses used to have, this place is modest by comparison.

The house seems a big house to me still, and is definitely plenty to take care of. One of the early lessons of home ownership is that it is one thing to get a house; it is another thing to keep it. For rambling around in alone, it is enormous.

The super nova of my improvements came in 1992-1993. I had added a major addition with a large family room downstairs, two bedrooms upstairs, and a functional minor addition downstairs. The minor addition was built where the old kitchen-pantry had been.

It was the south wing that remained in greatest need of improvement. The floors need refinishing. There had been two small bedrooms which had been thrown into one, but had never been finished. Both doors remained. A gap existed in the plaster where a wall had once stood.

For six years I have been in slow, but forward, motion in renovating that wing. The downstairs room got a built-in bookcase, a coat of paint, and curtains at the beginning of the process. A year and a half ago, the carpenter came to work on the upstairs, and closed in the door, building back to back bookcases. (My mother said long ago that I should have a library with a bedroom, bathroom, and kitchen attached to it. I am working toward something very like that.)

Last fall and this spring the electrician rewired the entire south wing, thus completing the rewiring of the entire house. Then the plumber came, and devised an ingenious method of piping central heat to the south wing. It had to be ingenious because there is neither cellar nor crawl space under that wing. It sits on stones, sitting in the ground.

The carpenter has been here again. The floor man is coming. I am picking out electrical fixtures. In the meantime, my brother and I are painting, stripping, and refinishing as fast and furiously as such things can be reasonably done.

There is a theory, perhaps even a law of relativity, about working on one's home. The more one sweats in improvements, the more one's spirit enters the house. There is a point at which even in the inanimate world, spirit and matter meet, and where a transfer of some kind takes place. It is a reality which one senses in a house which has been impressed with the being of those who have not merely lived in them, but who in some sense have built their home.

Perhaps it was this that Plato meant when he wrote that every man should father a son, write a book, and build a house. Each is not merely creation, rather also procreation.

Thus we build both shelter and peril into our lives. We create that which protects us from the blasting storms of life, and yet seem so much appendages of one's being that one wonders if life is possible without them.

Warning System

Emergency Services office and the National Weather System, and the call-down system would be put into action. "The system can be accessed remotely with a 1-800 number," stated El-Amin, who estimated that the system would cost approximately $15,000. "It will be able to make 5,000 calls to structures that have been identified as 'at risk' in a span of 13 minutes."

While stressing that the Savage River Dam is in no way considered to be at risk, the damage caused by a dam collapse would be of enormous magnitude and would cause great personal risk to downstream residents if a warning system were not in place to issue a prompt alert, said El-Amin. The first homes on the river would be inundated within minutes, while large areas in the towns of Bloomington, Luke, Westernport, and Piedmont, W.Va., could be underwater in approximately 30 minutes. The flood waters could reach communities 80 miles downstream in a few hours, and would take an estimated seven hours to reach the most distant towns affected.

Several Maryland counties already have similar warning systems in place. "One of the big benefits of such a plan is its multi-function capability," El-Amin stated. "It could be used to set up other warning systems that would alert targeted sections of Garrett and Allegany counties and the surrounding region, for disaster events including train derailments, large toxic chemical spills with an associated plume of poisonous material, and major prison escapes."

at St. Paul's Church in Key West for the past 30 years. Lowe is also a musical fixture on the local scene. Lowe will present his arrangements of a variety of music, from classical baroque to Broadway tunes.

Lowe has also composed many choir anthems and liturgical settings. The Miami Herald has described his organ playing as "spiritually uplifting," adding that his presence contrasts with the "carnival atmosphere of the ever-popular tourist area near the church."

Joseph Lowe will be performing selections from Rogers and Hammerstein and a Strauss medley at the Great Hall at Penn Alps on Saturday, Sept. 16. The GLAF performance on Sunday will feature a medley of music from Cole Porter and selections from Broadway shows from the 1920s to present day.

Season sponsors for Garrett Lakes Arts Festival are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Deep Creek Mountain Resort, Sincell Publishing Company Inc., and the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. GLAF programs are funded in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state and the National Endowment for the Arts. All performances are handicapped accessible. Persons are asked to call the GLAF office for special arrangements.

Produce Sticker Contest Slated Among Students

The Great Produce Sticker Challenge, also known as the 5-A-Day Week Competition, will get under way next week between students of Kitzmiller and Friendsville elementary schools. Sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department, the activity is geared toward encouraging students to eat fresh produce and save the stickers to bring to school.

"Students will place the stickers on a sheet of paper to keep track of how many pieces of fresh produce they have eaten," explained outreach worker Brenda Frazee. The contest will run from September 10 to 16. The winning school will receive library books. In addition to the challenge between the two schools, there will be a contest between classes within each school, Frazee said.

County Agencies To Hold Diabetes Cooking School

The Garrett County office of the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, Garrett County Head Start, and the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging will partner to offer a series of cooking classes for people with diabetes and their family members or caregivers.

Dining with Diabetes will meet every Tuesday from 6 to 8 p.m. for four weeks, beginning October 3, at the Mary Browning Senior Center, 104 E. Center St., Oakland.

The first session will deal with the cause and effects of diabetes. Discussed at the next three will be how to cook with artificial sweeteners, low-fat products, and herbs and spices, by Beverly R. Carvell, nutrition educator, and Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension educator. Class participants will receive recipe booklets, watch cooking demonstrations, and taste foods made with less fat, sugar, and salt.

This grant-funded program is free to people with diabetes and family members or caretakers. No products will be sold at the classes. Spaces are limited, so interested persons should call 301-334-6960 to enroll as soon as possible.

The Dove Center Adds AmeriCorps Member to Staff

The Dove Center, Garrett County's resource for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault, has expanded its staff through the addition of AmeriCorps member Jill Holler of Oakland.

Holler, a mother of four, said she responded immediately when she learned that the Dove Center was seeking an AmeriCorps member to serve on the staff at the shelter and the administrative offices for the year. "I really wasn't looking for a job, but I thought it was such a great opportunity to do something that I've wanted to do for a long time," she said.

Through newspaper articles, Holler said she followed the expansion of services and programs offered by the Dove Center. "The work the center does is very important. It is helping people directly, and you can see this. I love being part of this work," she explained.

Raised in Keyser, W.Va., Holler graduated from high school there, and later attended Garrett Community College, where she pursued her studies while raising her children, who are now 15, 9, and 5 years old, and 18 months old. Though she admits it is very difficult to leave her young family, she does not regret accepting this position. "My husband Larry is really happy that this came along for me. He is very supportive," Holler noted.

"This past weekend was difficult. We had 13 people in the shelter. While it is terrible to see the result of abuse, it is so good that this program is here," Holler stated.

Breast Cancer Awareness Month Packets Available

In connection with the upcoming observance of Breast Cancer Awareness Month in October, the American Cancer Society is distributing, upon request, free Breast Cancer Awareness Month packets to interested businesses, community groups, schools, and churches to educate employees and members of the importance of early detection.

This year there will be approximately 182,000 women newly diagnosed with breast cancer, and according to the Maryland Cancer Registry there were 102 cases of breast cancer in Garrett County from 1992 to 1996. The American Cancer Society recommends that all women age 40 and older have an annual mammogram, an annual clinical breast examination by a health professional, and perform a monthly breast self-examination. Women ages 20-39 should have a clinical breast exam performed by a health care professional every three years and should perform a monthly breast self-examination.

"Numerous studies have shown that early detection increases survival and treatment options," a Cancer Society spokesperson said. "Mammography is especially valuable as an early diagnostic tool because it can identify breast abnormalities that may be cancer at an early stage before physical symptoms develop. Large declines in breast cancer mortality have been attributed, in part, to the use of regular screening mammography."

Organizations interested in receiving the free Breast Cancer Awareness Month packet can contact the American Cancer Society at 1-800-287-2317.

Medicare Patient Rights

The Delmarva Foundation, which provides information on Medicare benefits, has offered the following explanation of how Medicare protects the patient's right to access and receive needed health care services.

- The patient has the right to get all of the hospital care needed for the proper diagnosis and treatment of an illness or injury, as well as any follow-up care after leaving the hospital.
- The patient has the right to appeal any decision about Medicare services, whether in the original Medicare plan or a Medicare managed care plan. If Medicare does not pay for an item or service received, or if a doctor or hospital does not give a service that the patient believes should be covered, the patient can appeal.
- The patient has the right to get emergency care when and where it is needed, without prior approval. If the patient thinks his/her health is in serious danger because of having severe pain, a bad injury, or sudden illness, that person can get emergency care anywhere in the United States.
- The patient has the right to know all treatment options from the health care provider in language that is clear to the patient. One should ask questions, and keep asking until hearing satisfactory answers. A Medicare managed care plan cannot have rules that stop a doctor from discussing all treatment options. Further, the patient has the right to choose a women's health care specialist, or to see other specialists for a complex or serious condition, plus other additional rights.
- The patient has a right to information about what is covered by Medicare and how much he/she may have to pay.
- The patient has a right to preventive health care and is encouraged to ask the doctor about these critical services rather than wait for the health care provider to provide the information. Medicare Part B pays for flu shots and the pneumonia vaccine. It also pays for the lion's share of the cost of mammograms, Pap tests, and pelvic examinations for women; prostate cancer screening for men; colorectal cancer screening; diabetes monitoring; and bone mass measurement, for those at risk.

Vaccine Problems Force State To Make Back-Up Plans For Flu Season

WASHINGTON - Maryland health officials will confer Wednesday on contingency plans for this year's flu season, after indications that the influenza vaccine may not be available for mass vaccinations until January.

Officials with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention acknowledged Tuesday that "there is going to be a delay" in delivering the vaccine to local health departments and physicians' offices, but they could not say how long the delay might be, or if there might be a shortage.

"Everything seems to be fluid right now," said Charlis Thompson of the CDC. Thompson said it would be three to four weeks before CDC officials have a better grasp on the status of the vaccine supply.

But Maryland officials "are definitely involved in preparing for the delay," said Jean Taylor of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

David Blythe, an epidemiologist for the department, said there will be some vaccine available "fairly soon," but that large-scale vaccination clinics will be delayed because there will likely not be enough vaccine available until later in the flu season.

The first vaccinations in Maryland will be limited to people with the greatest risk for developing complications from the flu, according to J.B. Hanson of the state health department. Those groups include the elderly, nursing home residents, and individuals with chronic health conditions.

"Each year the vaccine is a little different," said Hanson. A new supply of the vaccine must be created each year to account for new strains.

State officials were first alerted to a possible delay in June, when the CDC notified health care agencies of problems with production of this year's vaccine. According to a June 22 press release from the CDC, production of the vaccine this year was hampered by several issues, including difficulty growing one of the strains of influenza that is needed to manufacture the vaccine.

Much of the state's planning will have to focus on the private sector, such as physicians' offices, where about 80 percent of the vaccinations in Maryland are administered. Taylor said the other 20 percent of vaccinations are typically given in public health settings.

About 20,000 people die and more than 110,000 are hospitalized each year from influenza, also called "the flu." According to a CDC press release, even though the influenza vaccine can be taken anytime during the flu season, October through mid-November is the best time to get vaccinated.

Maryland health officials said flu season usually runs from November through April, with a peak time from mid-January through February. Most individuals develop antibodies to the virus within two weeks after receiving the vaccine.

An FDA spokesman, Lawrence Bachorik, would only say Tuesday that manufacturers "have told FDA to expect delays in shipments of the flu vaccine." Bachorik also said, however, that the availability of vaccine — or lack thereof — is not the only factor that determines whether it will be a bad flu season.

"It's not possible to predict when the flu season will begin or how severe it will be," Bachorik said.

DNR Schedules Campground Closing Dates

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has announced the closing dates for state facility campgrounds in western Maryland, including Garrett County. "One impact of the closures is that Swallow Falls State Park will be closed to campers in western Maryland during deer firearms season," stated Western Regional State Forest and Park Service manager Chris Anderson.

In regard to drive-in self-contained camping loops, Anderson commented that "unfortunately, income from keeping parks open during the off-season doesn't keep up with the operating costs. We feel there is ample camping available in the Western Region through existing areas within our state forests and at Rocky Gap State Park to accommodate anticipated campers this winter. Campers are still welcome to use primitive areas during the off-season," he added.

The state campgrounds in Garrett County will be closed according to the following schedules:

- New Germany and Swallow Falls state parks — Oct. 15 to May 1;
- Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area — Oct. 30 to May 1; and
- Big Run State Park, and Potomac-Garrett and Savage River state forests — each open year-round for primitive camping only.

Camping is first come, first served at all local state facilities between Oct. 1 and May 1. Visitors interested in making reservations for camping dates before Oct. 1 may call the DNR campground reservation line at 1-888-432-CAMP (2267) weekdays from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

WVU Parents Club To Meet; Cave To Attend

The Garrett County Mountaineer Parents Club will welcome Sabrina Cave, West Virginia University Mountaineer Parents Club director, to its next meeting, which is slated for Thursday, Sept. 14, at 6:15 p.m. at the Penn Alps Restaurant meeting room in Grantsville.

Cave will help organize the Garrett County club, as well as speak about the value of the Mountaineer Parents Club and issues related to WVU students.

Families of WVU students in the Garrett County area are invited to attend and get acquainted with other WVU families. Guests may enjoy dinner at the restaurant before or after the meeting.

Cave said that the goal of the Mountaineer Parents Club is to establish a network of parents in areas where WVU students reside. It provides student support activities and university guest speakers to connect parents with the WVU experience. Members also network to simplify transportation and housing issues, and to discuss problems common to all parents of college-age students.

WVU president David Hardesty and his wife Susan, under the umbrella of the WVU Alumni Association, created the Mountaineer Parents Club in July of 1995. Since its inception, the Mountaineer Parents Club has grown to more than 8,000 families, with 66 local clubs and 14 state chairs coast-to-coast that keep families connected to WVU.

Other initiatives include a toll-free Parent Helpline at 800-WVU-0096, a newsletter for parents, and a Leisure Reading Library in a special section of WVU's Wise Library.

To join the Mountaineer Parents Club, persons may call 304-293-2506 or register on-line at http://www.wvu.edu/~parents/. For more information about the Garrett County Mountaineer Parents Club or the upcoming meeting, persons may call Don or Suzie Sincell at 301-334-3650, or Cave at 304-293-2506.

Interstate 79 Speedway

The Steel Block Late Models were in the spotlight last Friday night at Interstate 79 Speedway as the first part of the Labor Day Weekend double header. Twenty-seven cars qualified with Gary Dalton setting fast time of 15.308. Heat races were won by Paul Wilmoth, Tim Harsh, and Steve Wilmoth. The fast dash found Chris Smith taking the checkered followed by Mark McGill, Dalton, and Nolan Dalton.

The feature event was a tough one to get started with four cautions in the first six laps. P. Wilmoth took a wild ride through the air off turn three but was uninjured. Several of the Late Model regulars were in the show, but it was a Semi Late driver who took home the $1,000 first place prize. Mark McGill of West Union, W.Va., led the first 19 laps when Gary Dalton made a pass around McGill for the lead. The two drivers put on a real show for the fans running side-by-side for several laps until McGill regained the lead. He then took the #21 car to the front for the remainder of the 40-lap feature. In Victory Lane, McGill said he was thrilled to run with Dalton in such an exciting race. Behind McGill and Dalton were Doug Horton, Sam Vernatter, and Steve Wilmoth. Scott Chenoweth picked up $200 for being the Hard Charger after advancing from the 21st spot to ninth.

Mike Wilson claimed the Modified feature ahead of Jerry Haseleu, Vic Vandergrift, Dave Defibaugh, and Shaun Davis. Heat wins went to Wilson and Brent Trimble.

John Smith won the Pure Stock main event as he bested Jim Byers, Chad Rexroad, Mark Bell, and Jeff Kesling. Winning the heat races were Smith and Kesling.

I-79 was to play host to the Renegade STARS Racing Series last Saturday night, but a heavy rain began to fall before the race started, and officials decided to postpone the 75-lap event until Friday night, Sept. 15. Gates will open at 5 p.m. with time trials set to begin at 7:30 p.m.

There were 40 Late Model drivers signed into the pit area when the race was postponed. The UMP Modifieds and Pure Stocks will also return at that time. For more information, fans may call the track office at 304-592-3200 or the track on race day at 304-592-0916.

QUICK GUIDE BEING UPDATED — The Civic Club of Oakland is currently revising and updating its "Quick Guide to Garrett County Resources" directory. This pocket-size booklet, listing hundreds of local organizations and government entities, will be available to the public in January 2001. The members of the Civic Club expressed thanks to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the Deep Creek Lions Club, and St. Peter's Knights of Columbus for their generous support of this project. "Without their contributions, we would be unable to offer the directory to the public free of charge," a club spokesperson said. Persons who would like specific organizations to be included in the directory, or who would like to help sponsor the booklet, may call Roberta Andersen at 301-334-4459. The deadline is Nov. 30.

Mountain Lake Park Observer

By Dan Whittelsey

The recent Broadford Park affair which authorized $50,000 payment to Oakland and was rescinded a short time thereafter highlights an omission by the Town Charter of any procedures for handling unusual and expensive projects outside the budget.

You may be aware of the fact that all the monies dispersed by the mayor and the town are properly authorized by the approved budget. This is as it should be, and governs in most cases.

However, a resolution had been introduced calling for an expenditure of $50,000 in one meeting with minimal debate and no opportunity for the public to digest and express opinions. The charter does not address this issue. It should be corrected.

I am requesting that the town council consider and adopt an addition to the charter which will provide adequate time for the suggested expenditure be freely considered by the public and assure that the council members are all informed and have all the facts. During this time the mayor could appoint a fact-finding group.

As a suggestion there should a minimum of "readings" at the general meetings of the town council. At the first meeting there should be one reading and general discussion. There should be no vote. At the next reading (at a general meeting in no less than 30 days) a resolution should be promulgated, debated, and approved by a 2/3 majority. Or as an alternative, there is always the opportunity of calling for a referendum.

The above is my suggestion. There may be better ways to meet my objective, which is to allow adequate time for the council and the public to consider the resolution.

Secondly, it is most important that the community is made aware of such large commitments of the taxpayers funds by holding open hearings which would give all citizens an opportunity to agree or disagree.

Library Friends To Host Talk By Author Barkley

Author Brad Barkley, whose recently published first novel, Money, Love, has received national acclaim, will speak at the annual meeting of the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library on Thursday, Sept. 21, at 7 p.m. The talk will take place at Our Town Theatre in Oakland.

A native of North Carolina, Professor Barkley now resides in Frostburg and teaches English and creative writing at Frostburg State University. In addition to Money, Love, he previously published Circle View, a collection of stories.

At the Friends' meeting, Barkley will read selections from his novel and answer questions about his work, a spokesperson said. After his talk, he will be available to autograph copies of his book.

In its starred review of Money, Love, Kirkus Review calls Barkley's book a "terrifically entertaining first novel" and a "thoroughly captivating debut. First novels don't get much better than this."

Set in North Carolina in the 1970s, Money, Love is the coming-of-age story of a 16-year-old who longs for a normal family, an impossibility given the persona of his father and the swirl of characters in and around his culture, the spokesperson said.

"Barkley's entertaining story provides humor and poignancy in equal measure," wrote a Publisher's Weekly critic.

The novel is a selection of Barnes & Noble's "Discover Great New Writers" program.

Also at the meeting, Ellinor Benedict of Grantsville will play bluegrass music on her violin, accompanied by Susan Weisbrod on the guitar. A master teacher, Benedict is familiar to Garrett County audiences as a fiddle player in events such as the area's Chautauqua series and Galaxy of Stars. She has also played the cello at concerts with the Garrett Choral Society and at weddings.

another victim's purse at the residence, actions which resulted in assault and theft charges. On March 30 Price allegedly accosted a woman immediately following an ex parte hearing in district court, and was arrested and charged with second degree assault and violating an ex parte order.

The next day Price allegedly entered the Crellin Mine Road residence uninvited and was subsequently charged with trespassing, failure to obey a lawful order, and violating an ex parte order. Finally, on April 11, Price was charged with violating an ex parte order when he reportedly telephoned the victim from his detention site at the time, located in Cumberland.

Kenneth James Murphy, 20, Oakland, pleaded guilty to two charges of possession of marijuana and was handed two months and two days in jail by Judge Stakem, who suspended an additional 11 months while levying a $605 fine and placing Murphy on two years' supervised probation.

The first charge was filed in the wake of Murphy's March 28 arrest by sheriff's deputies, who had stopped his car along Maryland Highway at Weber Road. A bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe were found in his pickup truck at the time of that incident.

The second charge stemmed from an April 20 arrest, after a deputy who had observed Murphy spinning his tires on Oakland Drive stopped the truck. During an ensuing search a plastic wrapper containing marijuana and a smoking pipe were found in Murphy's front pocket.

Timothy John Ross, 19, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to a fourth degree sexual offense charge and was handed a six-month suspended sentence, a $100 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation by Judge Burnett. Ross had been arrested by GBI detectives in June for one occasion of reportedly consensual sex with a juvenile female. Additional charges of second degree assault and third degree sex offense were not prosecuted.

Anthony Wade Allamong, 26, New Creek, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI), and Judge Stakem handed down a probation before judgment (PBJ), along with a $305 fine and one year of supervised probation. Additional charges filed by sheriff's deputies of concealment of a deadly weapon and failure to drive right of center were not prosecuted.

Brian Matthew Parker, 22, Oakland, was not prosecuted on four counts of contributing to a condition that rendered a child in need of services. He had been arrested in June when sheriff's deputies broke up an underage drinking party at a Deer Park residence. A keg of beer at the party was registered to Parker, who was not on the scene to maintain proper supervision of the alcohol's use.

Kevin Scott Sherrow, 29, Lexington, Key., was not prosecuted on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia which had stemmed from his March arrest by sheriff's deputies following a traffic stop along Interstate 68.

Judy Ann Hebb, 57, Oakland, was deemed not guilty of four counts of second degree assault, while Jamie Joe Mason, 26, Grantsville, was deemed not guilty of one second degree assault charge. Both of those verdicts were handed down by Judge Burnett.

Drivers Asked To "Move It" In Fender Benders

Motorists in Maryland who are involved in minor collisions with other vehicles are reminded by Maryland State Police that if the vehicles are drivable, they may be removed from the site.

In some counties, police have launched a public awareness campaign called Move It. "The initiative is a combined effort by area law enforcement to help clear accidents off the roadway faster, create a safer environment for the motorist involved and to keep traffic moving," a police spokesman explained, adding that drivers involved in collisions often leave vehicles in the roadway, which contributes to traffic backups and may cause additional accidents.

It is not necessary for a driver who has been involved in a personal property damage accident to file a report with either the Maryland State Motor Vehicle Administration or the police department, the spokesman explained. "Of course, anyone who does wish to file such a report may do so. And any time that an investigation is needed, a driver may contact the police following an accident," he noted.

Following a "fender-bender" type accident, police advise that both motorists remove drivable vehicles from the traffic lanes and exchange insurance information.

For further information on the Move It policy, persons may contact the state police at 301-895-1101 or 301-387-1101.

Wakefields Meet

The family of John Lloyd and Sarah Elizabeth Wakefield met for a reunion on Sunday, Aug. 20, at Deep Creek Lake State Park. There were 86 persons in attendance.

A variety of prizes were awarded and games were played.

A MAJOR BOOST for a local Christian youth group was provided this past week by a Deep Creek Lake resident. Jerry Stonham is pictured above (left) presenting $500 to Rev. Chip Lee of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church to support the Ecumenical Youth Ministry of Oakland. The EYM, which is sponsored primarily by St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, and St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, is under the direction of Lynn Broderick, with Rev. Lee serving as an advisor/co-leader. Members of the EYM, who represent numerous area churches, have produced a number of musicals over the past several years and have performed concerts in many locations in several states. This summer the group expanded its ministry beyond the nation's borders by spending two weeks doing missions work in Nicaragua. Persons interested in joining the EYM and/or providing support may telephone 301-334-6300.

Huskies Edge Rams, 3-2, In Early County Clash

It's rare that there is a Garrett County showdown in the opening game of the season between Northern and Southern athletic teams, but that was the case in boys' soccer this year, as the Huskies traveled to Oakland Tuesday night to meet the Rams. Area fans knew that both squads were destined to have successful seasons, as few players on each were lost to graduation, but in the first meeting of this season, it was the Huskies who recorded victory, a 3-2 decision.

Coach Tom Ables' squad had to rally from a 1-0 deficit, and then keep the Rams from staging their own rally in the second half.

D.R. Parsons put the first point of the season on the board for the Rams when he scored off an assist by Brian Cathell at the 26:27 mark of the first half.

About 10 minutes later, Northern's Eric Durst scored off a feed from Shawn Fike to knot the score and take away the Rams' lead for good.

Jason Fickes hit an unassisted goal with just 2:32 left in the first half to give the Huskies a 2-1 halftime advantage.

An unassisted goal by Andy Fike with 29:22 remaining in the match put the Huskies up by a 3-1 margin.

The Rams began to rally about seven minutes later when Chris Remley followed up on a shot taken by Parsons that was initially repelled by Husky keeper Jimmy Kenner. But Remley's goal would be the last of the evening, as Northern defenders repeatedly turned away several Ram shots in the waning moments.

The Rams dominated in shots on goal, finishing with a 23-9 advantage, while the Huskies finished with a 4-3 edge in corner kicks.

Kenner was credited with 18 saves in goal for the Huskies, and Chris Menker recorded 14 for the Rams.

The Southern junior varsity blanked the Northern jayvees 6-0 in the preliminary match. Bobby Burton and Dennis Tressler each recorded two goals, and Adam Miller and A.J. Bender each netted one.

The Huskies will play again this evening at Keyser, with that kickoff set for 7 p.m. They will travel to Fort Hill next Wednesday.

The Rams, coached by Tom Powers and Mel Menker, will travel to Bishop Walsh this Saturday for a 9:30 a.m. match. They will play Beall next Thursday in Frostburg.

SHS Girls Whip Sentinels, 6-0, In First Soccer Match

Last night's soccer match between the Southern High girls' varsity and Fort Hill was supposed to be played on the Rams' field, but for some reason, the Sentinels refused to travel to Oakland, and told Coach Ron Petrella that if the Rams wanted a match, they would have to come to Cumberland. Instead of simply taking a forfeit, Petrella and his squad accepted the invitation to try to win the match outright, and win they did — 6-0 — at Greenway Avenue Stadium.

Justine Pagenhardt, a freshman, opened the scoring for the Rams, and Sabrina Scheffel, another freshman, concluded the scoring, as both hit unassisted goals.

Pagenhardt broke the scoreless tie with just 6:20 expired in the first half. Brittany Naylor doubled the Rams' points with an unassisted goal just a little over two minutes later (8:20). Gina Reeves made it 3-0 with an unassisted shot 23:59 into the first half to give the Rams a 3-0 lead at halftime.

Naylor hit another unassisted goal about five minutes into the second half to make it 4-0, and Kristen Oxford scored off an assist by Megan Burner with just under eight minutes to play. Scheffel capped the scoring with her unassisted goal with exactly two minutes remaining.

The Rams dominated not only the scoreboard, but also the play, as they out-shot the Sentinels by a lopsided 24-6 margin. Fort Hill finished with a 2-1 edge in corner kicks.

Becky Beeman was credited with 13 saves in goal for Fort Hill.

The Southern junior varsity girls were edged 1-0 in the preliminary match, as Fort Hill's Sheena Christopher scored the only goal of the contest, an unassisted shot with about 10 minutes remaining.

The Rams will face a tough test this Saturday when they travel back to Cumberland to take on defending area champion Bishop Walsh. They will also play at Allegany next Tuesday.

Huskies Muzzled By Spartans In Soccer Season Opener, 6-0

The season opener for the Northern High School girls' varsity soccer team was not a pleasant one for Husky fans, as Coach Connie Meyers's squad had to face defending area champion Bishop Walsh at the Cove last night. The Huskies were whipped by a 6-0 score, as BW sophomore Rachel Carpenter recorded a hat trick and junior Shera Rowan recorded a pair of goals.

Carpenter hit her first of three at the 24:52 mark of the first half off an assist by Jennifer Tola. Tola then made it 2-0 with an unassisted score with 10:14 remaining in the half. Carpenter took a feed from Rowan and scored her second goal of the night less than two minutes later (8:30) to give the visitors a 3-0 halftime lead.

Just over three minutes into the second half, Rowan scored her first of the night off an assist by Tola. Carpenter struck for the third time at the 19:15 mark off a feed by Karen Knight to put the Spartans up 5-0. Rowan completed the scoring for the night by hitting a goal with 16:10 remaining off an assist by Caitlin Owens.

The Huskies trailed in shots on goal by an 18-10 margin and in corner kicks by a 3-2 edge.

Earning a total of nine saves in goal for the Huskies were Ashley Warnick and Randi Beller, while Kristin Lander and Rachel Bruch paced the Husky defense on the field.

It was the second win in three starts for Bishop Walsh. The Huskies will get little rest, as they are slated to play again this evening at home against Beall. The kickoff for that match will be at 7 p.m. They will host Westmar in another 7 p.m. match next Wednesday.

NHS Volleyball Squad Falls To Frankfort, 3-1

The Northern High School volleyball team dropped its season opener last night at Frankfort (W.Va.) by a 3-1 margin, as the Huskies fell hard in the first two games, 15-4 and 15-1 then rebounded strong to take the third contest by a 15-3 margin. The fourth and final game went to the hosts by a 15-5 score.

The Falcons drew on strong performances from Jessica Lopez and Sara Houdersheldt. Lopez totaled 17 points, including seven aces, and Houdersheldt mounted a double-double with 10 points, 15 assists, and three aces. Malia Collins paced the Huskies with 10 points.

The NHS junior varsity unit dropped a 2-1 match. Frankfort took game 1 by a 15-9 score, Northern roared back to take game 2 with a 15-1 rout, then the Falcons clinched the match in a hard-fought 15-12 battle.

Jodi Frantz had 10 points for the Huskies, a game-high tally matched by Frankfort's Andrea Forbeck. NHS's Tessa Folk contributed five points.

Northern travels to Allegany (1-0) Monday evening. The Huskies host the Southern Rams Wednesday evening at the Cove.

Young Ram Netters Look To Better Last Year's .500 Mark

In comparison to last year, the 2000 Southern High School girls' volleyball team has nowhere to go but up or, it must be told, down. The Rams of last year finished the season with a 7-7 record, but even after losing five top players to graduation, head coach Sue Newton remains upbeat about her young squad's prognosis for the coming campaign. "We're strong in the commitment and teamwork departments," the coach commented recently.

Head Coach: Susan Newton

Newton's optimism has been borne out already this season, as her young squad vanquished Preston Monday night in a 3-0 sweep, with game scores of 16-14, 15-11, and 15-9. The Rams then took on perennial powerhouse Allegany last night, and came away just shy of victory in a hard-fought, 3-2 contest. The Rams took the first game, 15-10, Alco then bounced back for a 15-3 triumph, Southern took a 15-6 decision, then the Campers clinched the match with 15-8, 15-13 wins.

Southern's Kristen Rollman went on a tear at Preston Monday, rolling up 19 points from the service line. Teammate Holli Harris added three kills. Statistics for the Knights' players were not available.

The SHS junior varsity followed 18 service points by Brianna Meyers to victory over the Knights' JV by game scores of 15-10 and 15-1.

The Rams got their first taste of defeat last night in Cumberland, but the contest has to be considered a victory for morale. The SHS players held their composure during a hard-fought match with the always-tough Campers, who are even stronger than usual this year with the addition of athletes from the former Mt. Savage High squad.

"I was real pleased with our performance last night," Newton commented. "It was a big test for us, and we've got to be pleased to take the match to five games and come away just two points shy of victory in the final contest. Only a win could have it any better for our young team, who showed they're ready to play with the best."

Laura Johnson tallied 14 service points for the Rams, along with nine kills, while Aimee Parrack matched her teammate's 14-point total and added four aces and 12 assists. Shannae Proud led the Campers with 20 service points and seven aces.

SHS won the junior varsity match, 15-13, 0-15, and 15-3. Alexis Story had 11 service points and four aces. Alco's Jessica Mellon had eight service points.

A summer of working together has helped mold this year's Rams into a cohesive, unselfish unit, Newton remarked shortly before the regular season began. "Our players participated in a summer volleyball league and attended a summer volleyball camp at Alderson-Broaddus College in West Virginia. Those shared experiences are the kind of things that bring a group closer together. The girls are continuing to improve on offense, and our blocking schemes have been developing quite nicely."

The Rams will rely heavily on a triumvirate of top returning seniors this year, setter Aimee Parrack and middle hitters Laura Johnson and Heather Boyce. Newton said she will augment that trio by taking her remaining starting roster from a line-up of fellow senior and hitter Carrie Steyer, junior outside/middle hitter Holli Harris, junior hitter Marianne Unger, and outside/middle hitter Jessica Sharon and setter Kristen Rollman, both sophomores.

"It will be hard to replace the likes of Jennifer Teagarden, Melissa Kuykendall, Keri Niner, Erica Wilt, and Misty Sereno," the Rams' skipper observed. "Still, we've got the nucleus of something very good here. The girls still aren't as aggressive on defense as I would like them to be, and they're still learning to anticipate where the ball will go. That will come with continued hard work in our practice sessions.

"If we can get by our toughest opponents, Fort Hill and Allegany, we'll be on our way to our goal of being a strong contender in the regional playoffs," concluded Newton, who is joined on the Southern bench by assistant coach Val Teagarden.

The Rams travel to Accident Wednesday evening to take on the Northern Huskies (0-1).

Huskies Hope Winning Ways Continue With Young Unit

This year's Northern High School football team has some mighty big shoes to fill, but, as Phil Carr put it the other day, "Our guys are chomping at the bit to get going. It's been a long pre-season, and the boys are ready to hit someone besides each other." Weeks of sweat and study will come to a head tomorrow night in West Virginia, as the Huskies travel to Clay-Battelle High to take on the Cee-Bees and their powerful running game. (See end of story for scouting report.)

Northern's players have been going through their paces on the practice field for a solid month, and the NHS coaching staff has been emphasizing hard practice workouts and detailed "chalk talks" in the Huskies' "Dawghouse" locker room. The Huskies are bringing back several major players from last year's undefeated MAC champion squad, and Carr will be looking to those seniors to provide the leadership and guide the way to the winning attitude the younger players are seeking for themselves.

Halfback/safety Rob Dozier (6-6, 200) will be key to that effort, although his influence will be more symbolic for the first half of the year. The senior suffered a dislocated shoulder with associated tissue damage during a recent scrimmage, and the injury will sideline him for the first three games. Team captain Mark Wolf ((5-9, 190) a fullback/halfback/weakside linebacker and a first-team All-Area defensive unit selection last season, will be shouldering the majority of the running game during Dozier's absence, along with a new role this year as play-caller for Frank Ewing's grave-digger defense.

Co-captain and strong side offensive guard/noseguard Toby Gilpin (6-2, 318) "has been having a great pre-season," according to Carr, as has fullback/strongside linebacker and co-captain Bill Rodeheaver (5-10, 200). Another returning senior who will be starting this year will be tight end/cornerback Brandon Kamp (6-0, 165), while junior quickside offensive tackle/noseguard Josh Swandol (6-1, 190) will join the starting ranks as well. Swandol will be lining up on defense in an upright position two yards off the opponent's center, a stance that will allow the defensive unit more flexibility against the run.

The most prominent new member of the varsity starting line-up this year will likely be junior Trey Brenneman (6-0, 210), who showed flashes of brilliance last season running the option offense at the junior varsity level. "For a big kid Trey can really move," Carr observed. "He had a 75-yard scoring run in our last scrimmage. He runs like a fullback; if he gets the block that frees him to turn the corner and head upfield, he'll run over people in the secondary." Brenneman will be lining up at defensive end when the opposition's quarterback is taking the snaps.

Another new face, even more so because he didn't try out for football last year, will be senior Jeremy Frazee (5-6, 155). Frazee will start at split end and at corner, where he has proven himself to be "one of our best tacklers in the secondary," according to the Huskies' skipper. Carr also envisions Frazee filling in at quarterback should Brenneman be sidelined with an injury. "Jeremy's small but exceptionally quick. He can almost hide behind the offensive line and pop out at will."

Other starters on the offensive unit this season, according to Carr, will be junior center Joel Resh (5-8, 165), junior strongside tackle Bryan Lenhart (5-8, 180), and sophomore Tommy Menges (6-1, 270) at weakside guard. As was the case last year, the Huskies may be small in stature but are fleet afoot, according to Carr. "We've got outstanding team quickness," the coach commented, "including on the offensive line. The option offense we run relies on angle blocking schemes, and to make that kind of blocking work we will be relying on our quickness."

Filling in when needed in the backfield will be junior halfback Ethan DeVore (5-10, 165), who will be seeing a lot of action early on with Dozier out, junior halfback Cheston Bachtel (6-0, 170), and sophomore Aaron Mitchell (6-0, 165). Subs across the offensive line will be Jason Moore (5-11, 210), John Beachy (6-0, 180), and Kris Knox (5-5, 165), all juniors, and sophomore Eric Rodeheaver (6-0, 185). Junior tight ends Elliot Perfetti (5-9, 165) and Greg Whittemore (6-2, 175) and split end Kellen Baumgardner (6-0, 145), also a junior, round out the receiving corps.

Northern's defense, which all but shut down opposing offenses throughout last year, will again rely on swarms of tacklers who will be zeroing in on the ball like a fleet of cruise missiles. Carr said he has been especially pleased with the way the linebacking schemes have been shaping up during the pre-season, and with the work of stand-up noseguard Swandol and the rest of the defensive line. "Our secondary is still learning its way with its passing defense, but that will come. They'll mainly play a zone defense, but will convert to man-to-man depending on the opponent we're up against at the time," the coach stated.

In addition to the defensive starting assignments already mentioned, the Huskies will line up Lenhart at defensive tackle, Resh at defensive end, and Bachtel and Mitchell in the secondary at free safety and strong safety, respectively. Important substitutes will be defensive linemen Knox and senior Malcolm Simmons (5-10, 140), and secondary members DeVore and fellow juniors Jeremy Layman (5-9, 165) and Anthony Little (5-9, 145).

"Our team is young, but that can be an asset because our up-and-coming players have been waiting for their shot to get on the field," Carr said. "We're lucky in that it appears that the schedule starts out somewhat easy and builds to a tough finish, that will hopefully give us a little breathing room to continue learning before we have to close the season by taking on Petersburg, Beall, Westmar, and Southern. We've already scouted our first three opponents, Clay-Battelle, Tucker, and Berkeley Springs, and if we play up to our potential we can conceivably win each of those games."

Tomorrow night at Clay-Battelle the Huskies' defenders will face fullback Matt Starkey (6-0, 260), who rumbled for 173 yards in only 23 carries in the Cee-Bees' 8-0 season debut at Bishop Walsh two weeks ago. Last week Clay-Battelle dropped a 25-9 contest to Weirton Madonna after holding a 9-6 lead at the half.

"Clay-Battelle doesn't get too fancy," Carr said. "They outsize us on both lines, and their offense will be taking the ball right at us on the ground by trying to pound Starkey up the middle between the tackles; they use a double-tight end blocking scheme too. We've done a good job of stopping the run in our scrimmage games, so hopefully we'll be ready for whatever they bring at us.

"Their defense runs a 52-Monster, with the monster linebacker floating back and forth as he shades the strong side of the offensive line. They aren't that quick on defense, and we hope our speed and angle blocking will turn Brenneman, and Wolf and the other running backs, loose for some big runs out of our option offense.

"Their squad is young, just like ours. [The Cee-Bees have six seniors, and the Huskies have seven seniors.] However, Coach Ryan Wilson always does a good job of getting his guys ready. Clay-Batteile has been to the playoffs three times in his six years there, and we know he hasn't forgotten that we beat them 40-0 at Northern last year.

"We have to focus on limiting our mistakes," Carr stated. "It's their third game and only our first. Still, our kids have been working hard, and it's time to play some football."

The kickoff is slated for

Northern JV Falls Prey To Falcons, 39-6

The Northern High School junior varsity football team got off to a sluggish start in its season opener Tuesday night at Frankfort, as the Huskies dropped a 39-6 contest to the Falcons. NHS's effort was hurt by a pair of fumbles that were recovered by Frankfort, which got off to a 1-0 start for its season.

The Falcons scored with seven minutes left to go in the first quarter when Ryan Miller carried the ball 20 yards for a touchdown. Frankfort scored two more times in that opening stanza, as Morgan Metz rushed for a 10-yard TD, and just a few minutes later he broke through the Huskies' defense for a 50-yard scoring run.

Frankfort quarterback Adam White hit Aaron Stonebraker for a 40-yard scoring strike in the second quarter, giving the Falcons a 27-0 lead that they carried into the halftime locker room.

The third quarter saw Robbie Lease score on a four-yard run, and in the final period Andy Helmstetter scored a touchdown to cap the Falcon's scoring output at 39.

The Huskies' offensive highlight of the evening was a fourth-quarter score by sophomore split end Darrell Smith, who gathered in a pass from freshman quarterback Andrew Frantz and went on to scamper 45 yards for a touchdown. On defense, Frantz, playing at safety, and freshman linebacker Steve Snyder were cited by the NHS coaching staff for outstanding contributions.

According to the schedule published by Northern's athletic department; the junior varsity Huskies are slated to travel to Beall Monday evening for a 7 p.m. kickoff.

Steelers Downed By Keyser In CAYFL Contest

The Northern Steelers came out on the short end of a 16-0 loss to the host Keyser Steelers in a Cumberland Area Youth Football League match-up played Saturday.

Keyser scored a touchdown early in the first period, then both defenses settled in to stymie the offensive units for the next three quarters. The stalemate broke in the fourth stanza when Keyser scored its second touchdown of the day.

Northern's bright spots included the outstanding play of Eric Diehl on defense and Casey Kamp on offense.

The win evened Keyser's record at 1-1, while Northern dropped to 1-1. The Northern Steelers will host Morgan County this Saturday at Northern High School.

Maddawgs Split With Raiders In Saturday Action

The Northern Maddawgs hosted the Raiders in Tri-State Area Pee Wee Football League action Saturday night at Northern High School. The Maddawg C team rumbled to a decisive 35-14 victory, while the Maddawg A and B teams were defeated by a 31-12 margin.

The C team mounted an outstanding rushing attack on offense, rolling up 246 yards on the ground. Aaron Lapp scored two touchdowns and an extra point, Zach Watkins scored one touchdown and four extra points, and Kameron Kamp scored two touchdowns. The alert Maddawg defense recovered two Raider fumbles as Austin Tombley and Jarred Lapp pounced on the ball to account for the take-aways.

In the outing of the Maddawgs A and B teams, Jason Doerr scored for the A team unit and Josh Duckworth scored for the B team squad.

The Northern Maddawgs will travel to Westernport Saturday to take on the Tri-Town Renegades.

READY FOR SOME FOOTBALL are the members of the Southern High School varsity team, who will open their 2000 campaign this Friday evening at Keyser. Returning as head coach of the Rams this season, after holding the job a number of years ago, is Fred Gregg. The relatively young Ram squad faces possibly the single most difficult schedule in the history of the school, and has but four home games. Pictured above with the team and coaching staff are the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders. See story.

Young Rams To Open Toughest Schedule Ever Against Keyser

After a disappointing 4-6 record last season, the departure of many starters via graduation, and facing possibly the most difficult schedule in the history of the school, return coach Fred Gregg and the Southern High School varsity football team have their work cut out for them. The Rams will open their 2000 campaign this Friday against the Golden Tornados of Keyser, who already have a pair of games — and a pair of victories — under their belts.

The Keyser match-up is but one of six games on the road this season for the Rams, and among their other opponents are always-tough Musselman, Grafton, Allegany, Fort Hill, Martinsburg, Preston County, and Northern, not to mention Hampshire and Tucker County.

"There will be no easy weeks," said Gregg, who resumed the head coaching job after holding it for several years in the early 90s. "Usually you can look at your schedule and pick out at least a few teams that you are reasonably sure you will beat, but we simply can't do it with this schedule."

While there are many question marks about the 2000 Rams' team, Gregg does have at least a nucleus of starters with considerable experience and talent. Among them are senior quarterback/defensive back Josh Sharon (5-8, 161); senior fullback/linebacker Jeremy Hayhurst (5-5, 175); senior guard/linebacker John Hayhurst (5-9, 219); senior tackle Toby Tasker (5-9, 282); senior slot/defensive back Jeremy Lear (5-6, 153), and junior center/defensive end Brad Palmer (6-3, 227).

"We will rely heavily on these guys for leadership," Gregg said.

Offensively, the Rams will operate from a multiple-I formation, not unlike most Southern teams of the past. "We will be primarily a running team, and the multiple-I allows us to run the option, sweep, establish our fullback's running, and also throw the ball when we want to," he said. "Josh is a very good running quarterback and has a lot of ability to make good decisions at the line."

Others expected to start this week on offense are junior Bryan Hinebaugh (5-8, 143) at split end, junior Regis Marucci (5-9, 249) at the other tackle position, junior Nick Gangler (5-6, 158) at center, junior Ryan Upole (6-0, 189) at tight end, and junior Steve Skipper (5-5, 159) at tailback.

Also expected to see considerable action offensively are senior Josh Fitzwater (5-9, 191) at tight end and junior Joel Helbig (6-0, 177) at fullback.

Defensively, Upole and Palmer will start at the end positions, Tasker and senior James Preston (5-8, 249) will be at the tackle spots, Helbig, Fitzwater, and John Hayhurst will fill the linebacker slots, and the secondary will include Lear, Hinebaugh, junior Steve Skipper (5-5, 159), and sophomore Jay Tressler (5-6, 189).

Handling both the punting and place kicking chores will be Jeremy Hayhurst, whose foot poses a field goal threat anywhere inside the 25 or 30 yard line.

"For many years we have almost always gone for two-point conversions, but with Jeremy we will be kicking a lot of them this year," Gregg said.

The Rams will have no opportunity Friday evening to "warm up," and will have to hit the ground running if they hope to topple Keyser in their opener. The Tornados have already recorded victories over Tucker County and Jefferson.

"They are a very good, senior-dominated team," Gregg said, "a team that has excellent size and speed, has been practicing since July 31, and is practically at mid-season form, while we are really just getting started. It's also their home opener."

Keyser has a number of noteworthy players among its host of senior starters, with quarterback Troy Ravenscroft and halfback Gerald Mayhew among the headliners. "Ravenscroft is very talented, both as a runner and passer, and Mayhew is a fast, hard runner," Gregg said. "It will be a major test for us right away.

"But, that's our schedule," he said, "and we will simply take each game one at a time and do everything we can to be prepared for each team."

Gregg said that his players have made it through pre-season with relatively few injuries. "We have some bumps and bruises, but basically we are healthy and ready to go," he said.

The other members of Gregg's staff this year include Jay Stewart, Tim Foley, Mike Sloan, Shawn Durst, Doug Copeland, and Greg Tressler.

Friday's kickoff at the Keyser field is set for 7:30 p.m.

GONDER INSURANCE AGENCY
INCE 1921

A MAJOR SUPPORTER of local baseball for the past 15 years has been Gonder Insurance Agency, Oakland, which has during that time donated several thousand dollars to various baseball organizations, including the Garrett Community College program. Pictured above, making their 2000 "installment" to the GCC program, is Terry Helbig, Gonder Insurance manager, right. At left is GCC baseball coach Ed Wildesen. "This monetary support not only helps Garrett County's baseball athletes, but it also helps to fund the operation of the 'Diamond at the Lake,' our state-of-the-art complex at GCC, on which youth from T-ball age to minor league and Little League, through high school, college, American Legion, and Pen-Mar League can play," Wildesen said.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

A LITTLE BIT OF EVERYTHING FOR THE LABOR DAY WEEKEND

by Dan Muss

The Commodore's Regatta is the last event of the regulation season. The race commanders for this event are the commodores of the two Deep Creek yacht clubs, the one at Deer Haven and the one at Turkey Neck. It consists of a total of five races, two each on Saturday and Sunday and one on Monday, Labor Day.

Saturday morning looked like every day we've experienced this past week: cloudy and threatening rain or thunder showers. We left the mooring for the first race in light air and made it to the starting line just as the Lasers were starting. With a very light easterly breeze blowing, the committee had set an impossibly long race and had to shorten it before the finish. At our start I held the initial starboard tack for a long while because I thought the wind looked better on the left going up through the slot. Ted Rissell tacked very soon onto port and headed right. We made the correct guess and we arrived at the first mark way ahead of Ted, but we could not get around. The wind died and we sat there while Ted caught a shaft of air and came zipping in. We did manage to get around before him, but we were neck-and-neck on the spinnaker run.

The wind was pretty much behind us, and we sailed back through the slot on the starboard tack. As we made the turn north just past Deer Haven, I expected to be on a beam reach without the 'chute. But the wind swung with us (ah, Deep Creek!) and we continued down the middle ... still on starboard tack. Ted jibed onto port and, as we converged, we were still neck-and-neck. We jibed twice, but were nearing the mark on port when Ted suddenly jibed onto starboard ... away from the mark! Big mistake. We took him going around the mark and then started to cover him going back upwind. We had him by about 3 or 4 boat-lengths, when Marilyn Filemyr and I started to talk about something or other and Ted quietly tacked to get away. He beat us by a bunch as he picked up better air. Will I ever learn? Well, maybe ... read on.

C Fleet only sails one race a day, and this was a really good day not to sail the second race. It was not over until after 6 p.m. The race committee had lots of constructive criticism after that one.

Sunday looked even worse; C Fleet skippers met on the yacht club deck and decided not to go ... very good decision. After an hour of bobbing around, the races were canceled.

But on Monday we had scattered clouds and just perfect wind, about 5 to 8 knots out of the northwest. We got off to a clean start and rounded the first windward mark out in front. After an uneventful downwind leg we had trouble getting the spinnaker down, and Ted Kemp rounded just behind us. But this time we covered him very carefully and finished first. Our first and second was enough to win the regatta for C Fleet. It was a grand day of racing!

Larry and Debbie Anderson just started racing this season in the Flying Scot B Fleet, and on Monday they finished third. They are doing very well and, on deck after the race, Debbie was beaming from ear to ear.

Ed Peters, the head instructor of the Deep Creek Sailing School, received the coveted Sportsman of the Year Award and was given a standing ovation.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park

A downpour at starting time caused the racing at the Knob to come to a complete standstill last Saturday night. This week is the last point race of the season, and the classes that were rained out last week will be run. This includes the Pure Stock Twin 20s, two races where drivers will run for double points.

The "Faster Pastor Race" will also be run, giving area pastors a chance to "Rev" up the engines of a Pure Stock car. There will also be regular racing for the Late Models, Modified Lites (Dwarf Cars), E-Mods, and 4-Cylinders.

The following lists are the points drivers in each class have earned so far this year, placings they will try to keep or improve this Saturday night at the Knob.

Late Model Division: first, Scott Miles with 339 points; second, Jeff Ferguson with 322 points; third, Chad McDougal with 266 points; fourth, Jeff Thomas with 256 points; fifth, Mike Benedum with 212 points; sixth, Gary Tonkery with 203 points; seventh, Mel Minnick with 178 points; eighth, Bob Neratka with 176 points; ninth, Gary Sisson with 170 points; and tenth, Wally Stock with 142 points.

After Fruitful Career As A Pioneer Programmer, Terry Huxford Retires

by Mary Sincell McEwen

The staff of Mountain Lake Park-based Financial Computer Support Incorporated (FCSI) is changing gears this month, as one of their leaders has decided to step out of the fast-paced, ever-changing world of computer technology. Terry Huxford, a true pioneer in the international world of computer programming, has retired from her post as a programmer at FCSI, a company started by her husband, the late David Huxford, and continued by Huxford's son Dusty.

The company she helped launch is not only a leading technology based industry that provides 40 Garrett Countians with solid employment, but it is also an internationally known, cutting-edge business serving over 1,200 clients. FCSI was among the very first of its kind and remains a viable, growing company.

Terry joined FCSI in 1986, a few years after her husband Dave had put into action his concept of assisting individual financial planners with specialized computer support programs. Terry and David were married in 1980, joining their families of Terry's son John Milligan and David's daughter Holly and sons Dane and Dusty. The newlyweds were at that time working at a Washington, D.C., insurance company.

In the early 1980s, Dave branched off on his own to pursue a career as an individual financial planner. He soon discovered that computer resources for such work were severely lacking, and his conception of FCSI was born. He initiated the company, and in 1985, asked his wife to consider joining him as a programmer.

"When he first asked me to join FCSI, I was hesitant," Terry said. "I was confident that I could do the work, but I was concerned about how it might affect our marriage. But after a few months, I realized it was going to be wonderful, and it was wonderful."

The two understood at the outset that they were on the cutting edge of this sort of technology.

"We knew we had something big, and that it would grow quickly," Terry said. They were correct. The need for specialized financial computer programs was great among individual, self-employed planners. Dusty Huxford, president and CEO of FCSI, said Terry was the key developer of FCSI's flagship software product, dbCAMS+ (database Client Asset Management System).

"She nearly single-handedly coded and maintained the DOS version of dbCAMS+," Huxford said. While Dave Huxford conceptualized the company's specialties, Terry brought them to reality through her programming expertise.

"Today, due to her efforts, dbCAMS+ is among the top three portfolio management systems on the market," the FCSI president said. "The software is still improved, maintained, and supported right here in Garrett County."

Terry said the work with her husband was thrilling.

"It was unique for us. Dave would go to a conference somewhere and would be so excited about what he had learned. When he got home, he could share it with me completely — I knew exactly what he was telling me and exactly how important it was. That meant so much to us both," she said.

As the young company took root in the mid-1980s, Terry and Dave began the search for a home base.

"We had come to Garrett County on vacation a number of times and loved it, both in the summer and winter," she said. The couple decided to locate in the Penn Cove area near Deep Creek Lake. They purchased a home and moved FCSI into the basement and garage. There they worked together, building the business. As the demand for FCSI's product grew, the staff grew, too, and by 1993, 18 busy people were bumping elbows and sharing desks in the Huxford house. It was that year that FCSI moved to its present location in the Southern Garrett Industrial Park, where desperately needed space was found.

At a time when the future seemed secure and exciting for the Huxfords and their company, tragedy struck. Dave Huxford was a passenger on USAir Flight 427, a plane that crashed near Pittsburgh on September 8, 1994. There were no survivors. Terry sat in her living room with her family and several FCSI staff members, a close-knit group, waiting for hours to find out for sure if her husband was among the lost. He had originally purchased a ticket for a later flight, but was given the opportunity to catch the earlier departure. Wanting to get home as early as possible, Dave opted to board the ill-fated plane. The telephone rang at 4 a.m. confirming the worst possible news.

Dusty Huxford, who was not on the staff of FCSI at the time, said Terry's perseverance in the face of such a catastrophe kept the company alive.

"Her efforts, combined with the support of the staff, held FCSI together during a very difficult transition period," Dusty said. "While many small companies would have not survived such a loss, her leadership ensured the future survival of FCSI."

Terry credits the employees for their stamina as well.

"The staff was great. They were wonderful through it all," she said. Terry took over as the temporary CEO and president of the company, working in that capacity until Dusty and his family were able to locate to the area from Tennessee. Dusty and his wife Elizabeth are both graduates of Virginia Tech. Both left behind successful engineering careers to take the FCSI helm.

"They both sacrificed a lot to come here," Terry said, noting that the two had grown up in cities and were then working in urban areas as well. The shift to rural Garrett County was not easy, but the Huxford family is close, and the sense of responsibility to each other is evident.

Terry is secretary of the board of directors for FCSI, a position she will keep in retirement. She said she has total confidence in her stepson's ability to lead FCSI.

"He is following in his dad's footsteps," she said.

The company is unique, and has been a good example of what can be done with technology in a rural county, according to James Hinebaugh, director of the Garrett County Economic Development Department.

"FCSI has demonstrated that we do have people in the county who are capable of handling technology based jobs," Hinebaugh said. "What FCSI does is complicated and complex — it's a sophisticated operation. The fact that they can do it here says so much for our area.

"FCSI offers good pay to its employees, the operation is environmentally safe, and it's such a great example of what's surely to come," Hinebaugh said.

Hinebaugh noted Dusty Huxford has been a strong voice in support of the county's technology endeavors, chiefly involving the importance of having solid "POPs," or points of presence, on the new high-speed "information highway" lines being installed throughout the state of Maryland. Huxford has attended meetings of the Governor's Economic Development Task Force for Western Maryland, speaking on behalf of Garrett County and its technology access needs.

"Terry and Dave Huxford were ahead of their time when they located here," Hinebaugh said. "We're thrilled that they decided to make Garrett County FCSI's home."

After working hard for nearly all of her life, Terry said she is ready for a break. She will continue to serve as secretary, and will be involved in a few FCSI projects. She also hopes to lend her hand in some volunteer efforts in and around the county. For the wintertime, she will head to her home state of Texas for some months. She grew up in that state, earning her math degree at Texas Tech University in Lubbock. As for a summing-up of her career, she said she feels fortunate.

"I am so pleased to have spent much of my life involved in such a worthwhile endeavor," she said.

Terry is proud of her extended family, noting that her son John Milligan, a Southern High School alumnus, is a graduate of Penn State, earning a degree in finance. He also served four years in the U.S. Navy. He now works as a financial advisor for American Express in Philadelphia. Dane Huxford, also a graduate of Southern, recently earned a master's degree in communications from West Virginia University. A resident of Manassas, Va., he now develops training courses for the Internet for Computer Associates. Holly Huxford earned a law enforcement degree at her father's alma mater, Auburn University, Alabama. She is a dispatcher for the Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack. Dusty and Elizabeth's two daughters, Emily and Rachael, will most likely help enliven Terry's retirement.

Dusty said he hopes the financial industry will someday realize what a positive impact Terry and his father made through their years of dedication and hard work.

"Terry's heart and soul has always been a part of FCSI and, as a result, part of the software products FCSI produces," Dusty said. "Because of the magnitude of exposure of FCSI's software products, the financial industry as a whole has been exposed to her heart and soul.

"Unfortunately, the industry may never truly comprehend the contributions Terry Huxford has made and the resultant impact she has had. Her involvement in providing cutting edge software, along with David Huxford and the staff of FCSI, forced the entire industry to recognize the value of computing in a time when many did not recognize it, or, at best, questioned it. What we all take for granted now was conceptualized, pioneered, and tamed by Dave and Terry Huxford," Dusty said.

The CEO said Terry's retirement is being met with mixed emotions at the local company.

"We all love Terry and are excited about the opportunities of retirement for her," he said. "She deserves the rest from the day-in and day-out grind of software development. However, at the same time, we will miss her contributions, talent, and wisdom. Our commitment is to continue her and Dave's legacy to the best of our ability and ensure the financial industry eventually officially recognizes their contributions."

The best of luck to you, Mrs. Terry Huxford, and thanks to you, too, for helping plant the seeds of something wonderful.

"IT'S IMPORTANT TO CELEBRATE LIFE," said Terry Huxford in discussing her career that was so obviously punctuated with the untimely loss of her husband Dave. When some would have given up, Terry pushed onward, making FCSI work and survive the way her husband would have wished. Tomorrow, Sept. 8, marks the sixth anniversary of the plane crash. Instead of brooding, Terry said she considers it a time to be thankful for the good things in life, such as solid relationships and precious memories. Despite her trials, Terry has found the way to happiness through strength and perseverance. She is pictured above with people she considers most important — her son and stepchildren. They were together at the time of this photo to take part in a memorial service for Dave Huxford. Pictured left to right are Dane Huxford, John Milligan, Terry, Holly Huxford, and Dusty Huxford.

MIXING BUSINESS AND PLEASURE is how it can work when a couple strikes out together in such an endeavor as FCSI. Dave and Terry Huxford are pictured here enjoying one of their many business trips, this one in Hawaii in 1986. While working together can be detrimental to some pairs, the Huxfords found their joint career exciting and fulfilling. The result of their leap of faith and expertise has resulted in a strong industry in Garrett County, providing economic opportunities for many local people.

CO-WORKERS AND FRIENDS — Karyn Sellhamer, at right, is the director of sales and marketing at FCSI, where she has worked for over 10 years. "Terry is an amazing woman," Sellhamer said. "She has the unique ability to motivate us all to perform at our best, while at the same time giving us a gentle kick in the pants when we need it. It has been my pleasure to work for her." In Karyn's 10-year career, she has seen the company and the managers and staff grow under Terry's leadership. "She is not only an excellent leader and mentor, but she has also always found time to be involved personally with the staff, helping us each grow, and serving as a role model. The legacy she leaves us with as she retires is one of personal success. Terry has shown us all how to shine in the face of challenge and be the best we can be."

by Mary Sincell McEwen

The staff of Mountain Lake Park-based Financial Computer Support Incorporated (FCSI) is changing gears this month, as one of their leaders has decided to step out of the fast-paced, ever-changing world of computer technology. Terry Huxford, a true pioneer in the international world of computer programming, has retired from her post as a programmer at FCSI, a company started by her husband, the late David Huxford, and continued by Huxford's son Dusty.

The company she helped launch is not only a leading technology based industry that provides 40 Garrett Countians with solid employment, but it is also an internationally known, cutting-edge business serving over 1,200 clients. FCSI was among the very first of its kind and remains a viable, growing company.

Terry joined FCSI in 1986, a few years after her husband Dave had put into action his concept of assisting individual financial planners with specialized computer support programs. Terry and David were married in 1980, joining their families of Terry's son John Milligan and David's daughter Holly and sons Dane and Dusty. The newlyweds were at that time working at a Washington, D.C., insurance company.

In the early 1980s, Dave branched off on his own to pursue a career as an individual financial planner. He soon discovered that computer resources for such work were severely lacking, and his conception of FCSI was born. He initiated the company, and in 1985, asked his wife to consider joining him as a programmer.

"When he first asked me to join FCSI, I was hesitant," Terry said. "I was confident that I could do the work, but I was concerned about how it might affect our marriage. But after a few months, I realized it was going to be wonderful, and it was wonderful."

The two understood at the outset that they were on the cutting edge of this sort of technology.

"We knew we had something big, and that it would grow quickly," Terry said. They were correct. The need for specialized financial computer programs was great among individual, self-employed planners. Dusty Huxford, president and CEO of FCSI, said Terry was the key developer of FCSI's flagship software product, dbCAMS+ (database Client Asset Management System).

"She nearly single-handedly coded and maintained the DOS version of dbCAMS+," Huxford said. While Dave Huxford conceptualized the company's specialties, Terry brought them to reality through her programming expertise.

"Today, due to her efforts, dbCAMS+ is among the top three portfolio management systems on the market," the FCSI president said. "The software is still improved, maintained, and supported right here in Garrett County."

Terry said the work with her husband was thrilling.

"It was unique for us. Dave would go to a conference somewhere and would be so excited about what he had learned. When he got home, he could share it with me completely — I knew exactly what he was telling me and exactly how important it was. That meant so much to us both," she said.

As the young company took root in the mid-1980s, Terry and Dave began the search for a home base.

"We had come to Garrett County on vacation a number of times and loved it, both in the summer and winter," she said. The couple decided to locate in the Penn Cove area near Deep Creek Lake. They purchased a home and moved FCSI into the basement and garage. There they worked together, building the business. As the demand for FCSI's product grew, the staff grew, too, and by 1993, 18 busy people were bumping elbows and sharing desks in the Huxford house. It was that year that FCSI moved to its present location in the Southern Garrett Industrial Park, where desperately needed space was found.

At a time when the future seemed secure and exciting for the Huxfords and their company, tragedy struck. Dave Huxford was a passenger on USAir Flight 427, a plane that crashed near Pittsburgh on September 8, 1994. There were no survivors. Terry sat in her living room with her family and several FCSI staff members, a close-knit group, waiting for hours to find out for sure if her husband was among the lost. He had originally purchased a ticket for a later flight, but was given the opportunity to catch the earlier departure. Wanting to get home as early as possible, Dave opted to board the ill-fated plane. The telephone rang at 4 a.m. confirming the worst possible news.

Dusty Huxford, who was not on the staff of FCSI at the time, said Terry's perseverance in the face of such a catastrophe kept the company alive.

"Her efforts, combined with the support of the staff, held FCSI together during a very difficult transition period," Dusty said. "While many small companies would have not survived such a loss, her leadership ensured the future survival of FCSI."

Terry credits the employees for their stamina as well.

"The staff was great. They were wonderful through it all," she said. Terry took over as the temporary CEO and president of the company, working in that capacity until Dusty and his family were able to locate to the area from Tennessee. Dusty and his wife Elizabeth are both graduates of Virginia Tech. Both left behind successful engineering careers to take the FCSI helm.

"They both sacrificed a lot to come here," Terry said, noting that the two had grown up in cities and were then working in urban areas as well. The shift to rural Garrett County was not easy, but the Huxford family is close, and the sense of responsibility to each other is evident.

Terry is secretary of the board of directors for FCSI, a position she will keep in retirement. She said she has total confidence in her stepson's ability to lead FCSI.

"He is following in his dad's footsteps," she said.

The company is unique, and has been a good example of what can be done with technology in a rural county, according to James Hinebaugh, director of the Garrett County Economic Development Department.

"FCSI has demonstrated that we do have people in the county who are capable of handling technology based jobs," Hinebaugh said. "What FCSI does is complicated and complex — it's a sophisticated operation. The fact that they can do it here says so much for our area.

"FCSI offers good pay to its employees, the operation is environmentally safe, and it's such a great example of what's surely to come," Hinebaugh said.

Hinebaugh noted Dusty Huxford has been a strong voice in support of the county's technology endeavors, chiefly involving the importance of having solid "FOPs," or points of presence, on the new high-speed "information highway" lines being installed throughout the state of Maryland. Huxford has attended meetings of the Governor's Economic Development Task Force for Western Maryland, speaking on behalf of Garrett County and its technology access needs.

"Terry and Dave Huxford were ahead of their time when they located here," Hinebaugh said. "We're thrilled that they decided to make Garrett County FCSI's home."

After working hard for nearly all of her life, Terry said she is ready for a break. She will continue to serve as secretary, and will be involved in a few FCSI projects. She also hopes to lend her hand in some volunteer efforts in and around the county. For the wintertime, she will head to her home state of Texas for some months. She grew up in that state, earning her math degree at Texas Tech University in Lubbock. As for a summing-up of her career, she said she feels fortunate.

"I am so pleased to have spent much of my life involved in such a worthwhile endeavor," she said.

Terry is proud of her extended family, noting that her son John Milligan, a Southern High School alumnus, is a graduate of Penn State, earning a degree in finance. He also served four years in the U.S. Navy. He now works as a financial advisor for American Express in Philadelphia. Dane Huxford, also a graduate of Southern, recently earned a master's degree in communications from West Virginia University. A resident of Manassas, Va., he now develops training courses for the Internet for Computer Associates. Holly Huxford earned a law enforcement degree at her father's alma mater, Auburn University, Alabama. She is a dispatcher for the Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack. Dusty and Elizabeth's two daughters, Emily and Rachael, will most likely help enliven Terry's retirement.

Dusty said he hopes the financial industry will someday realize what a positive impact Terry and his father made through their years of dedication and hard work.

"Terry's heart and soul has always been a part of FCSI and, as a result, part of the software products FCSI produces," Dusty said. "Because of the magnitude of exposure of FCSI's software products, the financial industry as a whole has been exposed to her heart and soul.

"Unfortunately, the industry may never truly comprehend the contributions Terry Huxford has made and the resultant impact she has had. Her involvement in providing cutting edge software, along with David Huxford and the staff of FCSI, forced the entire industry to recognize the value of computing in a time when many did not recognize it, or, at best, questioned it. What we all take for granted now was conceptualized, pioneered, and tamed by Dave and Terry Huxford," Dusty said.

The CEO said Terry's retirement is being met with mixed emotions at the local company.

"We all love Terry and are excited about the opportunities of retirement for her," he said. "She deserves the rest from the day-in and day-out grind of software development. However, at the same time, we will miss her contributions, talent, and wisdom. Our commitment is to continue her and Dave's legacy to the best of our ability and ensure the financial industry eventually officially recognizes their contributions."

The best of luck to you, Mrs. Terry Huxford, and thanks to you, too, for helping plant the seeds of something wonderful.

"IT'S IMPORTANT TO CELEBRATE LIFE," said Terry Huxford in discussing her career that was so obviously punctuated with the untimely loss of her husband Dave. GOSNELL SPEAKS TO DAR CHAPTER — A recent meeting of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution featured a presentation by guest speaker Rachael L. Gosnell, who is entering her final year this fall as a midshipman at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis. The Garrett County native told the gathering that her interest in the academy stemmed from her visit there when she was a fourth-grader at Accident Elementary School. "About 15 percent of those now admitted are women," she stated, and although "it is a difficult program for women, they are treated fairly. Students must work as a team or they won't make it." The meeting, which had opened with a ritual ceremony led by Regent Phyllis Trickett followed by Gosnell's introduction by Vice Regent Leona Hardesty, concluded with a gift presentation for the speaker. Shown at the proceedings are, from left, Hardesty, Gosnell, and Trickett. Persons interested in receiving information about DAR membership may contact Mrs. Randall Kahl at 301-334-8603.

New Federal Report Says Economy In Maryland Stagnated In The '90s

By Rachel Brown
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - A new United States Commerce Department report ranked Maryland among the 10 states with the slowest annual growth in economic output from 1992 to 1998. The report, released Tuesday, said Maryland's gross state product grew at an average annual rate of 2.9 percent over the six years, 1 percent below the national average. It said the gross state product "is often considered the state counterpart of the nation's GDP (gross domestic product)."

The national recession, agricultural slowdowns, and declines in manufacturing were cited as factors that may have contributed to Maryland's sluggish economic output during the years in question.

But state business and economic officials said they were not overly concerned with the report. Pradeep Ganguly, an economist with the state's Department of Business and Economic Development, said the gross state product is an important measure of the total wealth in the state. But he said that the report's findings do not accurately reflect current trends in Maryland's economy.

"You need to look at the decade of the 1990s in two different segments," said Ganguly. "The Maryland economy came out of the recession slower than the nation as a whole, but beginning in 1996 you will find a complete reversal of that trend. Maryland's economy has consistently outperformed the national average [since 1996]."

Ganguly said the Commerce Department's figures correctly portray the impact of the recession, the defense cutbacks, and downsizing in construction during the early 1990s. He pointed out that a late-1990s upswing in the high-technology sector has eased the effects of the earlier economic downturn. He said that currently Maryland is 11th in the country in job growth.

Anirban Basu, a Towson State University economist, said that much of the state's previous slump came before it transitioned from an "old economy" to a "new economy," driven by high-technology industries. The manufacturing and agricultural sectors have shrunk while high-tech firms are continuing to expand.

The downside of that shift is seen on the farm. Ray Garibay, a statistician with the state's Department of Agriculture, said that more and more of Maryland's farmers are leaving agriculture or finding other jobs to supplement their farming income.

"We have seen middle-sized farms go out of business," Garibay said. "This land is taken over by larger producers and part-time farmers."

The total number of farms has decreased from approximately 13,000 in 1997 to 12,400 by 1999, he said.

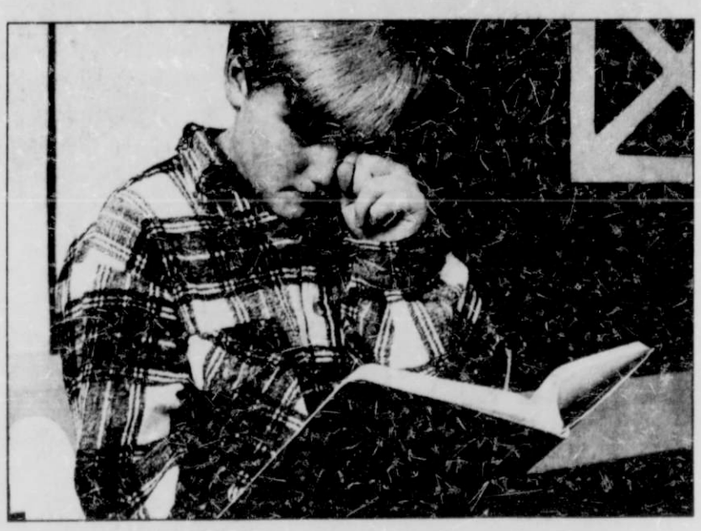
Kathy Snyder, president and CEO of the Maryland Chamber of Commerce, had not reviewed the Commerce Department's report, but her initial reaction concurred with Basu and Ganguly.

"I am a little surprised [by the report's figures], but I can tell you that we were hit very hard by the recession," Snyder said. "Maryland has come a long way and we have had tremendous success in the last couple of years."

Snyder's optimism is not shared by all. President of Maryland Business for Responsive Government Robert Worcester said that the gross state product figures "really cast doubt on our position as one of the best states [economically]."

He added that the real measure of an economy's health is how well it does in bad times, not how well it does in good times.

When Was The Last Time Your Children Had A Professional Eye Exam?



Like most parents, you probably take your children to the pediatrician for an annual school physical and you'd never miss those twice yearly visits to the dentist to make sure their teeth stay healthy.

But what about their eyes?

The ABC's of eyecare

Chances are you're leaving it up to the school nurse to use the "Big E" eye chart to find any vision problems. But, did you know that those in-school screenings detect only 20 to 30 percent of vision problems in children? Young children can pass that test and still have an undiagnosed eye problem that can cause learning difficulties.

According to the Better Vision Institute, a child's eyesight accounts for 80 percent of his or her learning ability in the first 12 years of life. A child who doesn't see clearly can suffer academically, athletically, even emotionally and socially.

Your children are growing and changing every day. So are their eyes. That's why it is important for them to have a professional Annual Back-to-School Checkup.

By ensuring your children are free of vision problems, you'll give them the best chance to perform to their fullest potential. It's as simple as ABC!

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

This Labor Day weekend on our farm in Bittinger was pretty quiet. Word about the shaky state of affairs here reached from as far away as London, New Mexico, and California, and none of them showed up for our annual party. Our many friends from Maryland were aware of the problem and stayed home. And our old local friends were rocked by an even more tragic event, as one of us is gravely ill with a brain tumor in the hospital in Baltimore. It is truly astonishing of the effectiveness of the "Garrett County Grapevine," which carries both good and especially bad news to people who care.

This weekend I talked to at least a half-dozen people from Garrett County about Andy McGowan and his wife Gloria, who was in Baltimore with him following surgery. We need to muster much support and prayers for them. Richard and Melodee Hill went down with clothes and other things Gloria needed, and especially with their love and support. We all wish we could go down and have a good Labor Day party for Andy in his room in ICU, but of course, that is impossible. I know from my own experience that only family is allowed to visit patients in the ICU, but when I was on the critical list, Lloyd was certainly happy when friends were there for him. I was even happy to know they were out in the waiting room and thought I could faintly hear their voices.

Last Thursday evening was lovely and so sad. I watched the sunset from my front porch while Claire played her clarinet. She has really come a long way on her clarinet. Meanwhile, I watched Caitlin and Mere swinging on our big swing under our big maple tree on the front lawn. I hate to say that already one of the branches on the tree has turned orange and red. This summer has gone so fast. Mere jumped off the swing and then danced a kind of freeform modern dance. The weather was a bit muggy, but maybe we can have a few more evenings like last Thursday.

We got out a really great find at a yard sale, which was an electric homemade ice cream freezer. When I was a kid nothing made me more happy than when we got out the old crank ice cream freezer and made ice cream from scratch. We made vanilla frozen yogurt after having difficulty getting the handle on the machine. You used to pour salt on the ice cream until it was really hard to turn the crank. Then if we were lucky, Mom made hot fudge syrup. I know a lot about good ice cream, but I think the best I ever ate was around 1963 or thereabout when we made homemade banana or vanilla. This Sunday I made a whole recipe from scratch. Now I need to get Lloyd to get the machinery set up and then less than a half hour from now, we will have a bunch of fresh ice cream.

A few Labor Day visitors did roll in on Sunday. The crowd is up at my sister's house for a cookout. But my little brother, Barry Glotfelty, Thurmont, did drop in. He said his elderly neighbor has an awesome garden, but said he never remembered worse weather for gardening, with almost daily rain. Barry also commented that it was a rough year for haymaking. Most people who have a farm background notice the weather measure by whether or not you can get a field of hay in without it getting wet.

It is also tough for house painting, as Barry attests to this year. He has been busy painting his house, including the roof. Besides Barry, his better half, Lisa Sheirer, and our cousin, Mike Englar, Westminster, also visited. I expect Mike's mother, Helen Englar, was too tired to come up after just spending a few weeks in Finland, Russia, Eustonia, and other countries in northern Europe. She was accompanied by her cousin, Rhea Hetrick, Salisbury, Pa. Mike reported that she had a great three weeks, and her case of shingles did not cause too much of a problem. She plans to visit Garrett County, probably next weekend. I look forward to her coming since she is the best weeder in Maryland. Even our famous "Snake" Jim Fahey of D.C. and Dan Armecost were around for the weekend. Besides their bird walks, everyone wanted to go check out Courtney's new house, still in its early construction stage. Danny helped him install a window on Saturday, and most of the other guests who will still be around on Monday plan a view of the construction site in the Cove.

My little garden plot is filled with weeds and ready to go to seed and spread more pests for next year. It is too late for this year. My couple tomato plants do have some tomatoes, but are still green as grass. It is not only my plants, as I chatted with Adelaid Savage in Hoyes and she says the same thing goes for her tomatoes. Just like Barry's neighbor said, "Too much rain and not enough sunshine."

This morning I heard a big flock of geese fly over. I did not see them since here in Bittinger we are covered with a thick blanket of fog. At least we are not in the drought mode, so we do not have to worry about wild fires, although the Bittinger Fire Department responded on Sunday to a small grass and brush fire on Foye Road. It was quickly brought under control.

Monday was a true "Labor Day" at Emmanuel Lutheran, with an extra bonus of fun and fellowship. Much was accomplished as we move toward our dedication service on September 30. The old church should be razed by week's end. Thank you to all who helped.

Pastor Pat was a recent luncheon guest of Sally Poholsky, along with Ferne Beachy.

Pam Poholsky, Murrysville, Pa., was a Labor Day weekend visitor of the Poholskys. Torrey Poholsky suffered a slight concussion while practicing with the Northern junior varsity soccer team on Friday evening. Tuesday evening was the first game at Southern, with Brent Housley, Derek Buckel, Eric Garlitz, and Torrey as the "Bittinger Crew" on the JV soccer team.

Since everyone is asking Courtney what plans has he to get the old farm back into production again, he may have plans for the future, but right now he plans to do a lot of bird watching, which is one of his favorite things to do. He has a healthy population of wild birds, especially the Henslaw sparrow. According to Bittinger bird expert Kevin Dodge, Garrett County is the only county in Maryland that has this species.

Now I want to tell you about the Henslaw sparrow, which is a threatened species. They live in grasslands in colonies of two or three and up to two dozen breeding pairs. Since Courtney's field was out of production for hay or pasture for many years, the sparrow found a perfect place for a fairly large colony. Courtney is still uncertain about how many are there. It sounds like a dream come true for an ardent bird enthusiast like Courtney. He can look out from his own home on a field with unusual bird activity. If he puts his mind to it, he may someday be a leading expert about the Henslaw sparrow. He could photograph them, observe their habits, and monitor their breeding activities. Perhaps even he could write a book or article on them.

I am tempted to do the same thing with our barn swallow colony. I have loved the barn swallows my whole life. I adore their cool kind of mug igloo where they nest, and when the babies stick their heads to look out they are so adorable. They are the sassiest baby birds I know.

A friend was recently hunting on a crop damage permit on our farm in the brush below our barn. He spotted a doe deer and killed it. Before he could get out of a deer stand to bring it in, three bears appeared immediately and confiscated it. They have been seen in the woods previously and have been doing considerable damage to the corn fields.

Now an essential part of Labor Day! Just pulling in was a van filled with more than a dozen kids, the cousins, plus the Herpel triplets, driven by, who else, Snake Jim. The kids harassed him until he agreed to take the annual snake hunt. Claire said it was one of the best. They found three milk snakes, eight brown snakes, and a couple of garter snakes. He always teaches them so much great nature lore. When they got back the little boys formed a freeform percussion band. They beat on big rocks, bottles, cans, trees, and the fireplace with sticks. They really did a good job, I must say.

While the boys made noise, the gang of girls ran over to the ponies and horses. No doubt, in general, little girls are much more attracted to equines. Why? Who knows. Our dogs are so happy that the gang of kids came back after a long lonely first week of school. They really miss my girls when they are away for any length of time. They mope around with sad eyes and listen to catch a hint of sound of their girls on the way. They can predict when the school bus will arrive about 15 minutes before it shows up in the afternoon and lie waiting by the tree.

Farmers See Market Options Dwindle In Face Of Low Prices

National Farmers Union (NFU) urged the Department of Justice (DOJ) to investigate Smithfield Foods Inc. for its investment in IBP Inc. The family farmer and rancher organization called for a judgment on possible antitrust violations in this exchange between the two largest players in the pork processing industry.

"This concentration of control further diminishes a waning competitive environment where hog farmers have little power to demand a fair price for their livestock," said NFU president Leland Swenson. "Four firms now control over half of the pork slaughter in this country, with Smithfield being the biggest of all. Smithfield also controls 70 percent of the animals they slaughter. Processors are engaged in an attempt to control the food supply from gene to dinner table. This latest action is another step toward corporate control of our food system."

Virginia-based Smithfield, acquired 6.3 percent of IBP, which is the next largest competitor in the pork processing industry. In addition, Smithfield has purchased the hog processing operations from Murphy Farms and Carroll Foods, two other pork industry giants, in recent years. The 6.6 million shares of IBP now owned by Smithfield should trigger an antitrust violation.

"Competition is the basis for ensuring fair markets," said Swenson. "It is the basis for establishing fair prices for consumers and producers. We do not believe it is possible for one company to possess such a substantial interest in its chief competitor and maintain an open and competitive marketplace. Competition is fundamental to agriculture—and American culture—and is the reason behind the development of antitrust laws. These laws must be enforced."

This week, Smithfield reported record profits in the quarter ending June 30. The company has seen a six-fold increase in net income and a more than five-fold increase in net income per share. These profits far outpace Wall Street targets.

"Smithfield is realizing profits that boggle the mind of market analysts," added Swenson. "We have nothing against profit and do not intend to begrudge Smithfield of theirs. Still, we take serious issue with the tactics used to ensure this profit while making it more and more difficult for pork producers to achieve a fair price in the market place.

Southern States Plans Meeting In Eglon, WV

"Seventy-seven years ago, farmers organized Virginia Seed Service which later became Southern States Cooperative to serve their basic agricultural production needs. Through the years, the cooperative has been innovative in providing new products and services to help farmers improve their livelihood," says Carroll Gilbert, the cooperative's director of member relations.

"Growing Solutions Since 1923," the current local annual membership meeting theme, reflects the regional co-op's "continuing dedication to improve farm inputs and services," added Gilbert.

Election of local board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee (FHAC) members are important features of the annual membership meeting for Eglon Farm Service Inc.

Board nominees will be taken from the floor.

The FHAC slate consists of the appointment procedure being used.

A slide/tape presentation "Positioning in the 21st Century" featuring senior management will discuss the co-op's progress and dynamics.

Local operating statements and services provided to the agricultural community will be discussed with retiring FHAC and board members being recognized.

The meeting is scheduled for 8:30 p.m., Mon., Sept. 11, at Maple Springs Church of the Brethren, Eglon, WV.

Southern States, founded in 1923, is a farmer-owned cooperative operating in 16 states stretching from Michigan to Florida and west to Louisiana. The Richmond, Va., based firm is one of the largest U.S. farmer cooperatives, manufacturing, purchasing, or processing feed, seed, fertilizer and fuel. It also sells farm, animal health, lawn, home and garden supplies through 751 local dealers in its operating territory. In addition, Southern States gins cotton and markets livestock, small grains, corn, peanuts and soybeans. In its fiscal year ending June 30, 1999, Southern States membership totaled about 321,000 and had sales of $1.3 billion.

USDA Announces Referendum For Pork Checkoff

Secretary Dan Glickman authorized a vote on continuation of the checkoff program in February. The congressionally mandated pork checkoff program is funded by assessments collected from producers when hogs are sold. The funds are used for pork promotion, research, and consumer information. Program funds cannot be used to affect the outcome of the referendum vote.

The final referendum rules provide for in-person voting September 19-21 at the local FSA office. Absentee ballots may be requested through Sept. 18. Producers, including 4-H participants, who have owned and sold one or more pigs or hogs at any time from Aug. 18, 1999, through Aug. 17, 2000, are eligible to vote.

Farming In Maryland.....

Union Urges Dairy Co-ops To Stop Purchase Of Powdered Imports

National Farmers Union (NFU) has urged major dairy cooperatives and plants around the country to halt their purchase of imported nonfat dry milk until the Class IV price has reached a level of $14.50 per cwt. This call comes in the light of low dairy prices, increased purchases of surplus non-fat-dry milk produced in the U.S. by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), and a 600 percent increase in imports of milk protein concentrate (MPC) since 1995.

"The farmers I have spoken with while traveling around the country have all urged action to provide price relief," said NFU president Leland Swenson. "In this low-price climate, it is alarming that the CCC has to purchase surplus powdered milk product in the U.S. at a time when we are seeing an increase in their imports."

Farmers Union is calling on dairy cooperatives and plants to take the following steps:

1. Stop the purchase of any imported non-fat dry milk or MPC until the Class IV price has reached a level of $14.50 per cwt.

2. Support the call for a federal investigation to see if any plants use imported MPC in the production of natural cheese.

3. Support implementation of greater accountability of imported MPC through end use certification by all processing plants and increased surveillance and enforcement by state and federal agencies.

Because of low prices, the CCC has been making purchases of dairy products, the majority of which is nonfat dry milk. The excess supply, and the resulting low prices, can only be aggravated by bringing in more imports.

"While Congress is considering whether to provide a limited amount of relief to dairy farmers, possibly $443 million, this will make up only a fraction of the amount producers have lost as a result of the unusually low market prices," said Swenson. "Dairy farmers need allies in restoring profitability to the industry and stemming the loss of dairy farmers."

Indiana Swine Sale Smashes All Records

Agriculture Online reported this week that never before in the history of the swine seedstock business have so many sold for such high prices at the Hampshire and Yorkshire sale of purebred boars and gilts at the 2000 Indiana State Fair, last weekend in Indianapolis.

Heading the list of record breakers was a Hampshire boar owned by S&M Hampshires, Cledonia, Minn. This Reserve Champion boar had only .29-in. backfat and a whopping 10.2-square-inch loin eye. It sold for an all-time record of $135,000.

The Grand Champion Yorkshire, shown by Scott and Jayme Sieren of Keota, Iowa, sold for $77,000. He was produced using semen from the previous record holder, a boar that sold for $54,000 at last year's World Pork Expo. This boar had .32-in. of backfat and an 11-square-inch loin eye.

Maryland Dairy Industry Assn. To Hold Meeting

Representatives of Maryland's $1 billion dairy industry will gather in Westminster, on Thurs., Nov. 30, for the Maryland Dairy Industry Association's (MDIA) 2000 annual meeting. The headquarters is Wilhelm, Ltd. Catering's conference center at 1011 Baltimore Blvd. (Md. Rt. 140), at the edge of the Carroll County seat town.

The theme is "A Team Approach to Dairying," featuring Dr. William Heald of Penn State University, and Carl Theunis, chief executive officer of Tinedale Farms in Kaukauna, Wisconsin. Both will outline plans and benefits for bringing all members of the dairy "team" together for maximum profit and productivity. Events are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., and to conclude with a silent auction of dairy equipment and supplies at 3:30 p.m.

"Recent industry trends have led dairy farmers to pool their resources with family members and other associates to achieve more economical operations," said MDIA president Myron L. Wilhide, a fifth-generation dairy producer from Detour, (Carroll County). "MDIA believes that maximizing returns through a team approach will be a timely and relevant topic for dairy producers in Maryland and the Mid-Atlantic region."

Selected industry speakers and state officials are scheduled to attend, as well as exhibitors representing cooperatives, animal health companies, and other suppliers supporting the important dairy industry. Other speakers will brief producers and industry representatives on environmental and economic issues affecting dairy operations, and present an innovative team approach for total dairy quality farm management.

"MDIA's annual meetings have become one of the largest gatherings for the state's dairy industry," says MDIA vice-president and program co-chair Will Godwin of Hagerstown (Washington County). "As dairy producers face new challenges with production, nutrient management, and product marketing, obtaining new ideas for maximizing resources will be essential for the continued viability of independent family-owned dairy farms."

Maryland dairy farms produce over 400,000 gallons of fresh milk daily, and contribute over $1 billion to Maryland's economy annually. In doing so, Maryland dairy farms maintain 352,000 acres as productive open space.

For additional information or questions on MDIA's 2000 annual meeting, those interested may contact Paul Weller, MDIA executive director, or Jonathan Moore, MDIA assistant executive director, at: 202/293-0476.

On average, every hour, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, around $6 million in U.S. agricultural products — grains, oilseeds, cotton, meats, vegetables, snack foods, etc. — will be consigned for shipment for export to foreign markets.

Home Vegetable Gardening Tips

This is a good time to locate a source of garlic cloves and multiplier onions for planting in October and November. Purchase bulbs from a reputable seed company. Do not use store bought garlic for planting because of the significant risk of introducing white rot, a devastating fungal disease.

Harlequin bugs, cabbage aphids, cabbage flea beetles and several different caterpillars are all significant pests of members of the kale and broccoli family. Use a floating row cover to exclude them or be prepared to spray with a labeled insecticide.

If your winter squashes and pumpkins are full-sized, fully colored and the rind is hardened, cut them from the vine leaving a 4-5 inch handle and store in a cool location until ready to use.

Brown and green Southern stinkbugs are active on tomatoes and peppers. They feed on the fruits producing a yellow or white "cloudy spot" directly under the fruit skin. These spots become hard but can be cut out with a sharp knife and won't affect flavor. If stinkbugs are a problem, try handpicking or spraying pyrethrum. The spray must contact the stinkbugs to be effective.

Low yields and slow ripening of tomatoes is caused by a combination of low temperatures and cloudy, wet weather. To avoid disease and insect problems on ripening tomatoes try harvesting them when they first change color and let them ripen indoors, unrefrigerated.

Defoliation of tomato plants is caused by fungal diseases like early blight and septoria leaf spot. These diseases start out early in the season as small leaf spots which enlarge and spread as the season progresses. Foliage loss often leads to reduced yields and sunburning of exposed fruits. If you have persistent problems with foliar diseases follow these steps next year: Rotate your tomato crop to a new area of the garden, increase the spacing between plants; cover the soil with a mulch to prevent the pathogen from splashing from the soil to the foliage; remove badly infected leaves during the growing season; spray labeled fungicides, like copper or Daconil 2787; pull up and dispose of infected plants at the end of the season; and don't compost these plants unless they can be shredded and hot composted.

Many vegetables need to be cured or dried and then stored under proper conditions. Onions should be harvested when tops die back. Let them dry in the garden after digging or tie the stems together and hang in a garage, attic or shed. When the neck is tight and the outer scales dry, trim the tops and roots within an inch or two of the bulb and store in a cool, dry location.

Harvest your pumpkins and winter squashes when the rind hardens. This will probably happen prior to the first frost. Be careful not to nick or bruise the fruits and store them in a dry location at 50-55° F.

Sweet potato roots will continue to enlarge until frost so check root size to determine when to harvest. Handle harvested roots gently and cure the roots by storing them at 85° F. and high humidity for 4-7 days. Thereafter, your sweet potatoes can be stored in a cool, dry location.

Dig white storage potatoes on a cloudy, warm day after plants begin to die back. Let them lay on the ground for a few hours before bringing them inside. They should not be washed. Store potatoes in a dark, cool location (35E-40EF.)

Gourds should be allowed to dry on the vine and harvested prior to frost, leaving 2-3 inches of stem for a handle. Let them cure in a well-ventilated, cool dark location. Rub each gourd gently with rubbing alcohol or a weak bleach solution and don't allow them to touch one another.

Sunflowers can be harvested when the backs of the flowers are dry. Cut the stalks one foot below the flower head, tie them together and hang upside down in a cool dry place.

Cover crops of oats, winter rye, winter wheat and hairy vetch can be sown through the middle of October. Seeds should be in close contact with soil to promote germination.

What Hit the Sweet Corn?

Several sweet corn producers are losing their crop to the Northern Corn Leaf Blight (NCLB). This disease is caused by a fungus and is characterized by the leaves turning rusty brown. Unfortunately, this disease stops the corn development almost completely. One producer said that "although the ear appeared normal, it tasted like field corn." The disease is more prevalent on late maturing varieties. Silver Queen seems to be the most susceptible.

NCLB is a disease that is normally around, but this season the fungi found the wet conditions just right for a population explosion. It probably would be wise to avoid planting any varieties that been severely infected by NCLB next year. Silver Queen has been a very popular variety over the years, but there are other varieties that are equally good.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age or national origin.

The fourth annual Autumn Hopefest, which benefits the House of Hope, has been scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 25, from 7 until 11 p.m. This evening of entertainment and food will be held at the McHenry House at Wisp Resort.

The evening will feature a full dinner buffet from The Place restaurant and Pizzazz Pizzeria, plus dancing to the sounds of DJ Jonny Rock. Price of admission also includes beer, wine, and soft drinks throughout the evening. A cash bar will also be available.

"This event helps raise awareness for the House of Hope, which has served Garrett County for more than 20 years, while also allowing the participants to have a great time for a great cause," said Fund-Raising Committee chairperson Carol Smith.

Coordinators have arranged a variety of events for the evening, including door prizes and local "celebrity" guest bartenders. The popular silent and "Chinese" auctions will also be repeated this year. "The business community has been so generous over the past three years," stated Patty Wells, House of Hope board member. "We have raised over $4,000 at the past three events just from our auctions."

Admission to the event requires a $30 minimum donation per person in advance, or $35 per person at the door. Tickets are available for sale at Just Us Styling & Tanning Salon in Accident, Pizzazz Pizzeria in the Wisp Resort, McHenry, and Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland. Noted Scholar Will Open FSU Film Festival

The nation's preeminent scholar on the black presence in film, Dr. Thomas Cripps, will launch the Frostburg State University African American Film Festival with a keynote address on Thursday, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lane Center Multi-Use Room.

Co-sponsored by the FSU Department of History, Center Stage, and the African American Studies Program, the lecture and film series is free and open to the public.

In his lecture, Cripps will set the stage for the film festival and discuss recent innovations from Spike Lee and other current figures involved with African American films.

Cripps, now retired, is distinguished professor emeritus at Morgan State University, and has been a visiting professor at Harvard and Stanford universities and the University of Delaware. As coordinator of the University Television Project, he has produced programs that were later syndicated on commercial television. In addition, he has been involved with more than 100 television and radio programs.

A prolific author, Cripps has written authoritative books, articles, and essays on African American film and culture. His books include Slow Fade to Black: The Negro in American Film, 1900-1942; Black Film as Genre, and Making Movies Black: The Hollywood Message Movie from World War II to the Civil Rights Era. More than 50 of his articles have appeared in a host of scholarly publications on film, history, the media, and American culture. Two of his essays have won prizes: the 1962 George P. Hammond Prize for "The Negro Reaction to The Birth of a Nation" and the 1982 Charles Thomson Prize from the Organization of American Historians and the Archives of the United States for "Movies, Race, and World War II."

In addition, Cripps has lectured extensively throughout the United States and overseas. His numerous appearances include the American Film Institute, the Museum of Modern Art, several universities including Yale, Columbia, and Howard, the Foreign Service Institute, and the Voice of the America.

His honors include grants and fellowships from such notable organizations as the National Endowment for the Humanities, the American Council of Learned Societies, and the Rockefeller Foundation Study Center.

The African American Film Series features four classic films, with one scheduled per month from September through December. All films will be shown in Room 201 of the Lane Center at 7 p.m. The films to be shown are:

No Way Out, Thursday, Sept. 28; Nothing but a Man (1964), Tuesday, Oct. 31; Raisin in the Sun (1961), Thursday, Nov. 30; and Do the Right Thing (1990), Monday, Dec. 11.

FSU To Host Mapapa African Acrobats Sept. 23

Scheduled to perform in Frostburg State University's Cordts Center Main Arena are the Mapapa African Acrobats, who will present a unique show that has been described as a hit with audiences and critics around the globe. The acrobats will combine ancient Chinese acrobatics with East African dance moves.

The group will perform on Saturday, Sept. 23, at 8:30 p.m. as part of the Endless Summer theme of FSU's Parents' Weekend 2000 and its Cultural Events Series.

Described as part Cirque du Soleil and part Harlem Globetrotters, the group's leader, Matano Ismael, says, "We are an African circus show with dancing." Included are balancing acts, tumbling, hoop jumping, contortions, and a fire show. The Acrobats like to lure members of the audience into conga lines, limbo contests, and rope skipping.

Raves from audiences and critics have followed the Acrobats since their 1999 arrival in the U.S. from their native Kenya. Three months after their U.S. debut, the troupe began a string of performances for almost every NBA team and soon opened tours for such popular acts as Monica and Blackstreet. They have just completed an original CD, World Traveler, blending contemporary world music trends with African styles.

This event is presented in partnership with the FSU Campus Activities Board.

For information and ticket reservations, persons may contact the CES Box Office in the Lane Center, Monday through Friday, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., at 301-687-4411. Based on availability, tickets may also be purchased at the Cordts Center box office an hour before the show.

Robert Shimer Is Appointed To Fire Commission

Col. David B. Mitchell, secretary, Department of State Police, State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele, and Chairman Edward Sherlock announce that Robert H. Shimer has been appointed to the State Fire Prevention Commission by Governor Parris N. Glendening. Shimer recently retired as chief deputy of the State Fire Marshal's Office after 28 years of service. He is a lifelong resident of Westernport, and will represent the state's western region on the commission.

Shimer replaces I. Robert Rudy, Oakland, who served two four-year terms on the commission.

This also includes conducting appeals hearings to clarify, interpret, and adjudicate questions about and violations of the State Fire Prevention Code.

Upon the occasion of this appointment, Gabriele stated, "Chief Shimer is an outstanding choice for the Fire Prevention Commission. His understanding of the Fire Prevention Code and his concern for the safety of our citizens will be a great benefit to the commission and the state in general."

Intro To Small Business Offered

The Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College is offering Intro to Small Business, an introductory course for those individuals contemplating starting his/her own business. Serving as instructor will be established small-business owner Madeleine Collins.

Topics to be covered during this two-session class include: start-up considerations, marketing, financing, management, and types of ownership.

The class will meet on two consecutive Monday evenings, beginning September 25, from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. at the McHenry campus. For registration information, persons may telephone the GCC Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080.

DEEP CREEK BAPTIST CHURCH SETS SPECIAL CONCERT — Heart Song, a Greenville, S.C.-based trio, will present a free concert of southern gospel music at Deep Creek Lake Baptist Church on Sunday, Sept. 10, from 10:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Heart Song's members, shown above from the left, are the married couple of Joyce and Hugh Gilham, and Joan Brush (Joyce's sister). The group has been active in full-time music ministry since 1996, and has sung throughout the states of the Eastern seaboard. The concert, which will replace the regular morning worship service, is free; however, an opportunity will be provided to make donations to meet expenses for the event. The Deep Creek Lake Baptist Church is located along Garrett Highway across from Uno Restaurant.

GCC To Offer Computer Sessions

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College is offering five introductory "quick" sessions to help individuals overcome fears about the personal computer. Each session will help computer owners understand the foreign language and techniques of their computer. Participants may choose any class. No prerequisite is required.

The first in the computer introduction series, "Start at the Very Beginning," is a two-hour, one-session class meeting on Monday, Sept. 18, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. This class will give the participant a tour of the computer's features, lingo, and capabilities.

The second through fifth classes are described as follows. (Each class will meet for two sessions, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.) "Mouse Moves & Clicks" — using drag and drop tricks that will show the student how to open those Windows and use the timesaving features — will meet September 19 and 20. "Computer Taming" will demonstrate how to master the basics with emphasis on practical solutions and shortcuts. The class will meet on September 25 and 27. "Surf the Net" will show the student how to use search engine applications and avenues of the World Wide Web. It will meet October 2 and 4. The last course, "e-Mail — Quick & Cheap," discusses the World Wide Web, Hot Mail, and more, showing various techniques for corresponding, storing information, and obtaining responses. This class will meet October 9 and 11.

For additional information and registration for this series, persons may contact the Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069. There is an added differential fee for out-of-county residents. Maryland senior citizens, over age 60, pay a reduced fee.

"REAL ESTATE TALK"

Question: I'm thinking about selling my house in the near future. I know my house needs repairs. If I do all the repairs to the house, can I raise the sale price to cover the money that I spend for the repairs? (Mrs. M, Oakland)
Answer: Good question, Mrs. M. I'm asked this question often. You should consider what type of repairs are needed. If the roof, plumbing, electrical, heating, etc., need repair or replacing, it would be necessary to take care of these, not only for the resale value, but also for your safety and the safety of the property. Repairs that could raise the property value are remodeling a kitchen or bathroom, or adding a deck or patio. Improvements that may not pay are over improvements like adding a swimming pool, an addition, or elaborate landscaping. Remember, "Keep it simple, but keep it nice."
The best advice I can give you is to talk to your Real Estate professional. He or she can advise you on what you should improve, or what you should just let be. Thank you for your question, and we hope that we have given you some ideas that will help.

A Clean Slate

It is time to begin a new year of growth. There will be new teachers, plus exciting and challenging learning material. We will forget the mistakes of last year or learn from them and begin again, ready and refreshed.

The instruction of our children will determine the future of our world. Philosophers of old realized the importance of education. We read in Proverbs 4:13... "Take fast hold of instruction; let her not go; keep her; for she is thy life." In this time of more and more expensive toys and designer clothing for children, the greatest gift we can give to our youngsters is to help them become excited about education.

May we also provide our children with an opportunity for their spiritual education; the mind, the body, and the spirit must flow in harmony for total growth to be realized. Worship together as a family regularly. You can begin each week with a clean slate.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALLHOUSE

TALKING BACK TO GOD

September 10, 2000

Background Scripture: Judges 6 through 8.
Devotional Reading: Joshua 1:1-9.

It is unthinkable, isn't it? Talking back to God!

Yet, Job talked back to God and the Lord did not punish him for doing so, did he?

Gideon is another person who did not hesitate to challenge and complain to God. Like Job, Gideon did not suffer rebuke or punishment for daring to question the veracity of the Lord. Perhaps there is something in Gideon's experience that could be helpful also to us.

The background situation in Joshua 6 through 8 is familiar: "The people of Israel did what was evil in the sight of the Lord; and the Lord gave them into the hand of Midian seven years... When the people of Israel cried to the Lord on account of the Midianites, the Lord sent a prophet to the people of Israel..." (6:1,7,8).

The prophet sent on this occasion was Gideon, a man who didn't know that he was "sent" by the Lord. In fact, when the angel of the Lord appears to him, he is beating out wheat in the wine press of his father, Joash. Told, "The Lord is with you, you mighty man of valor," Gideon does not beat around the bush in his reply: "Pray, sir, if the Lord is with us, why then has all this befallen us? And where are all his wonderful deeds which our fathers recounted to us...the Lord has cast us off, and given us into the hand of Midian" (6:12,13).

The Patient Lord

Ouch! That is calling God to account in very uncertain terms. But, note, the angel of God does not level Gideon with a mighty blow or consign him to the nethermost regions of Hell. Instead, God recognizes Gideon as a stalwart and courageous man with honest questions. And, turning to Gideon, the Lord says to him: "Go in this might of yours and deliver Israel from the hand of Midian; do not I send you?" (6:14). God did not requite Gideon for his testiness; he wanted to use it for his own purposes. You are upset, Gideon? Fine, use your hostility to help my people!

Do you think that perhaps God answers us similarly when, upset about some situation in our lives or in the world about us, we complain and ask why God has not done something about it?

Gideon is not silenced by God's agreeable response to him and he replies, his tone tinged with sarcasm: "Pray, :Lord, how can I deliver Israel? Behold, my clan is the weakest in Manasseh, and I am the least in my family" (6:15). No matter what God asks us to be or do, we can always find good reasons to disbelieve that we heard him rightly or that he really understands what he is asking.

But, God Is Able!

We might assume that God had been patient long enough with this man, but the Lord's response is not condemnatory: "But I will be with you, and you shall smite the Midianites as one man." From the beginning of human history, this has been God's response to those who claim they are not equal to the task. Gideon is quite correct: he is not able——but God is! Whenever God calls us to do something for him, it is never because by ourselves we are equipped to accomplish the task. God simply sees in us the possibility of doing it if we let the Spirit of the Lord take possession of us.

Gideon, however, is not convinced. "If now I have found favor with thee, then show me a sign that it is thou who speakest with me" (6:17). In Judges 6:19-22 God gives Gideon a pretty impressive sign. That should have ended Gideon's doubts, but later in the valley of Jezreel, Gideon demands another sign. If God will really deliver Israel by his hand, then let the Lord make moist with dew the sheepskin that Gideon places on the threshing floor. Once again, God does not chastise this questioning man, but gives him the sign he sought.

Surely, now Gideon is ready to accept the call of God, but he says, "Let not thy anger burn against me, let me speak but this once; pray, let me make trial only this once with the fleece" and he goes on to outline yet another test of God's patience and will. God gives him the sign and at last Gideon is ready to do as God asks.

And how many times does God have to call us before we answer affirmatively?

Garrett County SKIES

by Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN — In September, sunlight hours each day drop from 13.1 to about 12 the end of the month. The sun's midday peak height decreases from 58 to 47 degrees (45 degrees is halfway up and 90 degrees is overhead). Sunrise times advance by about 25 minutes (from about 6:48 to 7:13 a.m.). Sunset times fall back about 45 minutes (from about 7:48 to about 7 p.m.). Sept. 22 is the first day of fall, with the sun rising due east and setting due west. Sept. 25 is the fall day when day and night are each 12 hours in length.

THE MOON — September opens with the moon as a slender crescent low in the western dusk. On Sept. 5 the evening moon is half full (looks like a "D"). This shape of the moon offers the best views of the moon's craters and mountains with binoculars and telescopes. The moon is full on Sept. 13. This is the harvest moon, the full moon closest to the start of fall, which will offer extra evening moonlight the following few evenings. The moon appears near the bright planet Jupiter and Saturn in the late evenings on Sept. 18 and 19. A week after full, the moon mainly shines in the morning hours. On Sept. 20 the moon appears half full at dawn (then looks like a backwards "D"). On Sept. 27, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. As September ends, the moon appears low in the western dusk.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even the planet's light may flicker. All five of the bright planets can be seen in September; two are easy to see while the other three are more difficult. Late in the evening the bright planet Jupiter and Saturn rise in the east. These two planets are also high in the western dawn sky. About a half hour after sunset, the innermost planets Venus and Mercury can be seen low in the west-northwest. At dawn the planet Mars can be seen in the eastern dawn, close to the bright star Regulus in midmonth.

SEPTEMBER'S BEST SIGHTS — The most arresting sight on September evenings is the summer triangle high in the south. The brightest star in the triangle is Vega, a white-blue star high in the west. On moonless nights the Milky Way runs across the left side of the triangle. The Big Dipper is to the left and below the North Star. In the north-northeast, Cassiopeia, a zig-zag star group, is striking. Low in the southeast is Fomalhaut, a bright star marking the mouth of the Southern Fish. Late in the evening, the bright planet Jupiter rises in the east.

SEPTEMBER ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES — Each Sunday the Frostburg State Planetarium has two free public presentations, at 1:30 and 7 p.m., lasting about an hour. The main feature is "Backyard Sky Gazing," a beginner's guide to sky sights both day and night. The planetarium is just off the front lobby of Tawes, with nearby convenient parking. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet Sept. 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the LaVale Public Library. All interested sky gazers are welcome. Several club members are residents of Garrett County, including vice president Gus Johnson of Swanton.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the planetarium at Frostburg State University. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask a sky question call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief program that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM, FSU's radio station that transmits at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Inkjet Printer Cartridges Can Be Recycled

The Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling has announced its establishment of an Enviro-smart Cartridge Collection Program. The program provides for the recycling of inkjet printer cartridges at no cost and with very little effort, according to Nikki Brown of the recycling office.

Brown has obtained free postage-paid mailers into which persons may put used inkjet printer cartridges for recycling. All that is required of the recycler is to put the cartridge into the mailer, seal it, and drop it in the mail, Brown said.

"Every time you recycle a cartridge, you save landfill space and reduce the amount of natural resources required to produce new cartridges," Brown said. "This is an easy and completely expense-free way of increasing recycling efforts and of doing one's part to save the environment."

Persons who use inkjet cartridges in their homes or offices and would like to participate in this new recycling program may contact Brown at 301-387-0322 or by e-mail at gcsw@gcnet.net. The postage paid mailers will be promptly sent to those requesting them.

Persons with questions or comments about this or any other recycling program in the county may also contact Brown.

Historians To Meet At Maple Glen Church

The annual meeting of the Casselman River Amish and Mennonite Historians will be held at the Maple Glen Mennonite Church on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 15 and 16, with sessions slated to begin Friday at 7 p.m. The church is located along Dorsey Hotel Road one mile north of Grantsville.

According to David I. Miller, chairman of the executive committee of the historical organization, the focus of the meeting this year is the family and church of two Amish Mennonites of the late 18th and 19th centuries, Jacob Yockley) Miller (1754-1835) and his son, Benedict Miller (1781-1837). Jacob's father, John (Hannes; Crippled John) arrived in America via the ship Phoenix in 1749. His 11 children, including Jacob, were born in Berks County, Pa. John and his wife Magdalena, as well as Jacob, pioneered in Somerset County. Later, Jacob and his wife Anna (Stutzman) pioneered in Tuscarawas County (Sugar Creek), Ohio, while Benedict remained in Somerset County because of a call to the ministry.

Benedict was married to Catherine Beachy, daughter of Peter Beachy II, and, after her death, to Catherine (Eash) Keim. Jacob last resided near Sugar Creek, Ohio, while Benedict last lived near Springs, Pa. Many descendants of Jacob and Benedict now live in the areas of Somerset and Garrett counties, according to Miller.

The program of the meeting will include input by: Joe Horner, West Liberty, Ohio, on the Berks County to Somerset County experience; David Miller, Irwin, Ohio, on Jacob Miller's move to and life in Tuscarawas County; Joanna Miller and Ruth Miller Yoder, Grantsville, on Benedict as a community leader; and Dale Yoder, Chambersburg, Pa., on Benedict as a church leader. Thirteen of Benedict's children had families and are featured in a series of biographical sketches to be presented by respective descendants. A Saturday morning tour will cover local historical Miller sites in Elk Lick Township, Somerset County.

A program flier is available by writing or calling the Casselman Historians. The address is P.O. Box 591, Grantsville, MD, 21536; the telephone number is 301-895-4488; and the e-mail address is abcdefor@juno.com.

TV PIPELINE

Jarod may return in TV movies

Q: I could handle hearing about most of the shows that won't be back next fall, but it broke my heart to learn that, after four years of loyal watching, I won't have any closure on The Pretender! Any chance of a wrap-up TV movie, as NBC did with Homicide: Life on the Street? –Peggy S., Montgomery, Ala.

A: For the past several weeks, I've been hearing off-the-record reports that a couple of TV outlets may be interested in doing one or more Pretender TV movies with Michael T. Weiss and his original colleagues.

Unfortunately, various spokespeople report that no firm commitment exists as of this writing. Watch this space for updates.

"We are very grateful to all the loyal fans who have stayed with our show and who wrote letters of support when we were canceled," says Steven Mitchell, one of the show's creators.

Q: Two oh-so-knowledgeable friends of mine have had a heated dispute with me for several years now, and I hope you can settle it: Was the show Bonanza ever shown under the title Ponderosa? I say no, and would love to be right! –Rose Heimann, Inverness, Fla.

A: Sorry, Rose, but your friends are right.

During the summer of 1972, when Bonanza was still running Sundays on NBC, the network carried Tuesday reruns from previous seasons under the title Ponderosa. That fall, Bonanza itself moved to Tuesdays for what would be its last, truncated season, ending in January.

Q: What was the name of the show starring Adrian Pasdar (Mysterious Ways) as a guy getting revenge on people who had abused him as a child? As an adult, he slept naked in a cardboard box. –Marlowe Hiles, Summit Hill, Pa.

A: That was Profit, a brilliant black comedy that aired for less than a month in the spring of 1996 on Fox. Pasdar starred as Jim Profit, a totally amoral young executive, in this complex series, which frequently leavened its drama with macabre laughs. Despite dazzling reviews, the show never found an audience on Fox.

Q: Did an actor named Olan Soule play the father of the Darling clan on The Andy Griffith Show? Is he still alive? And was that Peggy McCay of Days of Our Lives playing Andy's old sweetheart on a show about his class reunion? –Eleanor S. Flower, Ottawa, Ill.

A: Soule, a veteran character actor who died in 1994, had a recurring role as a character named John Masters on The Andy Griffith Show. Denver Pyle, who died in 1997, played Briscoe Darling. And yes, that was McCay of Days as Andy's old sweetheart.

TRIVIA

The Olympic Games originated in Greece in 776 B.C. The Games initially consisted of running events with other contests added in future years.

The Greek Olympic Games were discontinued by the end of the fourth century, but they were revived in Athens in 1896.

Silver medals were presented to victors at the first modern Olympic Games in 1896, with bronze medals awarded to second-place finishers.

The 1900 Olympic Games in Paris were attended by more athletes than observers. This was the only time croquet was an event.

AUTHOR'S NOTE

As the two movies released this week at our local Garrett Cinemas are both re-releases from earlier in the summer (Dinosaur and Gone In 60 Seconds), this week's FilmQuips contains the reprinted reviews from both those movies. Sorry, folks, but reruns beget reruns.

DINOSAUR

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:22 - Re-Released 9/1/00
(Originally Reviewed 5/25/00)

For its major summer release of 2000, Walt Disney Pictures has released Dinosaur, the second film of the last month to be set in prehistoric times. Unlike The Flintsones In Viva Rock Vegas, however, this one is a straight dinosaur story, sans hard-hatted working stiffs, created through a fortuitous marriage of what paleontology geeks know and what computer geeks can do. As one would expect, it is visually superlative, using computer animation to graft realistic-looking prehistoric creatures onto previously shot real-life backgrounds for an astoundingly natural look. In keeping with the usual Disney format, and in slight conflict with its ultra-real appearance, the principal characters of Dinosaur speak and interact with each other, learning the inevitable life lessons from their adventures together. It is an awsome experience, visually; on the story side it's a tad thin.

The most surprising thing to me about the story of Dinosaur, which was written by Thom Enriquez, Walon Green, Ralph Zondag, and several other co-writers, and directed by Eric Leighton and Ralph Zondag, are the number of striking similarities it bears to the 1988 Don Bluth cartoon The Land Before Time. I guess, to be fair, that our knowledge of the daily lives of dinosaurs and their problems would limit the number of possible storylines (after you've covered droughts, predators, and natural disasters, there isn't much else to talk about), but I would think the creators of Land would be slightly miffed at the surprising similarity of this story, especially since Bluth and Disney are competitors. But plagiarism issues aside, there are also a number of logical errors which, I think, even children might find hard to swallow. Technique triumphs over content once again.

During a breathtaking opening sequence in which we follow a stolen egg in its journey far from the nest, we are introduced to the animation-against-filmed-background technique mentioned above. The egg is deposited into the midst of a family of lemurs, who, after the tiny creature hatches, must decide what to do with it. "Things like that grow up to eat things like us," says Yar, the father (voice of Ossie Davis). But cuteness wins out, and the lemurs adopt the little shaver and rear him as one of their own. By the time he reaches young adulthood, Aladar (D. B. Sweeney), who, judging from his teeth, turns out to be a plant-eater, is as much a family member to Yar and Plio (Alfre Woodard) as their own lemur-children, Zini (Max Casella) and Suri (Hayden Panettiere). Their idyllic lifestyle is brought to an abrupt end, however, when a meteor strike reduces their tropical paradise to a barren wasteland (this sequence, incidentally, is another incredible feat of animation). Soon they must begin the long, hot trek across the desert, in search of the more hospitable "mating grounds."

Anyone who has seen 1988's Land will not fail to notice the similarity of the storyline: Meek, friendly dino leads inter-species group across desert against overwhelming odds, dodging carnivorous attacks and other hardships, in search of fertile, green pastures and water. But there are also some things that don't make much sense. The creatures are dying of thirst and begging for water, but when it finally rains, they don't cheer and raise their open mouths to the heavens, they seek shelter in a cave where they can stay warm and dry. Then, after this torrential rainstorm passes, they are suddenly trekking through the dry, hot desert again, crying for water. Also, inexplicably, the issue of food is never mentioned. They thirst, and eventually they drink, but no creature in the film ever mentions hunger or is seen eating (except the carnivores, who do not speak).

Added to these and other lapses in logic, there are the traditional Disney plot elements: the inter-species fraternization, the protagonist's seemingly unattainable love interest (Julianna Margulies), the theme that hope triumphs over adversity, etc. It's all pretty standard. Without the incredible animation (and the majestic musical score by James Newton Howard, which also deserves credit), Dinosaur would be a pretty undistinguished effort; still, resting solely on those factors it doesn't do too badly. ★★★★

GONE IN 60 SECONDS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:58 - Re-Released 9/1/00
(Originally Reviewed 6/15/00)

Gone In 60 Seconds is the kind of movie that makes you embarrassed for the actors. You watch it in the same way you watch a bully pick on the school geek; you cringe with sympathetic humiliation, you don't want to be witness to the ugly spectacle, but you're entranced by some kind of morbid fascination, knowing the next line will make you groan even louder. This film is supposed to be sexy and action-packed; instead, it's vapid, ill-conceived, and gut-wrenchingly pretentious.

Gone is loosely based on the 1974 German film Die Blegh-Piraten, which was more about smashing cars than stealing them (93 cars were reportedly crashed within its 97-minute running time). Perhaps that film's charm was based on the fact that it didn't try to be intelligent. Written by Scott Michael Rosenberg, creator of High Fidelity (good) and Disturbing Behavior (bad), and Toby Halicki, who had a part in writing the 1974 smash-up version, Gone tries to convince us that "Memphis" Raines (Nicolas Cage) and his crew are smart, glamorous, professional car thieves, full of wit and savvy, but Rosenberg's script and Dominic Sena's sophomoric directing hamstring any credibility the actors can muster.

Memphis and his whole gang, which includes Robert Duvall, Angelina Jolie, and Will Patton, have gotten out of the car-stealing racket and gone clean. But when Memphis's younger brother Kip (Giovanni Ribisi) gets himself in too deep, they must all go back into the business to save him. Super-baddie Raymond Colitri (Christopher Eccleston) has ordered 50 cars, including everything from reconditioned vintage sports models to brand-new minivans. If he doesn't get them in 3 days, Kip will be executed. The standard contract. None of Cage's reformed criminals seems very reluctant to jump back into a life of crime, but they each say a few unconvincing lines about having retired before they start the job. Soon they're all scouting out the cars, giving them women's names (ugh), and not only do they have the deadline to deal with, but they are constantly fending off attacks from another car-theft mob and eluding Memphis's old nemesis, Det. Roland Castlebeck (Delroy Lindo).

One thing kept crossing my mind during this scenario: do the cars still count if you total them before they're shipped off to the buyer? Being shot at, driving them through plate glass windows, jumping them over a quarter-mile-long line of stopped traffic . . . doesn't this kind of behavior decrease their possible selling price? But I can understand why the actors weren't paying attention to their driving — they were probably too horrified at the stupidity of the script to watch the road. Okay, okay, I can admit there are some fun chases, but talking to dashboards, stroking fenders, using War's "Low Rider" as a meditation piece, and reguarly referring to the automobiles as "ladies"? Please. I was getting carsick after 20 minutes, and I was sitting still. ★½

GOD'S SIMPLE PLAN OF SALVATION

My Friend, We are asking you the most important question of life. Your joy or your sorrow for all eternity depends upon your answer. The question is: Are you saved? It is not a question of how good you are, nor if you are a church member, but are you saved? Are you absolutely sure you will go to Heaven when you die?

God says in order to go to Heaven, you must be born again. In John 3:7, Jesus said to Nicodemus, "Ye must be born again." In the Bible God gives us the plan of how to be born again which means to be saved. His plan is simple! You can be saved today. How?

First, my friend, you must realize you are a sinner. "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). Because you are a sinner, you are condemned to death. "For the wages [payment] of sin is death" (Romans 6:23). This includes eternal separation from God in Hell ". .. it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment" (Hebrews 9:27).

But God loved you so much He gave His only begotten Son, Jesus, to bear your sin and die in your place, ". .. He hath made Him [Jesus, Who knew no sin] to be sin for us ... that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him" (2 Corinthians 5:21).

Jesus had to shed His blood and die. "For the life of the flesh is in the blood" (Leviticus 17:11). "...without shedding of blood is no remission [pardon]" (Hebrews 9:22). "But God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8). Although we cannot understand how, God said my sins and your sins were laid upon Jesus and He died in our place. He became our substitute. It is true. God cannot lie.

My friend, "God now commandeth all men everywhere to repent" (Acts 17:30). This repentance is a change of mind that agrees with God that one is a sinner, and also agrees with what Jesus did for us on the Cross. In Acts 16:30-31, the Philippian jailer asked Paul and Silas: ". ..'Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" And they said, 'Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved...." Simply believe on Him as the one who bore your sin, died in your place, was buried, and whom God resurrected. His resurrection powerfuliy assures that the believer can claim everlasting life when Jesus is received as Savior. "But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name" (John 1:12). "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Romans 10:13). Whosoever includes you. Shall be saved means not maybe, nor can, but shall be saved. Surely, you realize you are a sinner. Right now, wherever you are, repenting, lift your heart to God in prayer. In Luke 18:13, the sinner prayed: "God be merciful to me a sinner."

Just pray: "Oh, God, I know I am a sinner. I believe Jesus was my substitute when He died on the Cross. I believe His shed blood, death, burial, and resurrection were for me. I now receive Him as my Savior. I thank You for the forgiveness of my sins, the gift of salvation and everlasting life, because of Your merciful grace. Amen."

Just take God at His word and claim His salvation by faith. Believe, and you will be saved. No church, no lodge, no good works can save you. Remember, God does the saving. All of it! God's simple plan of salvation is: You are a sinner. Therefore, unless you believe on Jesus Who died in your place, you will spend eternity in Hell. If you believe on Him as your crucified, buried, and risen Savior, you receive forgiveness for all of your sins and His gift of eternal salvation by faith.

You say, "Surely it cannot be that simple." Yes, that simple! It is scriptural. It is God's plan. My friend, believe on Jesus and receive Him as Savior today. If His plan is not perfectly clear, read this article over and over, without laying it down until you understand it. Your soul is worth more than all the world. "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" (Mark 8:36). Be sure you are saved. If you lose your soul, you miss Heaven and lose all. Please! Let God save you this very moment. God's power will save you, keep you saved, and enable you to live a victorious Christian life. "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, Who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it" (1 Cor. 10:13).

Do not trust your feelings. They change. Stand on God's promises. They never change. After you are saved, there are three things to practice daily for spiritual growth: Pray - you talk to God. Read your Bible - God talks to you. Witness - you talk for God.

You should be baptized in obedience to the Lord Jesus Christ as a public testimony of your salvation, and then unite with a Bible-believing church without delay. "Be not thou therefore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord ..." (2 Timothy 1:8). "Whosoever therefore shall confess [testify of] Me before men, him will confess also before My Father which is in heaven" (Matthew 10:32). - Ford Porter

Maryland Ranks Among Best In USA In Battling Substance Abuse

By Mark K. Matthews
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland was one of the 10 best states in the nation in the battle against alcohol and drug abuse among people 12 and over in 1999, according to a survey released this week by the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS).

The findings also show that Maryland has the smallest percentage of binge drinkers for that same group, at 15.3 percent, and one of the lowest smoking rates in the nation.

"It's very nice to hear that we're ranked where we are and the hard work of people is paying off," said Erin Artigiani, the coordinator of Maryland's Drug Early Warning System, a state-supported initiative.

Artigiani cited current efforts to track the spread of the designer drug Ecstasy as an example of Maryland's success in combating alcohol and drug abuse. But she and other state officials said it is not just marketing and public education that is making the difference in Maryland. They credit a combination of law enforcement, treatment, and prevention as the reason for the state's ranking.

Nationally, drug abuse remained level between 1997 and 1999, the years looked at by the survey. But a steady drop in drug use among 12- to 17-year-olds during that period was offset by a rise in drug use in the next age bracket, those ages 18 to 25.

Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala attributed the nationwide spike in drug use in that age group to a failure to reach that generation with an anti-drug message. She emphasized the need to reach young people to prevent experimentation that could lead to lifelong habits.

This age group was a problem spot in Maryland as well. In contrast to its overall low national ranking, the state was in the second-highest tier for illicit drug dependence among 18- to 25-year-olds. Marylanders in that age group were also in the middle tier for marijuana use.

Artigiani said the rise in drugs among this age group could be attributed to the spread of "club" drugs to a more general population.

Still, state officials were heartened by the overall numbers for Maryland.

Cpl. Rob Moroney, a spokesman for Maryland State Police, said D.A.R.E. — the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program — could account for some of the difference. But he echoed Artigiani's opinion of a united state effort.

"It's a collection of Maryland government agencies working together to ensure Marylanders' health and well-being is of good standing," Moroney said.

The survey showed that Maryland finished in the lowest tier nationwide for smoking in all age groups. Maryland also did better than the national average for youth smoking, with 13.8 percent of the state's 12- to 17-year-olds smoking compared to 15.9 percent nationally.

The 1999 National Household Survey is an expanded version of prior attempts by DHHS to track drug, alcohol, and cigarette patterns nationally. The new format surveyed about 70,000 people, and its revised structuring now allows for state-by-state age comparisons in addition to better geographic analysis.

Shalala said this new survey will "provide parents, governors, and future administrators with a better, more powerful tool."

SMITH FOUNDATION SUPPORTS LIBRARY - Among the many beneficiaries of the Stanley P. Smith Family Foundation this year is the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library organization, which was awarded $1,000 to assist the library in its efforts to promote children's love of reading. According to Cathy Ashby, library director, the grant will help launch the library's Book Talk program, whereby library personnel will preview a range of books for county children in schools and in various library-based programs. The funds will be used to purchase a digital camera and photo-smart printer so that children can be photographed as they read. The photos can then be printed as reading certificates, which will be awarded to the children. "In this way, a child's interest in reading can be reinforced immediately, and the moment can be shared with friends and family," stated Ashby. Once library personnel have been trained with the new technology, the camera will be lent to responsible local non-profit agencies. Pictured from left above are: Marilyn Moors of the Friends, Ashby, and Jon Boone and Cosette Harman, also of the Friends.

Antiques by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Light fixtures and lamps have changed dramatically in the past 100 years. The earliest electric lamps were designed to look like the candlesticks and kerosene lamps they replaced. The early-1900s home had table lamps with colored-glass shades that could use only small-watt bulbs because a heat buildup would damage the glass.

Arts and Crafts lamps were usually designed to focus the light down toward the table top. Shades were made of mica, metal or wood, with little glass and also made of dark material.

The Art Deco period had floor lamps that flooded the ceiling with light. By the 1930s, new bulbs made unusual lamps possible. Poul Henningsen of Denmark was an industrial designer who worked with lighting. He searched for a way to make chandeliers and lamps create a diffused light with minimal shadows. In 1925, he designed his first lamps. One of his most famous chandeliers, made in 1958, used flat "plates" or shutters for shades. Each copper "plate" both reflected and diffused the light. The lamp, called "Kogle" in Denmark, is known as the "Artichoke" lamp in the United States.

Q: My antique clock has a case that is made of cast iron. The grapes and grapevines remind me of the iron garden furniture that's popular today. The clock case is painted red and gold. The clock is marked "American Clock Company." It is dated 1850.

A: Iron clock cases were first made about 1850. Many were made by C.N. Muller of New York. He made cases for many companies, including American, Waterbury and Jerome. A working clock like yours is worth about $500.

SQUEAKS AND CREAKS: FLOORBOARDS

Q. There's a loose, squeaky floorboard in front of my kitchen sink that drives me mad every time I stand there to do dishes. Any way to fix it? — Felicity D., Carrollton, Ga.

A. Moisture, resulting from a leak in the kitchen plumbing, could be damaging the flooring. So, before spending time trying to fix the squeak, check underneath the sink (and underneath the house) for leaks and rule them out.

Once you've fixed any potential water problems, and if damage is minor (or nonexistent), address the floorboard.

Most minor squeaks in floors and stairs are caused by loose nails rubbing back and forth inside the holes they were driven into. The first thing you should do to fix the squeak is to grab your stethoscope. What, you don't have one? Then use a short length of garden hose instead. Hold one end to your ear and the other to the floor, and have someone step repeatedly on the noisy floorboard until you've pinpointed the loose area.

If you can access the area from the basement or crawlspace, you can make a pretty solid repair. Take a wood shim shingle and apply carpenter's glue to the thin end. Place the thin end in the squeaky spot, between the floor joist (the crossbeam underneath the flooring) and the wood floor, and tap the shingle into place with a hammer.

The floor can be repaired from the top, if you don't have access to the underside. Many home repair specialists recommend driving a nail through the floorboard and into the joist, but a long construction screw may anchor the board better. Pinpoint the loose area, then drill a pilot hole through the floor (and the carpet and pad, if any) and the joist. Next, drive the screw through the pilot hole. If you're working on a hardwood floor, make sure to recess (countersink) the screw slightly and fill the area with wood putty.

Sometimes, even after reattaching the floorboard to the joist, the squeaks continue. This signals a shift or settling in the foundation. Settling can be minor, and squeaks can be controlled by inserting a shim shingle between the nearest floor beam and the top of the underpinning post. But if this doesn't stop the noise, or you notice warning signs like warped or deteriorating wood, get in touch with a contractor.

Pet Care by Peter Edwards

Phil from New Jersey says his uncle is a heavy smoker and he is afraid that his uncle's two dogs, both 12 years old, are at risk from secondhand smoke. Uncle Jerry says that's nonsense. Nephew Phil, however, would like to know if he has any grounds for concern for his uncle's pets.

I checked with one of our health writers at King Features, and this is the gist of what she had to say:

First, Phil should worry about everyone in Uncle Jerry's presence when he puffs away. Passive or secondhand smoke has been linked to various types of cancers in human beings, including cervical cancer in women. (The smoke, with its cargo of carcinogens — cancer-causing agents — is drawn into the lungs and then carried by blood vessels to various parts of the body. The reproductive system seems to be especially susceptible to carcinogens.) Children in homes with smokers develop more respiratory problems than youngsters in smoke-free environments.

Second, many veterinarians have reported finding a high level of problems with birds, dogs and cats in smoking households. These include respiratory problems in both the feathered and furry residents. The latter also tend to develop tumors and cataracts.

And, last — but certainly not least — Phil should encourage Uncle Jerry to have a thorough physical examination. And, of course, he should be persuaded to stop smoking.

Peter Edwards can be reached via email at letters.kfws@hearstsc.com or via snail mail at King Features Weekly Service, 628 Virginia Drive, Orlando FL 32803.

WEPCO Names Willis Keyser Branch Manager

The management and board of directors of WEPCO Federal Credit Union have announced the appointment of Denise L. Willis as the branch manager for the credit union's new Keyser, W.Va., office.

Willis has been the receptionist at WEPCO's main office in Bloomington since 1996, after being promoted from a part-time teller position for which she was hired earlier in the year. Her promotion to branch manager officially took place on August 1, with the beginning of her training as manager. She will continue her training at the main office in Bloomington until construction is complete on the new branch facility.

Willis is a 1991 graduate of Keyser High School and continued her education at Potomac State College and West Virginia University. She is the fiancée of Charles Junkins Jr., and daughter of Ronald and Barbara Willis, Keyser.

WEPCO Federal Credit Union's Keyser branch office is expected to be completed near the end of October. The branch is located along U.S. Route 220 South, directly across from Burger King in Keyser. The office will be full-service with a teller line, three drive-up lanes, loan officers, drive-up ATM (no surcharges for any card), plus safe deposit boxes. The main office of the credit union is located in Bloomington, with another branch office located in Oakland.

TRANQUILITY AND SERENITY can be found many places in Garrett County, including Accident Town Park, where these three feathered friends appear to be enjoying the stillness, and a lone picnic table seems to be summoning a family with a lunch basket. After a wet and rather chilly summer, and with children back in school, it seems that the truly pleasant weather has finally arrived. The warm temperatures will no doubt be short-lived, however, as already one can spot twinges of color in the treetops. Cooler, less humid conditions are predicted for the next several days, with a chance of showers for tonight, Friday, and Saturday. Most of Garrett County was spared from the huge deluge of rain that flooded parts of downtown Cumberland Tuesday evening. Photo by John McEwen.

Biker-Friendly Efforts Continue In Garrett Co.

The Garrett County commissioners heard a report this week from Carl Rebele, a representative of the Maryland Bicycle and Pedestrian Advisory Committee (MBPAC), concerning ongoing improvement projects on county and state roadways in regard to bicycle traffic.

Representatives of the State Highway Administration (SHA) held a tour of potential bicycle projects in the area last month. Those in attendance were Rebele and state roads staff members Parker Williams, Fred Crozier, George Small, Bill Park, and Harvey Muller. The purpose of the tour was to review potential projects that were suggested for the Retrofit Bicycle Program.

A number of sites were visited by the officials, Rebele reported. They discussed the situation along Rt. 219 in McHenry, and Crozier suggested that the SHA consider a "streetscape" project there. SHA owns a substantial amount of right-of-way in the area,

SHS VICA WINS 1ST AT NATIONALS - Southern High School students Katie Steyer and Billy Martin, who won first place in Occupational Health and Safety at the National SkillsUSA-VICA competitions held in Kansas City, Mo., in June, were honored by the Garrett County Board of Education this week. Martin and Steyer won the top award for the notebook they submitted which documented the four safety projects they completed during the school year. The book recorded safety inspections, industrial tours, fire safety, and shop safety activities. Having taken first place in the state competitions in March, Steyer and Martin earned their shot at the national prize, which also required an interview by the team of judges. In the photo from left are board of education president Rodney Durst, Martin, Steyer, school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets, and Loren Bowser, advisor to the SHS SkillsUSA-VICA team. Eric Tressler, not pictured, earned third place at the national contest in the related technical math category.

Garrett Airport Receives Grant Of $143,100

The United States Department of Transportation has announced that it will award over $700,000 in grants to two airports in western Maryland. The Garrett County airport in McHenry is one of the recipients, and is to receive $143,100, according to an announcement made this week by Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes.

The grant money is to be used to fund the drafting of a plan to enlarge the airport runway from 3,000 feet to 5,000 feet. The plan will also include engineering and environmental assessments of the airport, according to the press release from the senators' offices.

At last month's county staff meeting with the commissioners, Gary Mullich, general services director, announced that the grant would most likely be awarded to the local facility. He said the work has already started at the airport, with required aerial photography under way.

County officials have been trying for several years to obtain funding to improve the local airport, and this grant award is part of a several-year process to do so. The commissioners and Mullich have often discussed the economic importance of improving the airport to enable it to handle heavier, larger air traffic.

The management at the local airport was recently taken over by John and Caroline Hill.

The other facility to receive funding is the Frederick Municipal Airport.

September Grand Jury Convenes, Tours County Courthouse, Jail

The September Term Grand Jury of Garrett County convened last week for two days and visited the courthouse and jail. The jurors heard presentations from Sheriff P.R. Sanders and Cheryl Uphold, deputy treasurer.

Eleven indictments were returned by the jury. The report of three cases can be found in today's issue. Information about the remaining will appear as the indictment documents are served on the defendants.

Courthouse, Jail

The jurors reported that the courthouse overall "seems to be in good repair."

Captain Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office gave the tour of the detention center. The jury report states that members felt the jail is overcrowded, as inmates are sleeping on army cots. The report also notes that the control room is the only way to access the holding cell and inmate area. With regard to security, jurors felt another entrance is needed to bring inmates in.

The kitchen is small with limited storage, according to the report, which also states that the facility appears well-maintained and efficiently operated.

The grand jury has recommended that the Garrett County commissioners continue to plan for a larger detention facility in the near future. Jurors said they were pleased to see such a plan as a line item in the current fiscal year, 5-year capital plan, as recommended by a prior grand jury.

Sanders met with the grand jury and explained the operations of his agency. Officers do road patrol, criminal investigations, drug task force investigations,

Three Indicted By Grand Jury Are Arrested

Deputies with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI) arrested three men this week who were indicted by the September Term Grand Jury. The jury returned 11 indictments last week.

Arrested were Ricky Alan Vecchioni Jr., 20, Roger Dwayne Knox, 39, Accident, and Donald Wayne Liller, 37, of near Bloomington.

Vecchioni was charged on Monday with first degree burglary and two counts of attempted motor vehicle theft.

Judge James Sherbin arraigned Vecchioni, holding him on $50,000 bond. The defendant is already incarcerated, serving a prior sentence.

The burglary Vecchioni is accused of took place in June at a residence along Pennington Street in Oakland. After escaping from the Garrett County jail, the defendant apparently broke into the house and proceeded to take a vehicle from the driveway. He was apprehended a short time later.

Vecchioni still faces the escape charge from this incident. State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch said she will seek to have the charg-

Man Given Six Years For Forged Check Uttering

Following a jury trial Monday in Garrett County Circuit Court, Judge James Sherbin sentenced Christopher Acheson Beitzel, 20, to six years in the Department of Corrections for a charge of uttering a forged check. Two other men were also sentenced to jail time for various charges.

Beitzel had originally gone to trial for forgery and uttering charges related to seven separate checks, according to a report from the state's attorney's office. Only one count each of for-

BOE Recognizes VICA Winners, Discusses Programs Of Study

The first item on the agenda this week for the Garrett County Board of Education was recognition of students from Southern and Northern high schools who won national awards at the SkillUSA-VICA competitions. Board members also reviewed programs of studies in life skills, computer studies, health, and social studies.

Students Honored

SkillsUSA-VICA members from Southern and Northern high schools participated in the national competitions this summer, which were held in Kansas City, Mo. All of the Garrett County students who participated earned awards. "Of the six students who competed, five won eighth place or better," Loren Bowser, SHS SkillsUSA-VICA advisor, told the board.

Bowser, who accompanied the students to the competitions, introduced them at Tuesday night's meeting of the BOE. Southern High School students Katie Steyer and Billy Martin, state champions, won first place in the Occupational Health and Safety category. "Billy competed at the nationals last year and won a third place. He made it his goal to return and win first," Bowser said.

Northern High School students Laurie Beth Lewis and Josh Hook were honored by the board for their success at the national competition. Both Hook and Lewis took eighth places — Lewis in action skills demonstration and Hook in job skills demonstration.

Life Skills Program Reviewed

Special education supervisor Jennifer Kotulak presented to the board the Life Skills Program of Studies for students age 5 through 21. The program was developed for special education students for whom the Maryland Learning Outcomes are "inappropriate," Kotulak explained, adding the alternative life skill outcomes help students refine skills to function as contributing members of society.

Developing this program defines the standards to be met in content and individual skill areas. "This will help parents to know what we will expect from special education students and it will help teachers in planning lessons," Kotulak said.

The life skills program was developed by a team of educators from the county's elementary, middle, and

Visitors From Estonia Greeted In Grantsville

Mayors from five municipalities in Estonia, visiting western Maryland this week to tour sister cities established through the Maryland National Guard Partnership for Peace project, were welcomed in Grantsville Wednesday and presented with an itinerary of activities.

The visit started with a "taste of America" style picnic at Grantsville Community Park on Wednesday evening. Co-sponsored by Oakland and Grantsville, the event featured a pig roast by Yoder's Meat Packers, plus corn on the cob roasted in the husk over an open fire. Local guests also served a variety of covered dishes plus soft drinks and draft beer were.

The Men of Accord entertained the group with traditional American tunes in barbershop harmonies. Among the honored guests from Estonia were mayors Vaino Toemets of Torva, Voldemar Nellis of Tapa City, Peep Aru of Viljandi, Margus Lepik of Valga City, and Riho Raave of Otepaa, plus Dr. Ain Kalmaru, director of the Estonia Association of Cities and Katri-Liis Lepik, translater for the association.

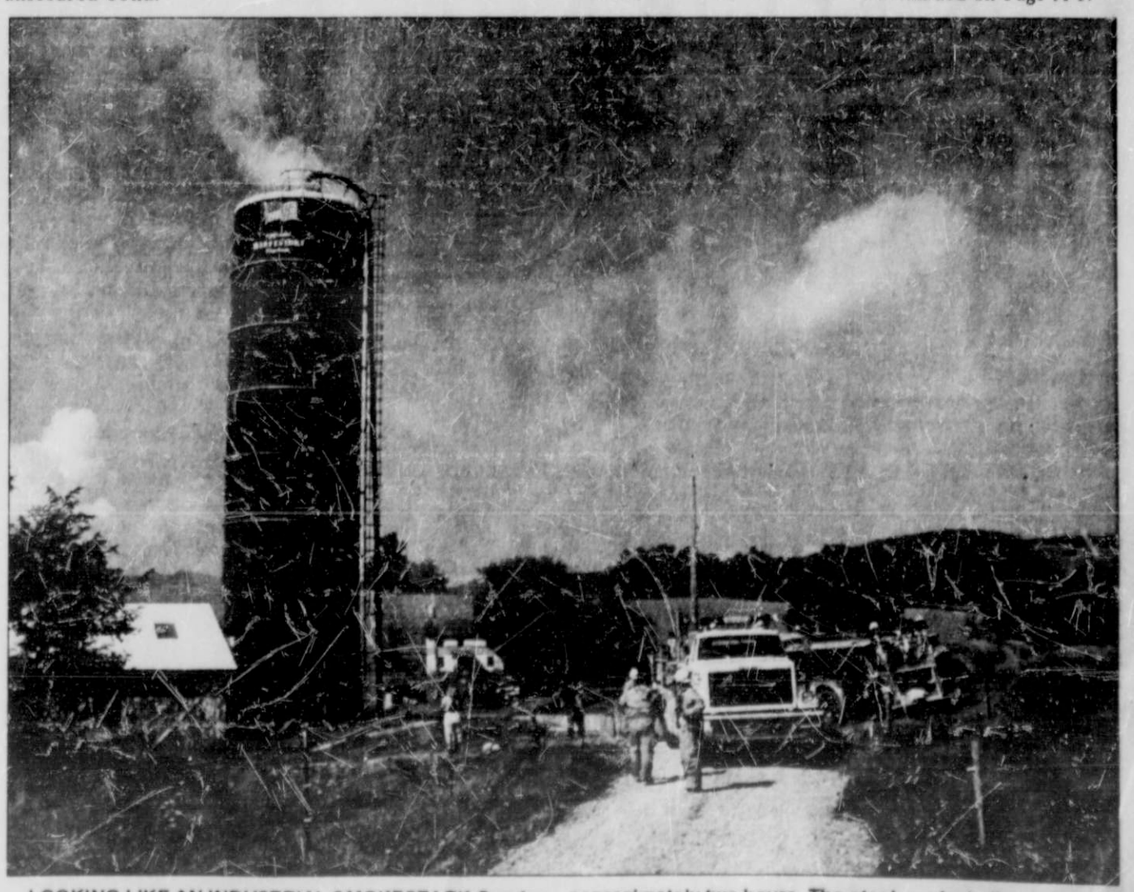
Narcotics Task Force Makes Bust In Eastern GC

The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force arrested a resident of the Lonaconing area of the county Friday after a large patch of marijuana plants were located near his home.

Galen Gerrard Kamp, 38, faces charges of manufacturing marijuana, possession with intent to distribute marijuana, and possession of marijuana. The local Task Force, composed of law enforcement officers detailed from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the McHenry Barracks of the Maryland State Police, along with officers from Allegany County's Narcotics Task Force and investigators from the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, located approximately 58 marijuana plants ranging from 6 to 10 feet in height.

Kamp was taken before a district court commissioner and released on a $2,000 unsecured bond.

SKIMMING ACROSS THE WATER, local water skier Sam Ingram is pictured rounding the turn 3 buoy at 34 miles per hours during last month's National Slalom Water Ski Championship in California. Out of a field of 158 competitors in his division, Ingram placed in a 13-way tie for 33rd place. The Swanton area resident tallied a score of 1½ @ 38 at the national event. "This year I concentrated on running the 35 off pass consistently, and I accomplished that goal," said Ingram, who resides along Green Glade Cove with his wife Adrienne and their children, Seth and Grace. "My performances continue to improve each year and I'm looking forward to participating in future national events." Ingram is president of the Deep Creek Lake Water Sports Club. See story in today's sports section.



LOOKING LIKE AN INDUSTRIAL SMOKESTACK Sunday morning was this silo on the farm of Charles Wildesen, King Wildesen Road, after natural chemical reactions in the enclosed silage resulted in a fire. Volunteer firefighters from Gorman, Bayard, Oakland, and Deer Park departments responded to the 10:11 a.m. alarm and stood by for approximately two hours. The steel, ceramic-lined silo was unharmed, so the loss was confined to the contents. Also responding to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad and the county air cascade unit, housed at the Deep Creek VFC. There were no injuries.

Estonian Foundations Help Support Garrett CC's New Estonian Students

The Garrett Community College Foundation announced this week that donations have been received from two Estonian foundations based in the United States that will benefit Estonian students attending GCC. The Estonian-Revelia Academic Fund has donated $2,500, and the Estonian World Council has donated $2,000. Both groups also expressed intentions to increase their donations if Garrett is able to bring more Estonian students to the college. The GCC board of trustees has authorized scholarships for up to 10 Estonian students.

"I made a cold call to these two foundations," GCC president Dr. Steve Herman commented as he expressed the college's gratitude. "In three days representatives visited the campus, heard about our program, and made pledges. We are very grateful for this kind of commitment from the Estonian-American community."

Established in 1952, the Estonian World Council is an umbrella organization representing the interests of Estonians in member countries of the U.S, Canada, Sweden, England, Germany, Australia, France, Belgium, Latvia, Lithuania, the Ukraine, and Russia. Its purpose is to educate those respective governments and legislatures concerning issues and problems of Estonia and its scattered people. Over the last 10 years the EWCI has provided over $300,000 in scholarship funds to over 250 Estonian students studying in Estonia and overseas.

The Estonian-Revelia Academic Fund was established in 1994 by Harold Raudsepp, long-time editor of the Estonian language weekly newspaper Vaba Eesti Sona. (Free Estonian Word). The Fund is registered in the state of Maryland as a charitable, tax-exempt private foundation. In his last will and testament Raudsepp left his entire estate to the fund, with instructions that the investment income be used for scholarships for worthy students seeking a higher education in Estonia.

GCC's initiative is part of a statewide effort, led by the Maryland National Guard, to support the efforts of the Estonian people to rebuild their nation after nearly 50 years of Soviet occupation. GCC president Dr. Steve Herman and town mayors Asa McCain of Oakland, Gerry Beachy of Grantsville, and John Bambacus of Frostburg recently visited Estonia as part of the effort. "All parties are hopeful that a developing and lasting friendship will emerge between Maryland and the Republic of Estonia," said Herman.

OTT Announces New Dates For Play Seascape

Because of construction work being done at Our Town Theatre (OTT) in Oakland, the opening of the play Seascape has been moved to a later date. Tentatively, the show dates are now slated for Sept. 29 and 30 and Oct. 1, with all shows beginning at 8 p.m. This schedule is subject to change.

Ben Sincell, technical director of the theatre, reported that he and George Scheffel, among others, are currently building and installing a steel grid in the ceiling area of the theatre. This will allow for the hanging of lighting instruments, Sincell said. However, delays in the project have required the board of directors to rearrange the fall production schedule.

For information about Seascape or any other shows or events at OTT, persons may call the theatre at 301-334-5640.

Gun Theft Nets Oakland Man Year Jail Term

An Oakland man received a one-year jail sentence after he pleaded guilty in his Garrett County District Court trial to the July theft of a rifle from a Deer Park residence.

Christopher Acheson Beitzel, 20, was handed the sentence by Judge Ralph M. Burnett. Beitzel had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in the wake of a short investigation by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. He was accused of stealing a .303-caliber British Enfield rifle from the home of an acquaintance, and selling it shortly afterward for approximately $400.

In other district court news, another Oakland man was convicted on a theft charge that stemmed from his March arrest by the Oakland City Police.

Randy Lee Walters, 18, pleaded guilty to felony theft and destruction of property and received a 90-day suspended sentence, two years of supervised probation, and 150 hours of community service, as well as an order to pay a total of more than $2,000 in restitution to four victims.

Over three separate occasions last winter Beitzel vandalized 10 parking meters in downtown Oakland and removed approximately $300 in coins before he threw several of the meters into the Little Yough River. He also spray-painted graffitti on the Peters Fuel Company Building along Route 39, the Naylor's garage along Pennington Street, a Coca-Cola vending machine along Center Street, and a portion of the Second Street sidewalk.

Robert Francis Voras Jr., 50, Center Point, W.Va., was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) after he pleaded guilty to a possession of marijuana charge, while a stet ruling was issued on a related handgun violation. Voras received a 30-day sentence, all but one day of which was suspended, was fined $50, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service. He was also required to forfeit a handgun that he had been carrying on his person at the time of his arrest.

Voras was arrested by state troopers in June in the wake of a traffic stop along Interstate 68. When a trooper noted a dashboard sign in Voras's truck that made a reference to carrying ammunition, he questioned the defendant and asked for consent to search the vehicle. Two boxes containing suspected marijuana and pipes bearing suspected marijuana residue were located, as well as a .22-caliber pistol. After the trooper pointed out several rounds of .38-caliber ammunition that were lying on the floorboard, Voras turned over a second handgun that he had been carrying in the waistband of his pants.

Kenneth James Klein, 20, Morgantown, W.Va., and Karl Bittinger Foster, 21, Shepherdstown, W.Va., were each handed a PBJ after they both pleaded guilty to marijuana possession. Each subject was also handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $200, and placed on six months' supervised probation. Additional charges of drug paraphernalia possession were not prosecuted against the pair.

The men were arrested by state troopers after an April traffic stop along I-68. Foster, the passenger in a vehicle driven by Klein, voluntarily produced two bags of suspected marijua-

Changes Of Office Hours Noted By P.O.

The office hours at the Oakland, Deer Park, and Mtn. Lake Park post offices have been changed. Postmaster Ken Perrin announced the changes last week, and the new hours took effect Monday.

The Mtn. Lake Park branch will close for lunch from 1 until 2 p.m. each day. Saturday hours will remain, but will end at 11:30 a.m. rather than noon.

Oakland's window hours will be reduced on Saturday as well, closing at noon instead of 1 p.m. During the week, the Oakland window will be closed at 5 p.m. rather than 5:30.

Perrin said revenue shortfalls in the United States Postal Service are the cause of the shortened service hours. He said the new schedule will cause the least disturbance to the clientele.

"We have been keeping track of the number of customers during these times over the past month, and it would seem these cuts would have a minimal impact on our customers," Perrin said, adding that the changes will have a "dramatic impact" on the post office budget, but will still enable the staff to serve the community's needs.

The new hours at the offices are as follows: Oakland, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., and on Saturday, 8 a.m. until noon. Mtn. Lake Park, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., and on Saturday, 8 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

In Deer Park, the office will be open from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. Monday-Friday, and will be closed on Saturday.

Driver Arrested For Possessing Concealed Gun

A West Virginia man, stopped by Maryland State Police while traveling along I-68 last Sunday, was charged with possessing a concealed weapon plus traffic violations. Joseph Vincent DiPaula, 20, of Hedgesville was westbound on the Interstate near the Casselman River at 11 a.m. when he was stopped for driving 91.8 mph, according to the report filed by Tfc. J. LeMay.

After stopping DiPaula, LeMay said he noticed a bulge on the right hip of the driver beneath his shirt and located a Taurus 9 mm handgun. LeMay seized the weapon and placed DiPaula under arrest.
